IT IS THE TRUTH.
 That ABE COHEN continues to offer the Greatest Bargains of any merchant in Ellicott City. This store is filled with buyers in these dull times, and that is the proof of his claim. The people here and in other cities are buying his goods because he finds wholesale merchants in Baltimore and other cities crying "hard times" a good deal longer than he heard here and with spot cash he can buy at his own figures what his trade demands. The process is simple and straightforward and the people have the advantage.
HERE IN ELLICOTT CITY
 ABE COHEN'S name is on everybody's tongue. His place is the bargain center. All Goods are warranted as represented or money refunded. Comparisons are invited and his sales always show the Cause for it.

HIS APOLOGY FOR CROSS WORDS.
 It was a Wildcat Scheme, but the Nevada Cowboy Profligated the Lady.
 "On my overland trip to San Francisco I was treated to the exhibition of a rough ranchman put very much on his good behavior," said a New York lady. "We had got out at one of the stations in Nevada for dinner. I have forgotten the name of the place, if ever I noted it, but it wasn't Poverty Flat it was misnamed. Not feeling hungry, I turned back in my chair, idly looking at the distant sand hills through the open window opposite, unmindful of the rattle of knives and plates around me. A rough voice at my very ear startled me from my dream.
 "Here, why the hell don't you pass me the butter?"
 "It came from the nearer one of two stalwart, sunburned men, who seemed to be ranchers or miners. They sat beside me in dusty high top boots and rough peajackets, with their broad, heavy leathern hats on, and were eating as if they had long arrears to make up in the way of square meals.
 "Imagine my astonishment at such a summons, which I made no doubt was addressed to me. But I was too much intimidated to be indignant and merely handed him not only the butter, but everything else within my reach. At this he looked round at me for the first time, and his look of amazement showed that he was worse taken back than I had been. He did not thank me, but took his hat off and put it under his chair, and nudging his companion said in an awestricken stage whisper:
 "I say, Jim, take your hat off. She's a lady."
 "Then, evidently wishing to make further amends for his discourtesy, he again turned to me.
 "Say, marm, hev you ever seen a live wildcat? 'Cause of yer ain't I've got one outside here I caught myself, an' I'll take you out after we get through eatin an show it ter ye."
 "I thanked him and said I would be very glad to see it, as I had never seen one. After dinner, having still 10 minutes to spare, we went to see the wildcat. It was in a rough wooden box with wooden bars, crouching as far back as it could get, with its eyes gleaming like coals of fire. My companion then offered it a piece of meat on the end of a stick, it made a spring that seemed as if it would break through the bars, but the stick had a sharp point that made it heat a hasty retreat, though not before it had secured the above mentioned piece of meat. Its owner told me he had brought it to the station to send it to a friend who kept a "clubhouse," whatever that is, in Carson City. I asked him to tell us how he caught it, but before he could answer the conductor called out, "All aboard!" As the train got under way I looked back and saw my two friends flying across the country on their mustangs."—New York Sun.

Senator Hill's Home.
 Senator Hill's residence on the Rensselaer boulevard, which he purchased last fall from the widow of the hotelier, Emmet, and which for many years was known as the "Emmet" or "Fritz Villa," has recently been rechristened by the senator with the unique and historic name of "Wolbert's Roost." This will strike a great many people as an unknown and peculiar name to give to such a fine residence and magnificent grounds as now constitute Senator Hill's home on the outskirts of Albany. But the name is very familiar to literary men, and especially to readers of Irving's works.—Albany Journal.

In 1300 the giraffe makers' trade was an important industry in every part of Europe. Giraffes were the fashion for ladies, whose position was known as the "giraffe." This article was of leather adorned with gold or precious stones and was often 12 inches wide.

MERCURIAL
 Mr. J. C. Jones, of Fulton, Ark., says of ISSS "I suffered a severe case of blood poisoning, leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with unsatisfactory results, but which brought on an attack of rheumatism that made my life one of agony. After suffering four years I gave up all remedies and commenced using S. S. S. After taking several bottles I was entirely cured and able to resume work. ISSS is the greatest medicine for the market."
