HENSON OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED.

He Hears the Death Warrant Read with Indifference-The Money Taken not yet Discovered.

Sheriff G. E. Flower Monday morning in the presence of several persons whom he invited to accompany him read the the death warrant to Jacob Henson, Jr., confined in the jail here awaiting his execution for the murder of Daniel F. Brown named Friday, June 7 as the day on which Henson must hang.

He leaned against come by what the family physician prothe wall and listened attentively without apparent motion. In reply to State's Attorney McGuire's question as to whether he understood the meaning of J. Werner, Daniel R. McCauley, Christhe document he said he did. To persons at the jail, after the officers had retired, Henson prophested that Ill-luck would attend his executioner, and srid: "I hope the sheriff, after hanging me, Md., was proclaiming in the streets of will not live three days."

The corridor is about twelve feet wide, with a clear space to the ceiling of about thirty feet, and will afford ample space both for the gailows and the number of persons allowed by law to witness the execution. Sheriff Flower said Monday that he had already received scores of applications to witness the hanging, but as the law gave him authority to admit only twenty, many would, of course, be disappointed.

Henson has asked that the Rev. P. B Tarro, of St. Paul's Catholic Church, visit him. Father Tarro, also states that Henson will tell all he knows about money, he believes, will soon be known to the public if the revelation to be made by the prisoner should not involve anybody else. Henson was baptised a Catholic in his infancy, but he never attended church or made a profession of 1eligion. Father did not know of his baptism until some time last year, when, upon the recommendation of Mr. Shea he was employed to pump the bellows of the church organ in St. Paul's.

The ordinance granting franchises to the Edmondson Avenue, Catonsville and Ellicott City Railway Company was passed by both branches of the Baltimore City Council Tuesday night and only needed the Mayor's signature to become a law. A number of the promoters of the Baltimore and Washington project were in the Council chambers and were elated at the passage of the measure. Some of them stated that the action of the Council completes the preparatory work on the project and that the company is assured of rights of way in Baltimore, Washington and the intervening country. It was also stated that the surveying for the line has been done and that its construction will be started at once and pushed with all possible speed in the expectation that the line from Baltimore to Washington will be finished in fifteen months if no unexpected delays take place. The route of entrance into Baltimore as provided in the ordinance is from the western city limits by way of Edmondson avenue, the Calverton road, Franklin, Monroe and Saratoga streets to Howard street.

Dr. Wm. II. Hardey, near Clarksville, Howard county, and Mrs. Hardey, his wife, Sunday celebrated their golden wedding. Owing to the recent death of their daughter, Miss Irene Hardey, the anniversary was very quietly observed, only the immediate family being present. Mr. and Mrs. John Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kemp. of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Renchan, of Norfolk, Va., were present, with their children; also Mr. and Mrs. John Regester, of Baltimore county, Mrs. Mary Robey and Mr. David Clark, the venerable uncle of Mrs. Hardey, Mr. Clark now in the eighty-fifth year of his age, is one of the five persons living who wit nessed the marriage of Dr. and Mrs Hardey fifty years ago. The County Commissioners.

The County Commissioners in session Tuesday were engaged finishing up the , mitted their report to a meeting of work of transferring and releasing property on the tax books preparatory to the levy of 1895. From present indications the county basis of last year, which was $8,348,297, will not be materially changed, and it is probable that the tax rate, which was seventy-one cents on the $100, will be about the same. It is the intention of the board to make the levy earlier this year than formerly in order that the tax collectors, by having the tax bills in hand at the earliest possible date, may be enabled to increase the September returns. The levy it is thought, will be made at the next meeting of the board.

after which the President read a beauti- bloom. The choir rendered with fine Stansfield, of Harrisonville, Baltimore ful selection, asking each one to "Speak gentle words," which called forth the heartiest applause. This was followed by a quaint and pretty little song from Miss Nona Appleby, of Frederick county, who won the hearts of a pleased and admiring audience. In a gallant and manly way Master Waters Gartrell welcomed the company and invited them to cross the hall into the next room, he leading the way with the President. When all were seated a curtain was drawn upon a scene from fairy-land, representing the queen upon a throne surrounded by fairy subjects. "The Marys at the Tomb" was recited by Miss Mildred De Laskmutt, accompanied by appropriate music and tableau revealing the kneeling figures at a sepulchre where "the stone was rolled away." Vocal and instrumental music was followed by "The training of Mrs. Ruggles' nine children for dinner party," which was received with flattering appreciation. Peter Ruggles then returns from the party eating the "remnants of the feast" and promising to hunt a sandwich or two for the folks who did'nt get there. He left the stage and was soon back with a plate of the most tempting French rolls. The guests were then served with Maryland biscuit and delicious coffee. As the hour for parting drew nigh the doxology was sung and as each guest grasped the hand of the genial host and hostess they felt that in the blue sky of memory there would be no cloud to mar the brightness of those pleasant fleeting hours.

Miss Cora De Lashmutt, who is a student at "Briarly Hall," returned home to spend the Eastertide. Miss Gertrude Owings, who has been studying at Mt. De Sales Convent for several years, spent the holidays here with her parents, and on Monday afternoon gave a taffy-puiling, to which were bidden some of her old friends and school-mates. Miss Agnes Woodward has been visit ng Mrs. Walter Mercer, of Hood's Mill. Miss Helen Hood expects to join her mother in the "Monumental City" on Thursday, where she will remain for a short visit. The Presbyterian pulpit was filled on Easter Sunday by Rev. Dr. Lefevre, of Baltimore. His sermon, which was an able discourse, was from Romans, fifth chapter and twenty-first verse. The venerable speaker was listened to with wrapt attention. At the conclusion of the services communion was administered and two new members were admitted into the church.

