THE CONVENTION ROW.

County Republicans Before Justice Wallenhorst, An unusual amount of interest Tuesday was centered in Justice B. II. Wallenhorst's court, the cases tried being those growing out of the free fight which occurred in the Republican County Convention held on the 17th inst., in the New Assembly Rooms, between the Oldfield and Higinbotham factions. The cases were tried in the Circuit Court Most of the charges and countercharges were finally withdrawn after the hearing. In the prosecution of the Attorney Joseph D. McGuire was assistants on the Oldfield side were represented by John C. Rose, of Baltimore, and State Senator John G. Rogers. The first case was that against Wm. E. Wilson, a Higinbotham adherent, who was charged with assaulting Wm. II. Cole, of the Oldfield faction. He was adjudged guilty, and fined $1 and costs. A counter-charge against J. Frank Oldfield by Wm. E. Wilson for assault with intent to kill, was not sustained as to the intent to kill, and Mr. Oldfield elected to be tried by jury for common assault. Similar charges brought by Charles T Makinson against J. Frank Oldfield, Clarence H. Oldfield and Wm. H. Cole were also withdrawn, Mr. Makinson stating that at the time of swearing out the writs he was excited, and did not consider the gravity of the and proceeding. The of case Mr. Cole against Mr. Makinson was then also withdrawn. The case against the Oldfield brothers and Wm. H. Cole, for assault with intent to kill F. C. Higinbotham, was postponed until July 9, because of the latters' inability to be present. After the hearing in these cases Mr. J. Frank Oldfield swore out warrants against Mr. Higinbotham and Robert H. Hughes on charges of assault, and July 10 was set for the hearing. Counsel for the Oldfields brought out the fact that Mr. Hughes was acting as a proxy for a Mr. Wheeler, who was present in the convention. At this point Mr. Rose produced the constitution of the Republican party, adopted in the state convention in 1891, a section of which cites that "there shall be no proxy allowed in any convention." Mr. Hughes admitted on the stand also that all the judges from the Third district had signed the returns, but that Mr Higinbotham's refusal to admit either delegation to take part was due to the protest from Mr. Robert V. Thompson one of the judges who had signed the credentials. In the Second district Mr. Makinson, one of Mr. Higinbotham's delegates, admitted that he had given no notice as to where the primary was to be held, and that he and Higinbotham withdrew from the truckhouse, where he had intended to hold it, because one of the Oldfield boys insisted in calling the meeting to order. Mr. Hughes said that Mr. Orson

Adams had told him before the convention that in 1880, in Frederick, and in 1892, in Baltimore, the temporary chairman had appointed the committee on credentials, and that he (Hughes) had to appoint the committee on credentials. bine, July 9th, at 3 p. m. Mr. Makinson, Higinbotham asked him to be ready to come to his assistance if any trouble arose, and he promised to do so. The testimony showed also that when Hughes announced that he would appoint the committee on credentials two of the Oldfields rushed upon the stage, and that when they mounted the stage Hughes and Higinbotham grabbed chairs, blows passed, members of both factions sprang on the platform, and a general

SAD OCCURRENCE.

Brother Julian of Rock Hill College Meet Death While at Bay Ridge,

Brother Julian, professor of chemistry at Rock Hill College, Ellicott City, Md. met his death in a sad and peculiar manner Thursday at Bay Ridge while bathing. Together with Brother Maurice principal of the college, and eight other brothers, he had gone down to Bay Ridge for a day's recreation. The particulars of his death were given by Brother Maurcie Thursday night, as fol-

