DESTRUCTION OF THE MAINE, The blowing up of the Maine, one of sensation throughout the country. Fully 253 sailors were either killed or sion. Was it the work of Spanish con- stitutional rights, or that it was solely spirators or was it an accident? The lower class of Spainards at Hayana have always looked upon the presence of the tial and partisan reading of American Maine as a menace and it is generally believed that if they thought they could accomplish the destruction of the vessel they would do it.

FROM ANNAPOLIS.

Correspondence of THE TIMES. Annapolis, Feb. 16, 1898. Speaker Schaefer, who was so friendly disposed towards the Democrats the first a call for a division, the Speaker arbitrarily adjourned the House without putting the question to a division. This actually a special officer at Oella, but none for this section. No, this section has not "been officered by Baltimore county." Chief ting the question to a division. This ac- Union, too sordid for patriotism, tion has caused some feeling, particularly as the members feel themselves remediless. The House being adjourned raised, what method could the House and I would as lief be again in the bands pursue to preserve its rights. There can of our old Committees of Safety, who be little doubt that if a quorum remained | made the law and executed it at the in the House, appointed a Speaker pro tem after the Speaker elect had left the ple of the East cannot reconfle their chair, then appealed from the decision of the chair, and a quorum voting to sustain the appeal, that quorum may proceed to business, and a court of law would sustain them. This has not yet been done in Maryland, but Speaker ting of 1803-4 was the right of a state or Schaefer might find himself free to face with an ugly problem if he tries his tactics of Tuesday too often. The real object of the Police re-organization bill may be under the surface, but one thing is apparent—the Republicans are trying to legislate two of their own men out of office, and to further one of their factional interests. A handful of the Republicans is opposed to this, but they play fast and loose so quick. there is little hope of justice or mercy from them to their own people, and as soon as the proper official inducement in the way of patronage comes to usnd, the opposition will vanish into thin air, and the Sixth district combine will carry evcrything before it, as it has done in the past. Meanwhile, the Democratic con tingent hobs up serencly with forty-one votes every time, and puts its ladle in the Republican kettle, and stirs it with might and main. Some of the Democrats, howeyer, are a little restive about aiding the Republicans in their family quarrels. There is something unique in the interest awakened by the Sheppard Asylum bill. It is entirely disassociated with politics. Democrats and Republicans are against Democrats and Republicans, and for once it is refreshing to know of a measure awakening univer-al attention with no party lines drawn. There is no doubt a lobby working against the acceptance of the Pratt legacy, but it does not show its hand very plainly, and there is strong reason to believe that the Leg-Islature of '98 will not settle the matter, but that it will be left to the decision of the Courts. The Legislature has gotten down now to serious work, and the Senate held night session in the middle of this week to bring up its work. On the House side committees meet mornings and afternoons, with sessions of the House wedged in between. Delegations occupy a large part of the se-sions of the Committees, siring their views on measures before the Committees, and often spicy debates take place between contending delegations.

So far, no debates of a significant character have taken place on Legislative matters because the important measures of the session have not yet come forth from Committees, strengthened with their approval, and thus able to stand on their feet and give and take blows The Police re-organization bill, the Election Law amendment bill, the appropriation bills, and the oyster law amendment, all of which, with the re districting bill of Baltimore City. promising sharp and interesting debate. are yet to be considered. Lucky is the member who has his local legislation well out of the way before these come to

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Week of Monday, February 21 -"Under th

Red Robe In his dramat'zation of Stanley Wey man's novel, "Under the Red Robe," which comes to the Academy of Music Baltimore, next week, Edward Rose is said to have marshalled the incidents in the book which lend themselves to dramatic use with skill and great artistic taste. There are four acts, and Charles Frohman has equipped each appropriately. The principal theme, the loves of Gil de Berault and Ronce de Cocheforet. is carried forward with cumulative interest up to the fareful meeting of the Pyrences and then, as is always the case in romantic drama, a few clever phrases explain away the villainy of De Berault, and all is plain sailing for the tried and true sweethearts. Mr. Rose first introduces the brawler, De Berault, follows picts the few sparks of decency which are left in his breast. He shows the conflict that originates in his love for Renee and carries him back to the dread Cardinal, determined to give himself up to death rather than fulfill the infamous liquor, sea water, &c. Buy a gallon and contract, the capturing of Renee's broth-

SOME THINGS TO BE REMEMBERLD.

