WAR INEVITABLE.

A resolution declaring for intervention, amid great excitement, passed the House almost unanimously Wednesday. Every man of humane principle deprecates war but when you have a bad man to deal with you must fight or retreat. In this case Congress has determined not to retreat cost what it may. The Senate is tion guaranteeing the independence of Cuba, to start the fleet towards the island with hostile intent. In the meanthe fiat has gone forth that Spain has been, is at present and will continue to cally free from monarchal domination it is plain that it cannot be, extinguished and the proud bird of freedom can sail by present methods. The only hope of unhindered over two continents.

THE PROPOSED CURRENCY BILL.

The currency bill prepared by the subcommittee of the committee on Banking and Currency, which was last week introduced in the House, follows largely the recommendations of the so-called "monetary conference," which met at Indianapolis, as to the establishment of an issue and redemption division in the Treasury Department, the substitutions for present legal tender notes of an issue to be known as reserve notes, and chance to become a law during the life of the present Congress as Spain has to whip the United States. The redemption feature of the bill strikes the lay reader as being absurd. It provides that the legal tender notes and standard silver dollars shall be redeemed in gold, upon demand, and then expressly stipulates that silver certificates shall not be redeemed in gold. Just refer to the face of a silver certificate and you will see that they represent silver dollars, deposited with the U. S. Treasury and payable upon demand to the holder of the certificate. Therefore, should this wise bill become a law, all the holders of silver certificates who wished them redeemed in gold would have to do would be to first demand standard silver dollars for them and then get the gold for the sliver dollars. A measure containing a clause so manifestly absurd is not calculated to inspire public confidence in other sections, where the absurdities could not be so readily discovered before they were put into practical operation; but come to think, the Indianapolis convention that fathered these ideas, did not inspire any confidence outside of the bondholders and bankers who footed its bills.

LEE IN WASHINGTON

Consul General Fitzhugh Lee reached Washington from Havana Tuesday. A every point his train stopped between Tampa, Fla., and Washington he was met by large crowds and wildly cheered. At Richmond the ovation was unprecedented. He was affectionately greeted by thousands and the old "rebel yell" went up with a gusto that reminded of antebellum days. The General was led to ask what was all this yelling about. Do you want to fight? Instanly the almost unaninious response was, "Yes, we do if you'll lead." Lee is the hero of the hour. His serene equipoise under the most trying circumstances in Havana won the admiration of Mr. McKinley. He is thoroughly hated by the Spanish and there is no doubt that conspiracies were rife for his assassination. Doubtless in the midst of jeers and insults of the Spanish rabble it was difficult at times for him to contain himself and it is safe to say by this time is of the opinion that Spanish pride and treachery should receive a rebuke.

And now comes the news that Consul obliged Tuesday to hastily leave in order to save his life. The attitude of the Cuba after the departure of our consuls. people became so threatening that the Even the savage Turks recognize and re- striking a balance against our imports we Consul did not have time to take any of spect the red cross. his effects with him. The Spanish authorities were unwilling or powerless to protect him. While there the Consul devoted much of his time distributing supplies to the starving reconcentrados and relieving their necessities. This, doubtless, was the means of stirring up the Spanish ire.

When completely equipped for offen- that women are smart. sive operations the Federal fleet now assembling at Hampton Roads and Key West will require the constant service of at least twelve coal-carrying transports. The Government has four craft of that class at the present time, and the chief of the Naval Bureau of Equipment is anxiously looking for more. This is a most important matter, since, in the last resort, other things being equal, the ships with the amplest supplies of coal would win in a sea fight.

Call it "humanity," "business interests," or what you please, every soldier and sailor who will fight for us knows that the war screech of the American eagle, which has been heard around the world, means vengeance for the mar- Signature tyred crew of the Maine.

were crowded to suffocation Monday awaiting President McKinley's message bearing on the Cuban question. The Presbe intervention, from motives of humanity and in order to secure a stable government for the island. He says under existing conditions we have no international right to acknowledge the independence of Cuba; she has not yet secured it, &c. He is not clear as to the possible outcome of intervention. He seems to intimate that any "stable" government would suit him whether it be by the insurgents or under Spanish rule. In this he is not voicing public sentiment either as expressed through Congress, the State legislatures or the National platforms of the various political parties, all of which have given clear and unmistakable utterances on the subject—that is, free Cuba,

"STABLE GOVERNMENT."

