THE TERMS OF PEACE: There is no doubt that Spain has sincerely tried to reach the terms upon which hostilities will cease as early as possible.

1. The President does not now put forward any claim for pecuniary indemnity.

2. Spain must relinquish all claim to Cuba and immediately evacuate the island.

3. Spain must cede to the United States and immediately evacuate Porto Rico and all other islands in the West Indies under Spanish sovereignty.

4. The United States will occupy and govern the city of San Juan, pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace which shall determine the control, disposition and government of the Philippines.

Advices from Madrid announce that Spain has accepted the principle of the American conditions, but wishes further details, and, if this report be confirmed, there will be no doubt of an early cessation of hostilities.

After the acceptance of the terms has been officially acknowledged, the two countries will appoint their respective commissioners, who will meet and draw up a formal treaty to be afterward confirmed by the proper constitutional bodies.

MILITARY FOR CONGRESS: The Baltimore evening News of Wednesday says that Ex-Governor John Lee Carroll has decided that he cannot accept the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth District.

The former Governor says that his reasons for declining to make the contest are due to the fact that Mrs. Carroll is in bad health.

"Another shot for the City Hall." I hope that this will be a nice one, for many unsavory ones have been told of it lately.

"Spain cannot withdraw." Why not? Uncle Sam bays her soldiers and sailors, feels them, gets them in good condition, and ships them home as human beings, not as pigs, as they used to delight in calling us.

"Madrid now knows nothing of it." That has been the trouble all along, but they have heard recently of Dewey, Schley, Shafter, Wheeler, Teddy Roosevelt, Hobson, Wainwright, the Dixie, Brigadier Higgs, Adjutant General Wilmer and the Fifth. They know all about it.

"There are more newspaper made men than tailor made girls." The latter are, however, more in demand than the former if the American's pictures of them are of good likeness.

"If one desires to buy a bicycle he should call it a 'wheel' for he will then be recognized as an expert, and special terms will be given to him." If he say "wheel" he will be classed as an amateur, and the price he will have to pay will make him tired.

"The correspondents who reported the engagement of Lieutenant Hobson got it wrong." Lieut. Hobson was not shot, but the arrival of the first tooth in the mouth of his first child.

"An Englishman has discovered that this government is an elective monarchy." Hurrah for Elective Monarchy! Uncle Sam the First, also monarch of all he surveys of this part of the globe. The man never goes down to the polls, but he even takes a short rest, for he is hourly adding to them.

"Visible supply of cotton." This does not refer to the supply made visible by the dog who attacked the fool book agent, but to the supply of cotton.

"What is Russia after?" After all, "At Sparrow's Point." Everything except what the little chick was expected to eat—worms.

"I was induced to play a game called 'Buz' or 'Butte.'" I was turned out of it, by the young woman who hisped, when I said "Buz" and that I mocked her. When I said "Butte" she was displeased because I hadn't said "butte." I play it no more; it requires too much thought.

"Slang is mighty and will prevail." I pointed to a black cloud the other day and said to a young man who was going visiting—rain. He replied that cuts no more, but I didn't for it only drenched him. He carries an umbrella now.

FIRST IN WAR, FIRST IN PEACE, AND FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF HIS COUNTRYMEN.

The compliments which have been showered upon me of late have so overcome me, that I am somewhat at a loss for words for this article. My writings have been called consistent and my style, by an expert, likened to that of Addison, the great master of the art of English composition, whose works are eagerly studied by those who wish to learn what is elegant and worthy of imitation in the use of our language.

Say, master, what ver giv'ia us. Alnt you ketch'd on to his ribs, the news paper sharp? He's a regular old hand, and run out a mable heart agin. You are behind the game. This ant to be no light to a finish but a Sunday schooler's call for more.

"No shoven" of the queer; "no funny" "biz," on the level, and for points only. No gouging, bling and scratching. You're not dead yet for you, I s'ize you up the leg, I could rear you out, cause I'm a heavy weight, but the werry first p'ss you made at me I seen I was out-classed and you had me. I never had no regular training, and that little I know I picked up here and there, promiscuous like. The parties what put up this racket played me for a sucker and ketch'd me, too. They got me at my own game, they didn't let up, if they knowed, what you had up your sleeve. They gave me the grat that you hadn't been taking no regular exercise for sometime only tenc'ing and then with folls with big buttons on. Why, one of them upper cuffs of yours, hurt clean to the bone. If I didn't know you was white as they are, I'd have sworn you was a nigger. You may wad of long green, that you drew a razor on me I quits. Shake. You aint got a scratch, but I'm sore, dead sore.

