SHERMAN AND ALGER.

The situation in high Republican circles in Washington, presents some feat-Sherman publicly declared that McKinley's Secretary of War, Alger, under certain contingencies should be impeached by Congress.

On the Monday evening following this declaration, Secretary Alger, in a dress suit and accompanied by his wife, made a social call on Mr. Sherman. The amenities indulged in by the distinguished host and his no less distinguished visitor have not been given to the public.

It is not known whether Alger invited Sherman to privately hit him on the other cheek. There can be no doubt, however, that the Secretary of War humbled himself before the ex-Secretary of State by begging the ex-functionary, for the good of their common party in the fall elections, to let up on him publicly for the

The Republican party persistently refused, in some four or five national conventions, to gratify John Sherman's ambition for a presidential nomination. He | the neatest and most effective speeches believes that in one of these conventions of the day. Alger was the potent factor that prevented the consummation of his wish, and that the methods used to do this were of a highly questionable character.

It remains to be seen whether Sherman's devotion to his party, from which he can never again expect partisan reward for partisan service, will induce him to forgive, for a partisan reason, his tions of Alger were sincere and in the inof the country, he will not now cat his words. What will he do?

MCKINLEY'S WEAK POLICY. Gag the soldiers and whitewash every been adopted by the administration in as she would like to ask, for a complidealing with all complaints made as to hardships caused by mismanagement and inefliciency in providing supplies for the | Smith, one of his delegates, Cummings' troops. It would hardly have been possible to have adopted a more foolish policy. The mouths of the men can only be stopped while they remain in the service; as soon as they are mustered out they will tell everything they were made | than himself, and that the work must be to suffer. The idea of those who perguaded Mr. Mckinley to adopt such a shortsighted policy is to keep the mismanagement of the War Department from figuring in the Congressional Campaign. They think that when Congress meets arrangements can be made to have an investigation of the conduct of the war made by a picked committee that will whitewash everybody and everything. If the people were all fools and there were no such things as newspapers Kinley is likely to live to bitterly regret that he did not have every complaint investigated and every man punished who was found guilty of having caused unnecessary suffering among the soldiers, instead of allowing himself to be made to assume the role of apologist for and pretector of the guilty officials.

An oversight of the administration, in not making the terms of peace with Spain include immediate American control of Havana and all other parts of Cuba, will cost a few thousand poor devils, who are unfortunate enough to be residents of Cuba, their lives. Captain General Blanco has prevented the landing of supplies carried to Havana by the Red Cross Society, for free distribution to the population any such large percentage needy, although he knows that thousands are on the verge of starvation, and, owing to that oversight of the administration, those who would gladly feed those hungry Cubans and Spaniards laborers are no more to be compared with must bow to the inhuman will of Blanco. The best that the administration could do was to announce that food for the poor would be admitted free of all duty or prescription at all Cuban ports that are under our control, which means Santiago, and several smaller places. Some of the defenders of the War De partment system of doing things should hump themselves for awhile and explain how it was possible under such a perfect system that an entire regiment of troops -the Thirty-second Michigan-was absolutely lost, so far as the War Department knew, for several days, and was only found after spending a goodly sum

The giving of one railroad a monopoly of transportation to and from Camp Wikoff, at Montauk Point, as well as the exclusive privilege to conduct a store and restaurant at the camp, is sufficient reason why the camp should be abolished, and another count in the long indictment against the War Department.

There are men-plenty of them-who do not hesitate to express their belief that neither Miles nor Shafter did any thing deserving of any special credit in the Santiago campaign. Those who ough to know say that nothing but "Joe" Wheeler's clear grit prevented the move ment being a disgraceful failure.

Mr. McKinley soon discovered that consideration of his own political future made it inadvisable for him to try to put upon Secretary Alger, hence his in pain nearly all the time and suffered order for the investigation. order for the investigation.