Does the President Want Our Forces to The galleries of the National Capitol Fight the Insurgents? There was a good many lively tilts in the House Tuesday last as to the meaning of that part of President McKinley's mes-

ident clearly indicates that there should sage which referred to the establishment of a "stable" government on the Island of Cuba. The Democrats contended that it was vague and indefinite, while the Republicans sought to defend the President. Mr. Balley, the Democratic leader, wound up the discussion with the following stirring words:

It was somewhat remarkable, said Mr. Bailey, that the President in sending to Congress one of the most important messages on one of the most exciting questions which had been before the country n years had concluded with a recommendation so ambiguous that it could be the occasion of controversy. Other portions of the message showed that the President was a master of clear and lucid English yet in presenting his recommendations he had done so in words that taxed the ingenuity of the gentleman from Ohlo to make clear what he meant.

If the President meant the freedom and independence of Cuba, why had he not said so? "I do not believe," said Mr. Bailey, "that the President deliberately veiled his meaning, and in saying that I do him more credit than others on this floor. I believe if the President had designed the establishment of a free and change. The extraordinary activity that independent republic on the island of Cuba, he would have said so. Why did he say a stable government? A stable government and an independent government are vastly different. No one doubts that Canada possesses a stable governis not an independent government. I do ot doubt that Spain could establish a stable government. It could make a desert and call it peace.
"No one could deny," continued Mr.

Balley, "that the President has asked for authority to send the army and navy to Cuba to restore peace. When our forces arrived, the Spaniards would say: 'We are at peace; our arms are stacked; it is the insurgents who are at war.' Then the agents of the President would be compelled under the authority he asks to say to the insurgents: 'Stack you arms retire to the fields where you have for three years struggled with fire and sword to attain your liberty.'

"Mark my words," said Mr. Bailey in conclusion, with uplifted arm and ominous gesture, "no President that sends the army and navy of the United States to force the patriot soldiers of Cuba to lay down their arms will live, nor will his children live, to survive the odium

The National Guard-Maryland's Quota. In anticipation of the possibility of a call on the National Guard of the states and the territories to assist in the National defense in the case of war with Spain, Adjutant General Corbin, of the army, has compiled a mass of interesting information in connection with the strength of the National Guard and the quota each state and territory would be expected to furnish under calls for from second, according to the population the different states and territories. These tables are very complete and show precisely the number of men each state or territory would be expected to furnish strength of the National Guard organizations in each state and territory. In explanation of the tables given below, may be stated that while the total strength of the National Guard of New York is 17,700, in case the National Guard of the country was called upon to supply 50,000 men, New York's apportionment according to its strength, would be 5,705 men, and according to its population 5,005. In case the call should be for 200,000 men, it would be required to furnish 22,820 men, according to the National Guard organization, and 20,023 acording to the population of the state. The strength of the National Guard of Maryland is 3,300. In case of a call for 50,000 from the National Guard, the state would be required to farnish 920, while according to population the quota would

It is stated by Adjutant-General Corbin that in case a call for troops becomes necessary it will be based upon the population of the different states.

A Bull Knocks out Two Lions According to a dispatch five thousand cople witnessed a cruel and bloody fight between two African lions and a Mexican bull at the City of Mexico, on Easter Sunday. The audience included the whole American colony and many notables. Many ladies were present. The first lion was very large. He killed his trainer a short time ago. He had been starved for the past week. The bull, without a moment's hesitation, sprang at the lion and caught him on his horns un der the foreleg and threw him backward fifteen feet agains the bars, knocking the breath and fight completely out of him Another Ifon was then provided. I made a good fight, but was gored unmercifully and taken from the ring in a dying condition. The governor then stopped the fighting.

FACTS ABOUT HEALTH It is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How-Some of the Conditions Necessary to Perfect Health. The importance of maintaining good health is easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food. The blood is employed to carry nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. No medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla and it is because it is the one true blood purifier.