Sunday School Work. Mr. G. S. The Finding of a Lead Pencil Furnish Mr. George A. detectives' plans were well laid and carried out and reflected credit on the on the Police Department. Mr. Deakyne also said that the residents of Caroline county were generally satisfied that Price is the murderer of the girl. During his conversation with the Commissioners an incident was related that has never been made public and may play an important part in Price's trial, which will commence at Denton on April 30. When Price visited the scene of the murder with Detectives Gault and Seibold, after he had told them of his dream, he pointed out the spot where the girl was killed, and also found the bloody knife and a small bow of ribbon. A carpenter's lead pencil was lying on the ground, and Price did not see it, but Detective Gault picked it up and quietly slipped it in his pocket. After Price had shown the detectives over the gound in the vicinity of the murder he went back to his shop with them. When the party reach the shop they continued to talk about the murder and the detectives praised Price for his amateur detective work. While Price was not watching him Detective Gault pulled the pencil from his pocket, and dropped it on the floor. In a few minutes he picked up the pencil and said: "Price, this your pencil?" After looking at it Price answered. "Yes, that's mine." He took possession of the pencil and Detective Cault realized that he had obtained an important thread of evidence. To get the pencil from Price without arousing his suspicions was Gault's next task. After thinking a short while he asked Price to let him have the pencil to draw a plot of the ground in the vicinity of the murder, telling him that he had lost his own. Price suspected nothing, and handed over the pencil. hair. Detective Gault drew a few lines on a piece of paper and then pocketed the pencil. Price did not ask him to return it, and it will be produced in court at Denton with the other evidence. Jail life does not agree with Price and

Meeting of the Elkridge Club at Dorsey's Station.

The Elkridge Farmers' Club of Howard county held their second monthly meeting Wednesday night at the farm of Mr. Frank L. Carter, about three miles from Dorsey's Station, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. It was well attended. Previous to the meeting | showing off as a Jeffersonian Democrat, a number of invited guests assembled at the residence of Major and M18. J. F. Carter, at Lennox Park, near Dorsey's Station, where they were given a dinner. Among those present were: Dr. M. P. Scott, E. H. Brinkley, Prof. W. L. Taliaferro, Pro. II. J. Patterson, Dr. II. C. MacDonnell, of the Maryland Agricultural College. Prince George's county; James D. Cassard, president, and Secretary Judge George E. Loweree, of the Vansville Farmers' Club, of Howard county; Luther Brashears, of Muirkirk Station; W. D. Powell, of Annapolis Junction, and also of the Vansville Club; Dell K. Houck, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; Frank L. Carter, President Aubrey Hopkins and Secretary N. A. Pfeiffer, of the Elkridge Farmers' Club. They were entertained by Mrs. Carter, Misses Blanche Carter, Bessie Carter and Grace Carter. The room was beautifully decorated with flowers.

After the dinner the guests were driven to the farm, were they were met Napoleon for the vast Louisiana Terriby Messrs. D. J. Carter, of Baltimore; Edward Belmier, of Dorsey's Station; John Kyne and Frank Kyne. The visitors were shown around the farm, after which a business meeting was held in the dwelling. President Aubrey Hopkins presided, with N. A. Pfeiffer as secretary. The speakers were introduced by Mr. Powell, who stated that the object of the meeting was to encourage the farmers and members of the club in promoting the interest of the farmers, and to interchange their ideas, both socially and intellectually, and to bring about a general knowledge of the farming industry and discuss new methods to better secure their advancement. Mr. Dell K. Houck, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, stated that the farmers in the vicinity of Howard county would have every facility possible to carry out their plans of increasing the shipment of their products of truck farming and said that a special freight train would be at their disposal to ship to Baltimore, Washington and points west. of the club meeting was to further the plans of those interested, and that the farmers of Howard county the coming season would have a heavy crop of peas, strawberries and other products, which they hoped would find a ready market. Mr. Patterson, of the Maryland Agricultural College, talked about the advantages to the farmers in shipping their goods to points near Baltimore.

LETTER FROM "REGULAR."

Because of the limited circulation of the "Democrat" paper in the rural districts, it is a difficult matter to learn the latest performance of its trick doggie. By calling at the residence of a neighboring Republican, however, it has been ascertained that "Junius" is -although last fall he was found barking and running with the Republican pack. In his latest he quotes trite sayings, equivalent to: "There are mile stones on the road to Dover;" and he also gives a list of historical curs, whose strangling in puppyhood would have saved the

He abused monarchy, but drove a splendid bargain with tory. He preached that all men are free and equal, yet "freeholders" exercised the right of suffrage in his day, and a white man, not possessed of real estate, i. e. land and negroes, belonged to the 'poor white trash," and had little part in the government of Jefferson. Under Jefferson the vote was rica rocc;

today we have the Australian system, and every man can vote as he wishes Jefferson gave us the ideal, today we have the reality of the people's rule. And when it is alleged that bosses rule, the people know it to be false. Arthur P. Gorman, a man who has been trusted by the people of his State from his early manhood, made a more heroic fight for the people, in defeating the infamous Force Bill than Jefferson did in his whole career. Jefferson's enemies were beyond the sea; Gorman's beset him on every side. Where would the Jeffersonian Democrat be, had the army of United States Marshals, armed cap a-pie surrounded him at every precinct? Oh, but "Junius" would be on the other side! In preventing a Second

Hayes Fraud upon his country, Gorman deserved the sincere gratitude of every honest Democrat in the Union, and earned a fame in history equal to that of writing a dozen declarations of independence. While all other measures signally failed he placed upon the statute books of he United States a tariff bill which has
