To the "Class of '93" Mr. Wm. F Wheatley responded in rhetorical sentences that delighted all. He said "Graduation is the Rubicon of youth past which is manhood's stern estate and sterner duties. It is the demarcation line, on one side of which are safe guidance and kind advice and on the other self-reliance and labor." The speaker then hastily pursued an history of his class, later referring in very well pronounced encomiums of Bros. Maurice and Joseph, closing as follows: "To my classmates I wish to express sincere wish that they may ever successful—distinguished in all they undertake-may they merit the respect and esteem of all who may know them, and as the 'Big Seven;' may they form a Pleiades, among the many stars who already unite to worthily

Dead indeed would be the spirit of honor feel did I not reply to it with a sincere feeling of gratitude. The Ladies-Earth treading stars, that render dark heaven bright." After taking examples of womanly worth, from Ruth, Rachael, and Hagar, the speaker next turned to Science, Art and Poetry, and showed how woman mastered all. "Remember too, that Mrs. Browning tuned her harp to the key of the Muses and sang a sweeter song than the poet-laureate Joan of Arc, the peerless heroine, quivering at the stake at Rouen; Mary, the matchless princess and martyr, uttering her last feeble prayer in the gray morning light at Frotheringay; Marie Antoinette, the noble daughter of France; and Isabella, "the sweet, lovable, woman;" cast a golden hue over the annals of time which will brighten to all eternity. Today we halt at their conquests, bow to their patriotism and loyalty, cherish their memory, and honor them as sainted effusions of womaniy resoluteness yet feminine tenderness." After touching on woman's influence on society and morality, Mr. Harn concluded as follows: "Then let ns render to woman all the glory and honor due her; let us hallow her as she stands in Miltonic grandeur and Angelic purity,-one of the ennobing and wost enduring examples of love, honor, truth

The difference between the two styles of games in this country and England is, "If you can't kick the ball, kick the man," with us it is 'If you can't kick the man, kick the ball." Can prize-fighting or glove contests, condemned by all decent people, forbidden in every State of the Union, compare to it in its demoralizing effect, to say nothing of casualities. Prize-fights are confined to men not recognized in decent society. Foot-ball is played by our "boys". It should be prohibited in our schools, condemned by statute. Those great guardians of the morals of the community, our newspapers, should condemn rather then advertise and encourage it. A Mite Society-Something About the Independent Farmer-Other News. READY ROOFING. FLORENCE, Dec. 13.—It has been some time since we have read in your valuable paper any communication from this place, and while we are a people who believe in the old maxim, "speech is silver

THE BEST READY ROOFING in the market, made of two and three ply tarred felt. Between each ply of felt a layer of water-proof cement is forced, the whole being premed through steam rollers of great weight, making a most compact and durable roofing material, which, after being fastened to the roof, is finished by a coating of our ASPHALTUM CEMENT, thereby forming a strictly Water-Proof

Thus, a Good and Substantial roof is obtained, which will last Twenty Years by giving it the same care as is given to tin roofs, and, as a natural consequence, will remain water-proof and fire-proof a greater length of time.

ANY MAN CAN APPLY IT. Any one wanting a Good roof can rely upon my2 and 3-PLY answering the required purpose on a building of any size, whether the roof be flat or steep. As Mite Societies seem to be quite the fad of the day in church work, we would FARMERS can keep the roofs of their DWBLLINGS, BARNS, GRANARIES AND SHEDS in good repair without the aid of the carpenter and at a small expense. like to inform you that we have a flourishing one at Jenning's Chapel, which MECHANICS will find READY ROOFING superior to any in the market, and fill all the requirements of a good roofing felt. organized some months ago, with Mrs. W. S. Black, as president; Mrs. M. D. Crapster, vice-president; Mrs. T. Ward, secretary; and Mrs. J. N. Warfield, RAILROAD COMPANIES can obtain a cheap, durable roof for SHEDS, STATIONS AND RAILROAD BUILDINGS generally. This roof will prove as durable and satisfactory as tin, at much less cost.

ASPHALTUM CEMENT

My Asphaltum Coment is prepared by me ready for use, and put up in 5 and 10 gallon cans and half barrels and barrels, and can be applied by any body, and insures the wearing qualities of the roof, just as metallic paint does tin. The COST of this roof is less than any roof offered to the public, and will outwear many more expensive. It is put up in rolls, each covering 100 square feet, exclusive of two inches allowed for lap, and covering the space of 1,000 shingles, and wrapped and labeled with direc-

While it is perfectly water-proof it is impervious to dampness and will not mildew. It is the best Ready Roof for Railroad Buildings and Sheds, Chemical Works, Laboratories, Factories, Wharf Shedding, Agricultural Works, Farm Houses, Barns, Sheds, Residences and Storehouses.

DIRECTIONS FOR LAYING READY ROOFING.

Commence laying felt across the roof, beginning at eaves or gutter, (if there be any), allowing two (2) inches for every lap, being careful to coat each lap with my Asphaltum Cement. Nail the upper edge to each course with a four penny nail, using tin caps which I furnish, as, washer, being careful not to nail through joints of boards. When finished laying, coat whole roof with Asphaltum Cement and let dry, then apply finishing coat. (8and may be sprinkled in the finishing coat before drying, although it is not necessary to do so with my ASPHALTUM CEMENT—some prefer it).

In conclusion, I desire to say, for the benefit of those who are unacquainted, that it is a perfectly reliable article, its durability and conomy having been thoroughly tested by use. It has the approval and recommendation of all the leading architects and builders. It is nanufactured of materials which have been in use for years and which are conceded to be the best in the world. It is sure protection against lire and water, and costs one-third the price of tin.
