Then leaving, it struck out across the country towards Glenelg, attacking and biting dogs, fowls, and even cattle, on several farms. At Glenelg, it viciously attacked the dogs of Mr. Edward Day. The hydrophobic beast then rushed on to the barnyard, and, after a slight halt, tried to devour a couple of pigs and a turkey, the last of which it almost tore into pieces. The dog next went to a neighboring farm-house, where it bit a number of dogs. It is thought that it was the same dog that passed through Clarksville and was killed near Guilford. Over twenty-five of the bitten dogs have been killed, and the pigs and other stock that were attacked have been securely confined to await

A Howard County Marriage License No

That even the law does not always prove advantageous to everyone was sadly exemplified when a prospective bridegroom failed to secure a marriage license at the Circuit Court clerk's office here Tuesday. In the afternoon a young man, whose matrimonial age seemed somewhat of a question of doubt, stepped up to the desk, and to Deputy Clerk William B. Owings stated that he wished to obtain a marriage license for himself and a young lady residing in Carroll county, where the ceremony was to take place Tuesday evening. When the clerk politely informed him, that he would have to go to Westminster for the required document, he left the office in a sad mood, carrying with him, however, the sympathies of a number of bystanders who witnessed the young man's seemingly unmerited misfortune.

was the scene of a pretty and fashionable home wedding Wednesday evening, at six o'clock, the contracting parties being Miss Lydia, the youngest daughter of Mr. Frederick Brosenne, and Mr. Charles G Linthicum, Jr., son of Mr. Charles G Linthicum, of Glenelg, Howard county. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. G. Nevitt, of the M. E. Church South, in the presence of a large number of friends of the couple. The parlors and dining-room of the stately old mansion were elaborately decorated with evergreens and potted plants. Two little nieces of the bride, Misses Rose Brosenne and Lillie Vernay, each carrying a bouquet of flowers, preceded the bridal party to the impron.ptu altar in one of the parlors where the nuptials were solemnized. Miss Lida McCabe, of Warrenton, Va., niece of the bride, was the bride's best girl, and Mr. Frank C. Linthicum, of Baltimore, a brother of bride, who is a handsome brunette, was cotelle silk, trimmed with gray veivet and white duche-se lace. She wore a handsome diamond brooch, the gift of malden forn. Her best girl was costumed in gray silk, trimmed with cut steel, and carried Marechal Neil buds and ferns. Wedding marches were played by Mrs. lideon N. Brosenne. There was a wedding supper, followed by refreshments at eleven o'clock. The couple were the recipients of many valuable presents. Among those present were: Mr. Frederick Brosenne, father of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Linthicum, parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. One of the most tragic incidents of any fire which has occurred in Baltimore for years resulted in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitridge early Tuesday morning. They were killed by falling from a ladder by which they were trying to escane from their burning home, 13 West Biddle street. With the assistance of a fireman they were on the point of being rescued when Mr Whitridge insisted on helping his wife lown the ladder Losing his grip they both fell to the pavement. The fireman for a moment held them poised in mid air until his strength gave way.

PROVISIONS FOR NEBRASKA

New Orleans Responds With Carloads-The First Train.

The South's response to the appeal of the destitute of Nebraska has been prompt and hearty. Mr. R. H. Edmonds ready raised 11 full carloads out of an intended train of 15 and this additional number will be secured probably within day. The contribution from New Orleans will probably be the largest, so far as the money value is concerned, sent from any point in the South, as most of the New Orleans contributions are rice, sugar and molasses, and the full trainlead will probably represent $8000 or $10,000 in cost. Five New Orleans firms each contributed a full carload. The little town of Helena, Ark , sent word Monday that it had shipped thees carloads. From West Virginia a full trainload of coal has started, and another one is being made up.

The first train load started from Atlanta Tuesday. It consisted of corn, flour, bacon and potatoes. It looks now as if five or six train loads of provisions would be sent to Nebraska by the people of the South. A dispatch to the News from Atlanta

Monday said:

"Contributions of food and clothing for the Nebraska relief train are coming in rapidly to-day. The train, it has been finally decided, will leave here to morrow evening and will be run through as a special."—Baltimore News.
