Among the engineers who have projected this great island hotel and will see o its being carried to a successful end, is Mr. J. Clark McGuire, son of State's Attorney Joseph D. McGuire, of this county. Mr. McGuire has already ac quired a national reputation as askilled engineer, and at present occupies the position of Government Superintendent of Construction, at Washington.

This great marine hotel is to be known as "Atlantis," and will, it is estimated, cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. It is to be fitted up with 120 large rooms for boarders, besides having all other luxurious appointments necessary for a first-class summer resort.

The enterprise has been freely and favorably discussed by the New York press and journals in other parts of the country. When completed it will occupy conspicuous place on the role of the great engineering feats of the present

Sunday's Storm.

One of the most welcome 'storms, yet not without serious consequences, visited this section late Sunday afternoon after, thus far, the hottest day of the season. The storm was highly electrical in character and the frequent crashes of lightning near by created a feeling of terror. While the rain came down in torrents here the storm was not of wide extent. The greater portion of Howard county and the counties west and south failed to receive a drop. Where the storm did strike considerable damage was done. Sheriff G. E. Flower, damage was done. Sheriff G. E. Flewer, who drove to Ellicott City Monday, from his home eight miles northwest of wishing to bid can see the papers at the from his home eight miles northwest of here, reported much damage for Sunday's storm. In one locality he encountered fourteen large trees blown across the road, necessitating a circuitous route to reach his destination. This was the result of the high wind and lightning which accompanied the storm. There was also a destructive fall of hail in a narrow belt extending through portions of the Second district, by which the county. the growing corn crop was badly damaged. It is said that on Mt. Hebron farm, belonging to Judge John McShane. many acres planted in sugar corn suffered greatly from the hail. At Pine Orchard the barn of Joseph A. Rhine was struck by lightning, which killed a valuaable young horse. Henry Plunkard's harn was also struck. There was heavy downpour of rain in some locali-St. John's Day at Savage.

St. John's Day was celebrated by the Howard county Masonic order, at Savage, Sixth district of this county, Sunday. The sermon, which was by notices elsewhere. by Rev. Mr. Richardson, of the M. E. In spite of the excessive heat there was a large turnout, and there was no lack of pleasurable features that usually attend these annual gatherings observable in Sunday's reunion. Among the lodges that assembled were Solomon's Lodge, No. 123, of Savage Patmos Lodge, No. 70, of Ellicott City Laurel Wreath Lodge, No. 149, and How ard Lodge, No. 101, of Elkridge. The Ellice it City members were driven

It has been the custom for a long period to hold in June of every year these services at the station of one of the lodges. Next year's services will be held at Ellicott City.

The Oat Crop.

The oat crop in many sections of Howard county, farmers say, promises so far a yield much below the average. In fact, some venture to assert that, from present indications, not more than half a crop can be expected. The trouble is owing to a disease, termed by some as redleaf, or rust. The growing grain is said to have attained only one-half the size it usually has at this season. The affection is supposed to have been caused by the continued rains following seed-

A Fairy Story told in Tableaux. SYKESVILLE, June 26.—Sykesville sustained her reputation for artistic entertainments in a charming representation of the old fairy story of "Cinderella," given in a series of tableaux, at Harris's Hall, on Thursday evening, 21st June. The characters were impersonated by the children of the town and vicinity and a prettier group of pictures it would be hard to find, than those made by the little folk in their quaint dresses-powdered hair, glittering shoe buckles and cavalier cloaks. The story was told from Cinderella's pathetic petition to be allowed to go to the ball; through the enchantment by the fairy godmother; the midnight hour in the ball room, where Cinderella loses her slipper—the search for the owner of the slipper; and finally the wedding. It is hard to discriminate among such a series of beautiful scenes, but some of the most striking ones were, the ball-room scene, all of the characters osed for the "Minuet." (a really artisti picture)-the stroke of midnight, when the prince is discovered with the lost slipper in his hand and all the guests gathered eagerly around;—the scene in which the slipper is placed upon Cinder-ella's foot and "fits"—and finally the wedding scene, a grand finale in which the fairy god-mother appears and gives the young couple her blessing. The children taking part were Miss Mamie Norwood (Cinderella), Master Willie Hepner (Prince), Miss Beulah McCrone (godmother), Misses Beulah Bauer, Gertrude Favour, Elsie Phillinger (sisters), Masters Stanley Harris, Lloyd Macgill and Bert Barnes (courtiers). Each tableau was accompanied by appropriate music. After the tableaux there was an ice cream and cake festival, the whole entertainment being under the auspices of the ladies of the Sykesville Library Association. The result of which has been a gratifying success both artisically and financially The association at a late meeting tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. John Harris for his donation of the hall and to all the other ladies and gentlemen who