BY TIM TRICKETT. The review by M. W. H. (M. W. flazeltine) of a volume entitled "Nullification and Secession" is mighty interesting and profitable reading at this time. The interesting fact is recorded that John Adams, answering the question, "Did every member of Congress on the 4th man committed suicide there by blowing July, 1776, cordially approve of the Declaration of Independence?" replied, "Majorities were constantly against it." "For many days the majority depended on Mr. Hewes of North Carolina." The draft of a declaration was adopted on July 4th, but it was not signed by all the All correspondence with this office should be addressed to "THE TIMES, Efficott City, Md." | members, except John Dickinson, until the 2nd of August. When our present the 2nd of August. When our present constitution was finally offered for adoption it was accepted in nearly all cases with qualifications or recommendations of amendments. New York the largest and finest vessels of our navy, voted ratification on the declared premin the harbor at Havana, Tuesday ise that "the powers of government may night last, has produced a most profound | be reassumed by the people wheresoever it shall become necessary for their happiness." "It is a mistake," the author says. "to suppose that the effort to break loose drowned. The question agitating the from the Union in 1860 61 was an epi minds of all is as to the cause of the explo- sode dependent on a new reading of con-consequence of the desire to perpetuate a social system based on slavery." The author goes on to say, "It is a very parhistory which fails to see that from the acceptance of the constitution in 1789 there has been a tendency to assert the ments or even to sever their relations to the union. The tendency indeed, has been a shifting one, exhibited now at the North and again in the South." "The fourth proceeding of the kind was the of 1812-14 ending in a convention of those States convoked for the purpose of formulating sectional autonomy." pointed out that, "Had the events of the first ten years of national life been forseen, it is certain that Virginia and New York with North Carolina and probably Pennsylvania would not have ratified the constitution," and the author shows that "could New England have looked far At Woonsocket, R. I., 2,300 operatives enough ahead to see the events of the fourteen years following 1800, it would never had entered the Union." Chief Justice Marshall said upon one occasion "So small in many instances was the majority for the constitution as to afford strong ground for the opinion that had A New Haven, Conn., shop girl says | the influence of character been removed would not have secured its adoption. Indeed it is scarcely to be doubted that in some of the States a majority of the peo-ple were in opposition." In the author's judgment therefore it is a case of "suppression of the truth" to say that the people were the contracting parties in constituting the nation, when it is admitted that if they had voted directly on the constitution it would not have been adopted. It was the people acting as States, and in that capacity only, that constructed the Federal union. The aupart of the session, has made several rul- | ther concludes that "If it be true that ings recently that have not pleased his the general Government is not a compact Democratic supporters quite so well. A commission of one John Henry was made out by Sir James Craig, Governor of the British provinces of North America, which commission asked for the earliest information as to how far in the case of war, England could look for assistance. Henry reported that "the Governor of Vermont made no secret of his determination as Commander-in chief of the State Militla to refuse obedience to any command of the General Government. In October, 1814, the Boston Centinel declared that the Union was as good as dissolved and spoke of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut at the first three pillars "in a New Federal edifice." It was proposed to make a separate treaty with England. England's original proposal which the mem bers of the Hartford Convention and other New Englanders had declared to e "just and liberal," were that the United States should yield almost all the Northwest, including Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, a large part of Indiana and one-third of Ohio. AFTER THE LOAVES AND FISHES.