JOHN 8. CUMMINGS.

fominated for Congress at Laurel Wed nesday-Jeffersonian Principles the Platform

The Democrats of the Fifth Congressional district, in convention at Laurel, Wednesday, nominated, as the opponent of Congressman Sydney E. Mudd, of Charles, John S. Cummings, of Catonsville, a practicing lawyer at the Baltimore bar. Dr. George H. Jones, of Calvert Immigration Bureau, at the Barge Of county, presided. Dr. Richard S. Hill, of Prince Georges, was the secretary. The credentials of the various delegations were accepted as handed in, there being no contests. The committee on resolutions, after an hour's deliberation, reported a platform reassirming the principles of the Democratic party as enunciated by Jefferson, enforced by Jackson, and followed by all well-governed Democrats, s bodies and individuals. There was some sentiment in the com nittee-room for a silver declaration, but t was weakly supported. Hon. John Hubner vouched for Mr. Cummings' loyalty in 1896. The resolutions committee was composed of W. G. Gischel and Bruner R. Anderson, Anne Arundel; John Hubner and Joseph Sandman, Baltimore county; Timothy M. Kelly and John H. Grill, Baltimore city; William Files and Charles P. Walton, Calvert; Thomas T. Owen and John E. Stone, Charles; William B. Peter and John S. Tracey, Howard: Dr. James T. Perkins and B. D. Stephen, Prince Georges; John W. Wii-liams and Franklin Adams, St. Marys. While the committee on resolutions was out, there were calls upon various prominent Democrats for speeches. Jas. W. Owens, of Anne Arundel, was the first ures that approach the dramatic. Last to respond. He eulogized Senator Gorweek McKinley's ex-Secretary of State man and his faithfulness to his party in 1896, and said he ought to be the nomi nce today. All the signs, continued Mr.

Owens, presage victory. A remarkable ovation to Hon. Barnes Compton followed. He apologized for not making a speech, on account of his physical condition and the advice of his amily physician, who was present with Colonel W. S. Powell referred to Mr. Compton's long service to the party, to which he had given his exclusive time and his means, and proposed that the convention show its appreciation thereof by rising and publicly thanking him. This was done, amid much enthusiasm. Senator Clagett, of Prince Georges, said that the conditions now confronting the party in this district "compel us to believe that the man nominated in this hall will be in the next Congress. The time of deliverance is at hand. Old Democratic principles must reassert themselves, and we must live under a Democratic form of government again. We cannot live under Republican rule." Mr. Charles W. Darr also spoke of the bright prospects ahead, and made one of

Mr. B. H. Camalier was placed in nomination by Mr. Williams, who much resembles Senator "Wash" Wilkinson, but is an old Confederate Democrat. Young Franklin Adams made the seconding speech, and then the Cummings people had their innings. Mr. Hubner led off with a eulogy of his nominee. Mr. Grill gave Baltimore city's endorsement to Cummings, and spoke of him from a personal acquaintanceship. Dr. Hill said old-time-enemy. If his late denuncia- Prince Georges had many men for Congress, but came into the convention to tions of Alger were sincere and in the in-terest of the suffering volunteer soldiery it was with regret he could not aid his brother Camalier, but Anne Arundel saw the drift of the convention, and would pledge herself to roll up an old-time Democratic majority for Cummings. Ex-Senator Peter said the sentiment of the convention had crystalized on Cummings, official, is the remarkable policy that has and Howard would refrain from asking,

Mr. Camalier was called to the platform, and piedged his support to the nominee in an excellent speech, which brought forth leafening applause. He said no one was more anxious to redeem the Fifth district done in Lower Maryland. Mr. Hubner followed with an expression of the appreciation of his county for the action of the convention.

> The following committee was named to Joseph Sandman, Peter Riley, John Bowers. Dr. G. H. Jones, F. Brooke Matthews, Col. W. S. Powell, Capt. Jefferson D Loker, Aquilla T. Robinson.

> The convention was welcomed to Laurel by Mayor Pheips. Several Gorman demonstrations occurred during the proceedings.