"Lost, Strayed Away, or Stolen, one damaged reputation for veracity, that of the person who invented the lie that Senator Gorman was working up a government for me, and that I had no concern for its return for it is valueless even to its owner."

I have to say that no one, not even Senator Gorman is working up any Government claim or contract for me, that I have no acquaintance of any kind with Senator Gorman, that I have never approached him directly or indirectly upon any business, and that I have never been him by his public reputation, that I have never spoken to, written to, or otherwise addressed him and that the statement in the News touching my claim is untrue. I make the statement in my real, as well as my pen name. As I see it, the editorial in this Times of 30 July means that I shall be allowed space to reply in my own way, and that I shall be allowed to make, but no innuendoes, hair-splitting niceties, etc., will be allowed. This last provision will cause the rigid exclusion of any matter, for of course, I will wish to make one word except its heading and its signature, and would be unfair to him so I have nothing more to say.

"Bread riots in Havana." I am glad of it for it shows that bread is rising, I hope in price, however, and that there is plenty of it for all to eat about just one riotous loaf-er. I don't wish any one to be without the staff of life.

Spanish Illiteracy.

The statistics reported to have been compiled by the "Philadelphia Commercial Museum" from "official sources," the date of which is not mentioned, give the illiterate population of Spain as 5,104,470, or 84 per cent. of the population. "The Statesman's Year Book" for 1898, one of the best authorities, gives the number of illiterate persons in Spain as 5,072,000, or 77.3 per cent. of the population in that year; and, of course, it is not conceivable that there has been a reduction of 40 per cent. in Spanish illiteracy in eight years.

It is interesting to compare Spain and the United States as to this matter of illiteracy. The illiteracy of the United States in 1890 was only 13.3 per cent, and even that comparatively small percentage was due largely to the fact that the colored population of 7,368,000, 56.8 per cent. of the population, at that time was nearly 13 per cent. less than that of Spain.

The number of pupils in the various schools and colleges in the United States in 1897 was 15,548,585, and of teachers 455,203, or together 17,003,788. This was equal to 27 per cent. of the population. Compare this with Spain's 10 per cent. of illiterate population, and account for the sorry exhibition of helplessness made by poor old Spain in her contest with us. What better can be expected of a nation whose people are so ignorant of their own rights and duties as to be ignorant of such plain things as that we as a people have only the warmest sympathy for a man who is to aid, Dewey gave one of the war the introduction of "Yankee notions" of education, etc., so that at the present time the Spanish leaders will be constrained, by the march of events, to give their entire time and talents to "home affairs" and the making of efforts to raise their country to the place among the nations she ought to occupy.

A Prophetic Utterance by His Times. "From present indications the war may not be more than a bloody day affair from this time, especially now that the Spanish fleets are disposed to evade us rather than fight."—THE TIMES, May 28, 1898.

Germany Crestfallen. Commodore Schley's complete destruction of Cervera's fleet has undoubtedly modified the sentiments of the German Emperor, the press and the people toward the United States. The most influential German papers lately assumed an apologetic tone, which was almost an object fail. But there still lingered hope from the military operations. Defeated at sea, the Spaniards might win on land, at least give a serious account of themselves. The complete overthrow at Santiago has dispated this hope. The prompt and decisive course of Admiral Dewey, and the case of the Emperor, Irene has very nearly stunned the Emperor. In bombarding and capturing the entire Spanish garrison which the German warship sought to aid, Dewey gave one of those blows which are absolutely paralyzing, and it is doubtful if he will have any more trouble from the German ships, even though the German government fail to order them to mind their own business.

Not a Symptom of the Affliction Since Cured by Hood's.

"When our daughter was two years old she broke out all over her face and head with scrofula sores. Nothing that we did for her seemed to do any good. We became discouraged, but one day our friend Hood's Sarsaparilla so highly recommended that we decided to try it. The first bottle helped her, and after taking six bottles her face was smooth and we have not seen any signs of scrofula returning." SILAS VERHOOT, West Park, New York.