MR. EDITOR: In last week's issue of THE TIMES under the heading, "Proposed Legisla tion for Ellicott City," you call attention to a movement that has been stated right of States to nullify national enact- to separate or cut off that portion of our town lying in Baltimore county from the City and leave it wholly under the control of Baltimore county. You also state that in "justification of the proposed movement its promoters contend. First. "They will share the convenience of free mail delivery." Second. "That they would also be exempt from the burdensome city tax." Third. "That Baltimore county has thoroughly offer cered this portion of the town " Fourth. That "a more satisfactory system of Electric Lighting would be maintained by the county." Now, Mr. Editor, let us analyze these reasons for thus despoiling our ancient city, and perhaps we will find that there is a "nigger in the woodpile." First. As our remotest residence s not over five or six minutes walk from the postoffice it is surely no great burden to have to go or send for the mail, besides it is only the morning mail that is delivered, therefore we would still have to send for our afternoon mail, beside being deprived of an excuse for going uptown in the morning and incidentally of "hearing the news." Second. Our city tax rate of 10 cents on the $100 cannot be considered very "burdensome." I am informed that there is not over two individual bills that amount to so much as five dollars per annum,a very small sum indeed to pay for the privilege of "living in the city," and with our present revenue from liquor licenses the ossibility of an increase in the above Legislature) is very remote. Third. We est notice, and at the lowest prices. Mr ate (which could only be done by act of have never heard that Baltimore county had appointed a police officer for this section. We know that it is the home of one of the county constables but it is not the custom in Baltimore county for constables to do police duty. We have regular police at Catonsville and a Vansant and Officer Scaggs of the city force, do the policing here. It looks as though somebody wants to be appointed special officer for this section. They are after the "lcaves and fishes." Fourth. What is Baltimore county's record as to lighting in the First district? Gas and gasolene at Catonsville; gasolene at Oella (and incisame time. Pickering said, "The peo-> up in the millions? No, Mr. Editor, we think somebody wants to be appointed lighter of gasolene lamps in this section. It is the "loves and fishes," again, we think. Now what are some of the advantages of remaining in the city? First. A thorough police system, good and efficient officers always within reach. Second. An efficient system of electric lighting. Third. An organized fire department, always ready to protect our property. Fourth. Garbage collection. Fifth. Sidewalks, curbing and boardwalks, without extra expense to the taxpayers. We could not expect these improvements from the county. How would our people have gotten through the mud on Oelia Avenue during the past month had it not been for the board-walk placed there last year by the city, at an expense equalling a year's revenue from property tax on this side of the river? And it is only a question of time when all of our roads will be furnished with curbing and sidewalks. No, Mr. Editor, this is not a move intended to redound to the weal of our people, but rather a move to saddle upon Baltimore county two or more officers and thus increase the number who "fatten at the public crib," and at the same time deprive us of the many benefits and privileges we now enjoy, thus taking a long step backwards. Where is there another city in this great country that wants to decrease its bounds? This is the era of progress and of reaching out. Let us extend our limits by all means, but do not let us go backward. "Forward, forward let us range." ARQUILL.

Baltimore County, Feb. 16, 1898.

FAVORS THE DAY BILL. EDITOR TIMES: May I as one of your many readers have a little space this week in your columns to say a few words on the road question. Senator Day's bill of which you spoke in your last issue, has the ring of good metal. We will not have our roads improved until we do it ourselves. unaided by city, State, or the U. S government. If our dwellings need repairing who should pay for repairs? Baltimore City or any city near us, has no more right to aid in making our roads than we have to aid in paying their streets. The plan as laid down in Mr. Day's bill is an easy one, the tax s required would not amount to as much by me-half as we now pay on the toll roads. besides, we would then have stone roads come near our hon.es, where now many are compelled to pull from three to five miles to reach a road that has not "lost its bot tom." Some say railroads coming through enhance the value of land; so they do, but not nearly so much as a good turnpike, or a well made stone road. hope all will lay aside politics and aid Senator Day with his bill. Yours truly. GEO. W. GEASLEN. Oakland Mills, Feb. 15, 1898.

All Sorts of People.

T T takes all sorts of people to make up the life and animation, the peculiarities and eccentricities of everyday life in this busy world. There are people who never do anything without thinking, then again there are others who rush headlong into schemes and ventures without taking time to think what the result might be. There are people who have remarkable ideas about economy. A man once purchased a patent ice tray that was guaranteed to save half the ice when properly adjusted in the refrigerator. With much elation over his economic discovery, he took the tray home and presented it to his thrifty wife. He explained the importance of the tray as an ice saver. " It saves half the ice, my dear." "Then you should have bought two of them," replied his wife, "because if one will save half the ice, two will save all the ice."
