A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are inferesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed aimost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 569 W. Harrison St., Chicago, III.

A DANGEROUS PLIGHT.

One Old Sailor's Exciting Adventure With a Polar Bear In the Cold Regions. There is an old soldier named Jako recently returned to San Francisco from an Arctic cruise, who has made up this mind not to go on another whaling expedition no matter what happens. The reason is this: On one occasion during his late voyage Jake was ox the watch in the lookout cradle at the masthead, and it was night—that is, as much night as it ever gets up there in summer. The sun had been down about an hour and would rise again about an hour later.

It was a beautiful sight as the ship lay there in the ice, and the air seemed scintillating with a phosphorescent glow that penetrated everywhere and made no shadows. On all sides the pack ico lay close to the vessel and reached for miles in every direction, broken oceasionally by a large berg or the faint outlines of another ship. The silence was profound. It seemed to produce a roaring sound like the waves of a distant ocean. Such surroundings will put a person in a semicomatose state, from which the slightest sound will awaken him with a start. Jake suddenly saw something white gone to sleep. Listen, and see if it in the gloom climbing the mast. His first impulse was to jump to the deck, but before he could act upon it the white object climbed through the lubber hole, and Jake then saw it was a polar bear. Jake realized that he was in a most dangerous position and began to think of means to escape. He called to the watch on dcck below, but they couldn't hear. He tried to get out under the canvas, but the beast grabbed him and pulled him back. It began thumping him, and every time Jake attempted to move away it would growl. Suddenly his eyes lighted on a rope hanging to the deck just back of the cradle. By this means he thought he could reach the deck. To swing himself free was but the work of an instant, but the bear made a jump and caught hold of his foot. But a few vigorous kicks freed him, and then began a new terror. Perhaps the rope was not strong and would break, or he might miss the stay and swing against the mast and be dashed to death. The moment in the air seemed years filled with horror, and several times Jake wished he had taken his chances with the bear. To grab the stay and hold on was the most difficult, and twice Jake's hands slipped and almost

When he reached the deck, he looked up and saw the rope swing back to the eradle, where the bear grabbed it. It tried to do as it had seen Jake do, but had no sooner swung clear than it slipped and fell to the deck. The crew had bearsteak for breakfast.—San Francisco

Nitric Acid and Tin.

In a paper read before the London Chemical society by C. H. Walker on the action of nitric acid on tin, some of the prevalent ideas on that subject are shown to be singularly erroneous. that metallic tin dissolves in nitric acid with the production of both a stannous and stannic salt, according to the conditions of temperature and concentration of the acid. In these later experiments stannous salts formed under various conditions of temperature, concentration of acid and mass of tin treated—it is shown that with dilute acids the increase of temperature has but little effect, but with more concentrated acids the effect is more marked, for the alteration of a few more degrees will reduce the amount of stannous salt to nothing, while increase of concentration, other things being equal, decreases the proportion of stannous salt. It is found that the yellowish white substance formed from concentrated solutions is a hydrated stamfic nitrate of varying composition, depending on the time between production and analysis, also on the method of purification adopted for eliminating the nitric acid.—New York Sun.

Dismay In the Diplomatic Quarter. The advance agent of a theatrical company which was to make a visit of three nights in Washington had summonses in legal phraseology prepared and sealed with wax, notifying the receiver that he must appear at the box office and buy at least one ticket of admittance for the play. They were formally addressed and sent by messenger to the prominent people of Washington. A number of foreigners in the diplomatic corps received them, and not understanding the peculiar methods resorted to by the Americans hastened to the secretary of state to demand protection, protesting that they knew nothing of the matter mentioned in the summons, and that it was a breach of national law to arrest an accredited foreign representative.

It required the combined efforts of Secretary Gresham and his several assistant secretaries to explain the thing to the foreigners without hurting their feelings or wounding their dignity.— Washington Letter.

New Readings of Old Proverbs. London Tit-Bits has "twisted" 12 proverbs as follows: "All is not been that's bitter. The pledge in time saves crime. It's the long cane that cures slow learning. She talks most who talks fast. Who can't be cured should be incured. There's many a tip 'twixt the meal and the lip. The nearer the bed the colder the sheet. When the fuel goes into the fire, the fog flies out of the chimney. Marry for taste-man, rather than treasure. Once kitten, now pie. It isn't the scowl that makes one funk. Half a sofa's better than no bed."

Used Visiting Cards First. The Chinese are said to be the originators of visiting cards. So long ago as the period of the Tang dynasty (619-907) visiting cards were known to have been m use in China. From ancient times to the present day the Chinese have observed the strictest ceremony with regard to the paying of visits. The cards which they use for this purpose are large and of a bright red color.—Chicago Rec-

Sir Andrew Clark's Aphorisms, The late Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's physican, made use of the three following aphorisms during a conversa-tion with Miss Frances Willard: "Labor is the life of life." "Ease is the way to disease." "The highest life of an organ lies in the fullest discharge of its functions." There is a feast of food for reflection in these three sentences.

A Watch on the Wall. For many years a silver watch might e seen fastened to the wall of one of the fronts of the inner quadrangle of Somerset House, Londoners used to point it out as having saved the life of its owner when he fell from a scaffold, New York Advertiser. and he placed it there as a testimony.—

A Change. Of the 26 barons who signed the Magna Charta three wrote their names and 23 made their mark. This is all changed now. Every baron can write, but only a few succeed in making their mark. tf Boston Transcript.

The Rock Island Hay Loader proved to be a very happy as well as profitable invo-tment for me, as I never before made hay with as little expense or labor. I would not think of doing without one.
