IT IS THE TRUTH,

That ABE COHEN continues to offer the Greatest Bargains of any merchant in Ellicott City. His store is filled with buyers in these dual times, and that is the proof of his claim. The people are finding out this fact to the advantage of their pocketbooks. He finds wholesale merchants in Bultimore and other cities crying "hard times" a good deal louder than is heard here and with spot cash he can buy at his own figures what his trade demands. The process is simple and straightforward and the people have the advantage.

HERE IN ELLICOTT CITY

A BLAMED SIGHT WORSE.

A bachelor, old and cranky, Was sitting alone in his room.

His toes with gout were aching, And his face was o'erspread with gloon No little ones' shouts disturbed him. From noises the house was free-In fact, from the attic to cellar Was quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking.
The servants answered his ring. Respectfully heard his orders And supplied him with everything. But still there was something wanting.

Something he couldn't command— The kindly words of compassion,

The touch of a gentle hand. And he said as his brow grew darker, And he rang for the hireling nurse,
"Well, marriage may be a fallure,
But this is a blamed sight worse!"

—Boston Courier.

Couldn't Fool Him. Charles Johnson, a negro, though of Swedish nomenclature, had been arrested for highway robbery out on Independence avenue. A toy pistol, which had served him in "making a bluff," and a handful of small coin were taken from him. He was then ushered before the captain for the usual catechism. "Let's see, what were you in for the last time, Charley?" "Never dono bean heah befo', boss." "Oh, come, now, Charley; you've been here a dozen times before.

"May de good Lawd 'nilate me, boss, 'ze tellin yuh de troof!' "Well, take him and lock kim up." "Hol on der, cap'n, ain't yuh gwine er let me hab my money?" "Well, I guess not," said the captain, winking at the lieutenant. "This is my rakeoff. Do you suppose I can stay here for nothing?"

"But yuh'll let me hab it in de mawnin, won't yuh?" "Not aftah the jedge gits t'rough wid

"Say, yuh can't fool me dat a-way, ooss. I'ze bean heah befo'!" Then the old darky was taken down stairs, wondering what everybody was laughing about.—Kansas City Times.

Boiled Fish Sandwiches.

"No."

You may find it hard to believe that sandwiches made from boiled fish are good, but if when you have a bit of boiled halibut left from dinner you make a few for luncheon or tea you will find them very good. The fish should of course have the flavor that comes from boiling it in salted water with a bouquet of vegetables—say a slice of onion, a stalk of celery or a sprig of parsley and half a dozen peppercorns. Break up the fish with a fork; then take a wooden spoon and rub it as fine as possible. Make it into a seasoned paste by adding a fourth of a pint of sweet cream, a teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of white pepper or paprika, and at the very last and gradually a tablespoonful of lemon juice. This amount of seasoning is for 116 pounds of fish. Cut your bread very thin, spread the slices with a little butter and then with the fish. Lay between the slices before putting the two together a small, tender lettuce leaf.-New York Post. A Use For Half Burned Carbons. There is already a demand for the unnsed and half burned carbons from the are lights. Some one has discovered that carbon is a cure for consumption, and it is a well known fact that men who work in carbon factories are singularly healthy. Just how the fragments of carbon are broken up and the particles inhaled does not appear, but people collect them a good deal and profess to derive benefit from their use. It has been claimed for years that a smoky atmosphere is a good one for a consumptive patient, although this has been denied by doctors again and again. The carbon theory may account for what some people believe to be nonsense and others an infallible theory. - St. Louis Globe-

Democrat. Absentminded.

Professor Dusenberry of Columbia college is so completely absorbed in his profession that he is becoming more and more absentminded every day. He remarked to one of the students: "Something very stupid happened to me the other morning. I believe I am becoming a little absentminded." "What is it?" "You see, I wanted to take my wife out in a buggy and give her some fresh air, and when I came to think over it I remembered that I never had a wife. -Texas Siftings.

The richest of civilized people are the English, with $1,266 per capita. France follows with $1,102, while the United States has $1,029, while by the sale of their lands to the government son e of the Indian tribes are worth from $5,000 to $10,000 per capita. He who expects from mankind that they give up established customs in compliance with his single will and exacts that deference which he does not pay may be endured, but can never be approved.-Dr. Johnson. During the most of the sixteenth century the English people called the Bible the Bibliotheca, or the library, this word being limited in its application to the Scriptural writings. A bill is better receipted, and an ol chair is better reseated, and that is the resemblance between them, although neither of 'em looks at all like the
