SELKIRK'S SOLITARY HOME OPENED TO SETTLERS. HOWARD HOUSE,

The Scene of Defoe's Immortal Romance Becomes a Convlet Station-Chile to Colonize Her Pacific Possession.

HERE has been received during the past thirty days news from Chile which will not be regarded as joyful intelligence by the friends of Daniel Defoe, says the San Francisco Bulletin. Poor old Robinson Crusoe's hut on Juan Fernandez Island is to be torn down, and in its place will be erected a prison station, to be used as an auxilary to the Chilean penitentiary at Santiago. Juan Fernandez is to be thrown open to settlers, and rumor is extant that Mocho Island will also be advertised as "a splendid place for a poor man to make a fortune." Mocho Island is mentioned in connection with the story of Juan Fernandez, because, according to South American historians, the spot was probably the landing place of Sailor Alexander Selkirk, whose adventures Defoe elaborated into chapters of marvelous narrative, instead of the lonely rock several hundred miles in a southwesterly direction from the port of Valparaiso. Doubt still exists in the minds of a number of Chilean writers as to the identity of the island on which Selkirk spent four years of lonely exist

The Chilean Department of Colonization has never been inclined, in the past, to invite settlers to the islands lying off the coast of Chile and owned and controlled by that Republic. Robinson Crusoe's domain has been zealously guarded by representatives of the Chilean Government, and all attempts to settle upon it or to learn the secrets of its queerly shaped canons, ranges and peaks have been discountenanced by stolid officials of that little southern Nation. The opposition of the Chilean Government to the colonization of Crusoe's old home dates back to the overthrow of the Spanish powers on the western slope of the Andes and the securing of Chilean independence. Shortly after this important change in the political complexion of New Spain, England dispatched ambassadors to ascertain the extent of the resources of the territory claimed by the new Republic. The Embassy was not received with open arms by the South Americans. The Chilean President suspected that England wanted to acquire one of the islands off the South American coast for a naval station, and when the Embassy desired to inspect Selkirk's seabound retreat it met with a polite but very positive refusal of passport privileges.

This anti-colonization feeling influenced future Chilean Presidents, and not until the rise of Balmaceda to power did the Government consider the feasibility of colonizing both California, Where the San Gives Uncle Mocho and Juan Fernandez Islands. The present ruler of Chile favors the Glowing words of praise were utmovement, and before the year is tered by Rev. E. D. Dille, of San Franover the authorities will have divided cisco, when he described California to the islands into small tracts and placed the Christian Endeavorers at Boston. the property on the market.

Juan Bautista Pastene, the Italian explorer, is alleged to have visited Crusoe's isle before he did the isle of Mocho. The records do not bear out this statement, although in the Government library at Santiago there is a volume of correspondence which refers to Pastene as one of the early visitors to Juan Fernandez. Pastene did visit Mocho in 1814 and again in 1850. He is alleged to have reported that he believed that Defoe's hero was really marooned on Mocho instead of Juan Fernandez. However, on Mocho Pastene found a superior race of savages, who were of a much higher order of intelligence than those spoken of in Crusoe's diary. On the other hand, there really were signs of cannibalistic feasts of days gone by in the high sands of the more remote island.

Selkirk's hut faces the southern ocean, and is a diminutive affair, which the keepers of Juan Fernandez did not think worth disturbing. It is to be remodeled shortly, for the new branch prison will be built on the spot where it stands. Directly under the little house is a broad beach, partly protected from the winds by a high bluff which commands from its crest a splendid view of the island and the surrounding Pacific.

Selkirk, it is said, used the top of this biuff as a signal station, and for four years he patiently watched for passing ships. At the base of the cliff a long reef runs seaward, marked here and there by sharp pointed rocks, over which the surf dashes incessantly. One word about Selkirk himself. English record keepers and historians aver that the man was a seaman, who was mercooned for mutiny, but South Americans claim that the fellow deserted from an English trader inbound to Valparaiso, and, after stealing a boat, sailed for what he thought was the mainland. He landed on Juar Fernandez Island, and there found & semi-fertile land, visited frequently by heavy rain showers, the home of water fowl, and everything but a tropical paradise such as Defoe portrayed in his remarkable record of human imagination. The interior of the island was very rocky, and the flora and fauna of the land were of that limited character ascribed to "Treasure Island" by Robert Louis Steven