"We had gone in bathing-that is, six of us, including Brother Julian-about eleven o'clock. After swimming about for a short time I saw Brother Julian going toward the shore, and when within eight or ten feet of it I saw him fall. I started at once toward him, but I was some distance out, and before I could get near him the man who manages the tohoggan had gone to him and picked him up out of the water. As soon as I got to him I saw at once that it was apoplexy, and although everything was done to revive him, it met with no success, I cannot speak too highly of the kindness shown by the superintendent and others at Bay Ridge." The body was taken to Annapolis placed in a temporary coffin, and arrived at Camden Station on the Short Line train about $ 30 o'clock. It was brought to Ellicott City on the 11.10 train Thursday night. The funeral will take place to-day between nine and ten o'clock, at the college, Rev. P. B. Tarro, of St. Paul's Church, Ellicott City, officiating at the requiem mass. The interment will be at Bonnie Brae Cemetery. The deceased was about 56 years of age and has been at Rock Hill for about five

DESTRUCTION OF HOOD'S MILL. The famous old mill, Hood's Mill from which the place derived its name,, was swept out of existence by fire Wednesday afternoon. Nothing remains of it but the stone foundations, and it is doubtful if the old structure will ever be restored. The old mill was a landmark, and was built some time before the construction of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. For many years it flourished as a grist and saw mill, but began to lose its prestige with the advent of man, with Mr, Louis N. Getz as secretary, improved machinery. Until four years A resolution was adopted to incorporate ago, its operations were of the most meagre character, and about that time it was leased by Mr. Edwin Bennett, of Baltimore, the president of the Edwin Bennett Pottery Company. Since that time it has been conducted as a flint mill, where the rock has been ground into powder, for the use of pottery and soap manufacturers. Mr. Bennett stocked the place with about $5,000 worth of machinery, the loss on which is covered by insurance. The old mill was two and onehalf stories high, and covered an area of 80 by 30 feet. The lack of fire apparatus made the mill an easy prey for the flames. The fire swept across the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Dickey & Son's carts Wednesday whilst rendering it impossible for trains to playing in the road. There was no sermon nor address during the ordinations; but immediately after the exercises the young priests followed Monsignor Satolli to his room, where he delivered them a beautiful exhortation in Latin. He dwelt upon three themes. The first was upon hypocrisy, which was to be shunned. He then spoke of worldly fear, and concluded with the admonition that the priest must be ever hold in his profession of faith. The young priests were then congratulated by everyone and the rest of the day was spent in a social manner. Each of the young clergy had an admiring group of friends about him during the rest of the day, and the time was spent most pleasantly showing the visitors through the college and its chapels and the beautiful grounds that surround them. The visitors were quartered in the various houses in the neighborhood of the college, and attended the masses celebrated Thursday morning. There are 15 chap-

Mary A. Cross, an esteemed resident of Fulton, and widow of the late Henry Cross, departed from this life on last Saturday night 22d inst., in her 64th year. She had been in very poor health for a number of years but last Saturday she seemed to be in excellent spirits and apparently enjoyed much better health than usual. During the night she awoke feeling very ill and stated to a member of the family that she thought she was about to die, and before medical aid could be rendered her spirit had passed into the hands of the Great Physician. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Geo. liddings, of Fulton, and a son, Mr. Mr. John Cross, of Laurel. Her funeral took place from her late residence on Monday, Rev. J. Nichols, of Laurel, officiating. The interment was made in he family burial ground, near the Patuxent river this county. The pallcarers were: G. D. Walters, H. H. Smallwood, Frank Walters, C. N. Hardng, Silas Dustin, Alfred Moore.

Away, immortal! to yonder height With swift wing wend thy flight; To Mount Zion, city of the light, Centred in His realm, so bright! Thy suffering o'er, the work all done, The battle fought, the victory won; The garlands wreathed, already blest, Await thee in the haven of rest. Nearer my God, nearer to Thee, Comes now the ransomed prisoner free; ! Nearer my God, now close at hand,— O receive her into Immanuel's land.

BILLINGHAM. NORTH BRANCH, Baltimore county une 24.-Mr. Wm. Billingham died at his home here today at an advanced age from a complication of diseases. came here three years ago from Harford county, where his remains were taken on Wednesday last for interment. Mr. Billingham was a man much esteemed by all who knew him for his quiet, coureous and hospitable qualities. His disposition was such as to love home, eldom going therefrom, and he will be very much missed by his aged wife and many friends.
