SENATOR GORMAN AND THE DEFICIT | reached, and the people are going about

When Senator Gorman stated in the their business with a confidence which is Senate last winter that the deficit of the treasury would likely reach $40,009,000 in face of the rose-colored view taken by Secretary Carlisle, that the outlook lation and rejoicing. There is good was entirely satisfactory, he was reason to believe, however, that the conscowled at from all parts of the country ed by the Pittsburg Times are general as trying to create prejudice against the and that a canvass of all sections of the administration. Now comes the statement, published Tuesday, that on that day the treasury deficit had passed the a canvass similar to that made of the fitty million mark. It was considered quite oppose the Wilson bill as it came from the House because it embodied the very soul and essence of Democratic principles on the question of tariffprinciples that the party had battled manfully for and won on in a protracted struggle. The great mass of Democrats forgot one important condition-that Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. the expenses of the government had become enormous and that an enormous revenue was necessary to preserve the credit of the government and keep the Wilson bill gone into operation its effect upon the country and the party might have been extremely disastrous, putting back a fulfillment of the hopes and aims of the party many years.

Even if the present tariff bill can be traced to Mr. Gorman the charge that there has been a lack of devotion to Democratic principles cannot be sustained by any process of reasoning that we know of. If there has been one tenet of Democratic faith more prominent than another it is that the government's credit, dignity and honor should be preserved at all hazards. The Democratic cry has ever been tariff for revenue, freer trade if possible legislate for the people wisely. Mr. Cleveland in his public utterances has time and again said, at least in substance that while his policy would be to unshackle industry by freer trade he would never give countenance to any movement that would unduly disturb the industries of the country no matter how unwisely or selfishly they had been built up. The Democratic party when it got down to the work of censtructing a tariff law on the principles enunciated was confronted by this very condition hence the wisdom of the Senate in checking-though correct in principlewhat was premature and what can only be attained by gradual approaches.

Under this much condemned tariff law the country is showing signs of returning prosperity. How then can Mr. Gorman be justly censured for his attitude on this question during its discussion in Congress last winter?

When Mr. Gorman crosses the dead line which marks the distinction between Democratic and Republican principles it will be time enough to make him an issue. On the other hand if time demonstrates that he was wise above his party, not only his party but the people will unite in rejoicing that he was not consigned to that eternal gehenna, the doors of which have been held wide open and the fires of which are being so persistently stirred up by the Baltimore Sun, in the hope that to its depths it may yet consign the man who is likely to prove that he knew something about politics and what was the best for his party and the country in general.

The popular subscription to the Baltimore Exposition of 1897 amounts to nearly $400,000. Work will soon commence at Clifton Park

A Good Word.

From the Baltimore Telegram. THE ELLICOTT CITY TIMES IS confessedly one of the most enterprising and vigorous Democratic papers in Maryland. Recently its prosperity was fur-ther emphasized by its enlargement to the extent of several columns, and the introduction of new and desirable departments, that add much to its interest. Editor Morrow will deserve a liberal and appreciative constituency and we trust that his patronage will be always on the increase.

Better Times In Pennsylvania. from Philadelphia Times.

The Pittsburg Times, which is too emphatically a Republican paper to be suspected of any desire to glorify a Demoeratic administration even by inference. has been taking a business census of twenty-six counties in Western Pennsylvania just to see how the business condition in that section compares with last year. The counties included are Allegheny, Armstrong, Bedford, Blair, Buter, Cambria, Cameron, Centre, Clarion, Crawford, Erie, Fayette, Forest, Hunt ingdon, Indiana, Jefferson, Lawrence, Mercer, McKean, Millin, Potter, Somerset, Venaugo, Warren, Washington and Westmoreland, and the chief industries, agriculture, coal, oil, tanning, lumber iron, steel, machinery and general merchandise. With the exception of Cameron, which s a lumber county with its lumber exhausted, all the counties and nearly all ndustries in these counties report greaty increased business activity. If this condition of reviving prosperity were confined to the counties named i would be a sufficient cause for congratuditions reported in the counties canvasscountry would reveal the same general tendency. The newspapers of other States that will take the trouble to make twenty six counties of Western Pennsylvania will be almost certain to chronicle a similar state of affairs. Business is on Democratic for Mr. Gorman to the upward trend everywhere and the day of the croaker is over.