Th visits of cannibals to the beach of Juan Fernandez are supposed to have been related by Defoe in "Robinson Crusoe" simply to lend interest to his story. The tribes of south Chile and Mocho Island are not thought to have taken long canoe trips to the outof-the-way rock, but savages, according to geological students, did frequently visit the place years and years before Daniel Defoe and his prolific pen were ever heard of. Bones of a race of men of the statue and strength of the Patagonians have been found buried deep in the island sands, together with stone and bone weapons used by tribes on the south continent centuries ago, and at a time when Cortez, Pizarro, and other Mexican and South American explorers were boys at school. The truth in the matter is that Defoe had little to learn from Alexander Selkirk or the island of Juan Fernandez that might have a'ded him in the foundation of the character of Crusoe. The evolution of a tradition developed Selkirk into the Defoe Crusoe; at least, that is what the Chileans say.

An Unconsidered Trifle.

To say that there must be at least $2,500,000 lying in London banks which has been forgotten is no exaggeration at all, said a bank manager to one of our representatives the other day. If an investigation could be made, he went on, it would most likely be found that this unclaimed sum was nearer $5,000,000 than $2,-500,000.

A most curious case was that of a wealthy merchant in Leadenhall street, whose forgetfulness was a byword. Ten years ago he put $50,000 in his bank, to his private account, and immediately forgot all about it, having neglected to fill up the counterfoil in his deposit book.

A few months ago, while tearing up some old papers, he came across a penciled note bearing the words, Bank $50,000," and a date which he was unable to decipher. He made inquiries into the matter, and found that he was wealthier than he thought by $50,000 with interest. How he overlooked the amount it is difficult to say. He is still noted for the haphazard way in which he keeps his private accounts. The old woman who forgot the exstence of a legacy of $1000 a year from her master was another instance of carelessness. Here the old lady, a one-time housekeeper, could hardly read or write. When she received a ı letter from her late master's solicitors to the effect that the legacy would be paid quarterly on application at a city bank, the lucky woman for a fortright was none the wiser. The important look of the seal on the envelope and the fine note paper caused her to make inquiries, and a friendly neighbor, after much effort, spelled through the letter. The old lady, who was in poor circumstances, could not believe the good news, and so, without going to the bank, she decided that the letter was a hoax.— London Tit-Bits.

WANTED____ Bright Boys and Girls

Sell the New York Ledger Every Week.

Big Pay for Little Work. The New York Ledger has had so many ap-plications from boys and girls throughout the country wanting to sell the Ledger by the week, as well as by subscription for the year, we have decided to establish wideiwake young agents in every town in the

We Want an Active Worker in Elvery Place. Hundreds of smart boys and girls in every locality have several hours' spare time each

Read Our Plan. We want just such ones to work for us a little while every week selling Ledgers at 5 cents each—selling the old, reliable, original and best story paper published—the New York Ledger.

No Possible Risk. Our young agents take no possible risk. We send a bundle of Ledgers every week, and they sell them like hot cakes at 5 cents each. Every one wants the New York Ledger as Erenders And a regular reader will be secured on the spot. Each agent should read carefully the terms of the $1,000 in Cash Brizes given to readers who send the best explanation of the mystery of Miss Florence Warden's wonderfully interesting story beginning in this week's Ledger, dated Sept. 14, entitled "The Mystery of the Inn by the Shore," Each agent will be entitled to compete for the $1,000 in Cash Prizes.

The Ledger Free. If the postmaster or any responsible party will send us the name of a smart boy or girl to sell the Ledger every week in his town, we will put an extra Ledger in the agent's bundle each week, to be delivered free to the party appointing the agent so long as the agent sells the Ledger. Send us the name of a smart boy or girl at once. Have them fill out this coupon and send it at once:

......189 I hereby agree to act from date as agent for the New York Ledger, and to sell the same to ladles, farmers and others at 5 cents a copy every week, and that I will report not later than the Monday after each package is received, on blank furnished me, and remit 3 cents for each copy I sell or deliver to sub-scribers, and will keep all unsold copies, to be re-turned as instructed.
