The Mayor and four members of the City Council appeared before the County Commissioners Tuesday with a petition signed by citizens of Ellicott City Belden D. Patrick, Liebon, Howard asking for an annual appropriation of $1000 for an arc light service in the city. The arguments used by the council were that the taxable basis here fully justifled the expenditure, that the road tax alone amounted to about $500 annually, of which the balance of the county got the benefit, that the city was as fully entitled to the appropriation as Elkridge. The commissioners took the ground that in the case of Elkridge that place was in danger of becoming depopulated by the superior attractions presented in Baltimore county just across the line, furnished through the liberality of the Baltimore County Commissioners, and that their action in reference to Elkridge was a prime necessity. The commissioners, however, did not say they would not grant the appropriation and held the matter under advisement, stating that they desired to get a consensus of the people throughout the county.

Jenkins devoted his time and patrimony to the welfare of the college, and justly deserves to be considered its second founder. At the time of his death—1869 -the staff of professors had increased to thirteen, and the yearly attendance of students to one hundred and forty. At present the faculty numbers seventeen. and the students two hundred and forty. Nearly three thousand students have been matriculated, of whom about nine hundred have been ordained priests. The college building, which is well back from the turnpike, opposite the entrance to "Doughoregan Manor," the seat of the Carroll family, is a massive

California paper: SANTA ROSA, March 30.-Dr. James Avery Shepherd died at his little home on Cherry lane in this city this afternoon. Dr. Shepherd was a native of Vermont. In his youth he spent much time in Brazil with his father. While there he learned the language spoken in the South American countries. After his father's death at Rio Janeiro he returned to Vermont with his mother. He graduated at Mid-

Fifty-six years ago he was ordained a Louisville, Ky., by Bishop Smith of the Episcopal church. Previous to that time he had been president of St. Andrew's College, in Mississippi, which position he accented at the request of Bishop Green of Mississippi. A Car Running on the Columbia and Mary The work on the city division of Columbia and Maryland Railway has been completed by the contractors, J. G. White & Co. The first car was run over the tracks Monday to see that everything worked properly. The car now is running regularly over the route, which is west'on Garataga street, to Monroe street, to Franklin street and as far as the completed line extends. Power for the line is secured from the Consolidated Railway Company. As the road is of a narrower gauge than the other city rapid-transit lines, it was necessary to send to Washington to get a car for the line. The

School Entertainment at Day Post Office. DAY, April 19 .- Never was "Pickett's Hall" so crowded as last evening when the school nearby, taught by Misses Lillian Trayer and Pearl Mercier, held their entertainment, which consisted of singing, recitations, dialogues, tableaux and Miss Trayer took entire charge of the singing, whilst Miss Mercier managed the dialogues, tableaux, etc. The school numbers about 70 scholars, and too much praise can not be given these ladies for the perfect manner in which each pupil performed his or her part. It showed they had been carefully trained as well as thoroughly taught during the past year, and it is a school of which any neighbornood should feel proud. A nice sum was realized, and we hope when school reopens next fall to hear the ringing of the bell, for which benefit the entertainment was given.
