M., to nominate one person for State Senator, two persons for members of the House of Delegates, one person for State's Attorney, one person for Clerk of the Circuit Court, three persons for Judges of the Orphans' Court, one person for County Commissioner, one person for Sheriff, one person for County Surveyor, and to select three delegates to the State Convention which assembles in Baltimore on Wednesday, July 31, 1895, to nominate one person for Goyernor, one person for Comptroller and one person for Attorney General.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

for Howard County.

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF.

Yes, "it is Democratic tariff that is bringing the government out of the slough of despond," and for the benefit of the News we will say that by the "Democratic tariff" we mean the wise, considerate and humane revenue law under which the business of the country is now being conducted and which has brought it to a degree of prosperity little none other.

We admit there were differences of opinion among the leading Democrats of the country as to the dominating features of the law designed to take the place of the McKinley bill, one of the most arbitrary and destructive political measures ever inflicted upon any people, but these differences of opinion only served to assure the people that this Democratic Congress was endeavoring to give them the best relief possible. In this Congress, the most conspicuous Democrat laboring for the interest of the whole people, was Senator Gorman, of Maryland. The Times said so in its columns then it says so now and will continue to reiterate ad infinitum. Whatever may have been said by certain pretended Democratic papers, denunciatory of "the present tariff law" when it was passed, has now been recalled by the praises of it since its operations have brought such good results to the country. -

REMOTE CAUSES OF PROSPERITY. The steady increase in the volume of the advance in the price of most commodities continue to cause great embarrassment to certain Republican editors who seem to care more for the prosperity of their party than for that of their country. They find it necessary to construct theories for the explanation of this prosperity which are as hard to work as the Ptolemaic system of astronomy, and which involve consequences which these theories can hardly have considered. The New York Tribune, for instance, plants itself squarely upon the ground that the recent depression in business was due, not to the actual legislation of the Democrats, but to gloomy anticipations on the part of the business men of the country as to what that legislation might be. On the other hand, the present activity in business is declared to be due to cheerful hopes of what the Republicans are going to do when they come into power two years or more from now-

One can hardly believe that even the most perseyering and devoted readers of the Tribune accept such theories as this as altogether adequate. The theory implies that a large majority of our citizens put the Democratic party in power, and then immediately became so frightened at what they had deliberately done as to bring on a panic. It implies that the dis-Treasury by the Republicans the reducduty on sugar to the extent of forty or fifty million dollars, the increase of exextent, and the multiplication, by the likely that a reassessment bill will fare silver act, of the demand obligations of any better at his hands than theirs? If the Government payable in gold, had no they meant to give you reassessment, effect, either together or separately, upon the business world. It implies that the cessation of the issue of these demand obligations, the check upon pension extravagance, and the substitution of revenue duties for those intended to hinder commerce, likewise had no effect. The theory, moreover, entirely ignores the material basis of prosperity, the actual increase of physical, tangible goods-a factor which certainly deserves some con-

It is to be noted, furthermore, that the name of Mr. Hayes upon the ticket cheerful hopes of prosperity which animate business men are, according to this theory, wholly indefinite. We hear of no business associations that urge the Republicans to restore the McKinley tariff. The Republican politicians, even, do not venture to propose any "tariff-tinkering" except in the most indefinite and mean ingless language. Nor do the Republicans date to make any positive declarations concerning the currency. They do not know what their 244 Congressmen think about it, or what they will do about it. The only thing really certain about the future is that no very mischley. ous legislation will be permitted by President Cleveland, and if any theory of prosperity that attributed it solely to an
HARRY O. McLANE, Frederick, Md. ticination of governmental action were tenable, much could be said in favor of the view that confidence in the President

But, as we have said, material considerations cannot be ignored. Our Na- candidate. tional Government has a vast capacity for waste and a considerable capacity for mischlef, both of which capacities it has certainly exercised, while its beneficent action has been most conspicuously exhibited in repealing its own acts. But let us recall the fact that a single week of hot weather last summer, affecting a comparatively small section of our coun try, gave us a corn crop of 1,500,000,000 bushels in place of one that might under possible conditions have amounted to 2,500 000,000 bushels. The loss to the country from this hot wave was, at a price of feed and of beef products, it was perhaps double the sum.

speaking within bounds to say that timeworth to this country $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000. Can anyone doubt that such factors as these have something to do with general prosperity? If our rail-roads had showed for last year gross earnings $50,000,000 greater than they were in fact, would not the confidence of business men have revived, even if 244 Democrats had been elected to Congress instead of so many Republicans? The fallacy of such a theory as that which we criticise consists in its seleccounty are requested to meet in their tion of one factor as the cause, of results to which many factors contribute. The income tax, mischievous as it was, in what it foreboded more than in what it accomplished, was but a flea-bite in comparison with an untimely frost. The McKinley act, barbarous and unprincipled as it was, was neutralized by a great wheat crop.-N. Y. Evening

GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

The Question Discussed from a Repub lican Standpoint,

From the Baltimore American. The frequent visits to town of Senator Gorman, the meeting of the Committee of Eleven, and the recent frequent conferences of leaders, have been about all to stir any degree of interest in Democratic circles during the past week. In fact, the most interesting features in that party's camp have been in the counties. Preparations for harvest have kept most country people at home. So far as the world can see, neither Treasurer Jones nor Senator Hayes has gained any open advantage during the six work days just ended. Mr. Hayes, however, has gained the very substantial point of having his position upon the leading issue of the campaign most emphatically endorsed. The Democrats of Calvert plainly and unmistakably declared for reassessment, and demanded a candidate for government who would be a guarantee of what they wish. This, with similar tidings from Democrats of other counties in an unofficial way, has been very encouraging to the friends of Senator Haves, who would now be out in the less than marvelous. We could mean counties proclaiming his doctrine of that the intelligent Democrats of sale at all ticket officers on its lines reavement. As the days go by, it be comes more evident that reassessment is to be the leading issue of the campaign, ing that that gentleman, too, is sound upon this question, and can reasonably be supported by the advocates of tax adjustment. Col. Eph G. Polk, editor of the Princess Anne Marylander, savs in in the last issue of his paper. "The people intend to elect, not only a legislature, but a governor this fall who will not only promise, but give them a new

> AS HE VIÈWS THE SITUATION. A well-known city politican who knows pretty nearly all that is going on within the innermost "in'ards" of his party, was earnestly discussing present political matters with a friend Monday. Finally he drifted around to the governorship. "It is the most important question to be settled," he said, "and, consequently, absorbs public attention to the exclusion of other matters. You will hear little of the mayoralty or of other city or state offices until the gover- nor fairness in that. norship is practically settled. "Who will win? A dozen things may happen between now and the 31st of July to upset all calculations. But I can tell you how matters look now. In the first place, Colonel John Walter Smith and Judge Robinson are not in it, it is generally conceded that Comptroller Marion deKalb Smith, a most courteous and popular gentleman and efficient official, will be renominated without opposition, and it is as generally con-ceded that the Eastern Shore will not get two places on the state ticket. Thus, the territorial problem which al ways intrudes itself upon state conventions, is disposed of. Now, then, the issue upon which to go before the people must always be kept in view, and this year that issue with both parties will undoubtedly be reassessment. Having fixed up its platform then, with reassessment as the most pominent plank, the convention must naturally not to stultify itself, place at the head of the ticket the best and most prominent exponent of those views-a man in complete and known harmony therewith. Mr. Jones, one of the two candidates now before the party, has never been known as an ardent advocate of reassessment. He is, in addition, the president of a national bank, and closely connected with that class who are fighting shy of reassessment. It would seen that the fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination has narrowed down to two men-Spencer Jones and Mr. Hayes. In my opinion, the nomination of Mr. Jones would be a splendid political weapon for the Republicans. They would proclaim to the people of the state that the Democrats did not intend to give them reassessment. "True," they will say, "the Democrats promise it oring on a panic. It implies that the dis-sipation of the surplus in the National they promised it likewise in other platforms when Brown and Jackson were tion of revenue by the removal of the nominated, but you didn't get it. Now they name a man who, like Brown and Jackson, is associated with that class penditure by the pension act to an equal | who are fighting reassessment. Is it > why didn't they select a man for governor who is committed to it by his actions and his record?" Thus, you see, they would have a powerful weapon. So it would seem that Mr. Jones could not well be chosen. Senator Hayes, on the other hand, is the open, pronounced and persistent champlon of reassessment in the state. He has brought the issue to its present

Dead and Dying Ideas,

In the evolution of panaceas for everything wrong under the sun and some things not so wrong, the silver man and his free silver issue has had his place and is now in process of disappearing.

The Democrats of Queen Anne's, like the Democrats in every county in the State, as well as in the city of Baltimore are more deeply concerned about s strong, available candidate for Governor. man who will sign a new assessment bill when passed, than the election of a United States Senator. We consider it a slander upon the Democrats of Baltinore city to say of them that they are pposed to paying their just share of axes for the conduct of the government. We are aware of the fact that there are many persons who do not want to pay any taxes at all. The object of the Baltimore Sun is to defeat any assessment bill that may be brought forward. That journal has never really been in favor of a new assessment of property, especially personal property, as it is aware of the fact that millions of dollars of stocks which now escape taxation will he made to come to the light. Senators Gorman and Gibson are merely used as bugaboos to divert the attention of the people from the real issue.

> EQUALIZATION NEEDED. From the Cumberland Independent:

Whether a reassessment would in crease the basis of taxation is immaterial. One thing is absolutely certain -an honest reassessment law, if honassessment as a basis of fair and honest estly put in force, would equalize taxation. It is equalizing that is needed. cure. The fact that the basis may be increased or decressed can be no argument against a revaluation; because, if the basis would be decreased it is indisputable evidence that someone is now paying taxes on values he does not possess. That is certainly unjust and wrong. On the other hand, if the basis would be increased by revaluation it is proof that someone has values on which no taxes are paid. There can be neither justice

From the Denton Journal:

The people of the good old commonwealth, especially the farmers, on whose property principally have rested the burdens of taxation prescribed by the law of 1876, will insist upon it that nothing short of a fair assessment be provided They have plainly seen that the weight of taxation has been one of the causes which has depressed the value of their land, and that a shifting of a part of this load to those who have so long enjoyed exemptions will be simple justice.

From the Laurel Democrat: There is one issue of paramount importance to the people of Maryland which ought to be kept in view from now until the day of election, one in which all the people are deeply interested, that of a new assessment. There are other important questions to be met, but none which so nearly affects our entire population as does the question reassessment.

Then his tail, with the aid of a dry leaf, was proclaiming that it was the tail of a rattlesnake.

All this, coupled with an ominous hiss, was calculated to strike terror to the heart of his disturber, as for a moment it did. I regained my courage, however, and began to poke the serpent gently with a stick, when, finding 'bluster" of no avail, he sought safety in flight.