America's Raw Material for Soldiers. The average young American has grown up with a habit of thinking and acting for himself; and when he goes a-roldiering he is capable of throwing as much personal zeal into charges like those at Santiago as if he were fighting a duel and the fate of his country and all he held dear depended upon his personal exploits. The well-drilled troops of European countries are formidable enough. certainly. But there are resources of intense personality in such men, as, for instance, the members of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's regiment of "Rough Riders," that count in a crisis, for a great dea more than the passive mechanical excellences of the trained soldiery of the military powers. It is not boasting, but the sober truth, to say that no other nation possesses in the great mass of its of fighting material. Great Britain has in her young men of the higher ciasses from whom she draws her officers as brave and capable an element as car he found in the world. But her farm the sons of American farmers than with an Australian football team. Nor are the young men of her industrial centers -Manchester, Sheffield, and the rest -in any manner equal to the young men of American towns in physical development or in personal initiative and adaptability. There is something, of course, in the life of young countries that develops individual force; and the qualities which give superiority to American soldiers would be found in like manner, undoubtedly, in Canada or Australia if the young men of those freedom-loving lands were engaged in a foreign war .- From "The Progress of

If there is any doubt about the legal status of Mr. McKinley's war investigating Committee, as Mr. John Sherman thinks there will be, there will be none about the Congressional Committee that will later on make an investigation.

DETERMINED TO WED A NEGRO. To wed a negro a Scotch lassie journeyed nearly 3000 miles across the seas on the Allan-State Line steamship Mongolian, from Glasgow. She is Margaret Wood, 25 years old, with light hair, blue eyes and a rosy complexion. The man to whom she plighted her troth in Glasgow is Martin Hamilton, five years her senior. His features are Circasian rather than Ethiopian. When he called at the fice, New York, on Tuesday of last week to claim his fiancee he was well dressed and stoutly maintained his right to wed any women he pleased and his ability to care for her. He is employed by an asphalt company and lives at 511 South Eighteenth street, Philadelphia.

There is no legal obstacle to the young woman's admission into this country. The immigration officials hoped to dissuade her from her determination to marry Hamilton, and detained her for examination before the special Board of Inquiry. She was intrusted to the care f Mrs. Strucklen, a matron, and Commissioner Fitchie sought the assistance of a clergyman of a Presbyterian church, which faith the woman holds, in opening her eyes to the union she sought. Hamilton was sent to Glasgow about a rear and a half ago to assist in the payng of some of the streets with asphalt. left he had the young woman's promise to join him here whenever he sent for may be. Two young men were paying this medicine for our pack-train before attention to me at home, but I left them we left Tampa, and I know in four cases for him. My parents as well as my sister have met Mr. Hamilton and know o our engagement and they are satisfied if lam. It is my affair and his, and if we want to get married, why should anyone else bother about it?"

On Saturday the Rev. R. Francis Carruthers, of the First Presbyterian Church of Taunton, Mass., visited the Barge oflice to see the young Scotch woman. The clergyman knew Maggie's father in Scotland. He wished to induce the young woman to reconsider her determination to marry Hamilton, and, learning that reasoning could not turn her, he arranged for a novel method of influencing her. She had said again and again, when the officials had remonstrated with her:

I will marry him! I will marry him!" The minister and an attendant took Maggie on Sunday to visit the quarter in which colored people live in West Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, and Thirtysecond streets. They took her into some of the most squalid buildings. Maggic returned, saying: "I won't marry him! won't marry him!'

She was taken before the Board of Special Inquiry on returning to the Barge Office, and Hamilton was also called be fore the board. No sooner did the young women see him than she again recanted and announced that she would marry him, come what might.

It was learned on Sunday that th young woman's sister, with whom she was staying in Glasgow when she met Hamilton, a few months ago, is the wife

On Tuesday the officers at the Bureau having exhausted their reasoning and persuasive powers on the young woman, decided to let her have her way. So, when the black man came for her with a carriage and a preacher no obstacles were put in her way. The preacher proved to be a Presbyterian, only a few shades lighter than Hamilton. He is the Rev. Pierce B. Thompkins, pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church, 211 West 32ud St. They were married the same evening. She was the more reconciled to her marriage when she learned that the Rev. Mr. Thompkins had a white wife and that they were living happily together.

The Populist Doctrine.

The Democratic party is really under great obligations to the populist party, says the Indianapolis Sentinel, for defining its position on the money question notify Mr. Cummings: James W. Owens, so as to make clear the distinction between the principles of the two parties. In the party's address to the people, as adopted by the convention, its financial faith is set out in these words: While we demand that, if either gold or silver is to be used as money, both shall be so used; we insist that the best currency this country ever possessed was the full legal-tender greenback of the civil war, and we look forward with hope to the day when gold shall be relegated to the diseased teeth of the people, and the human family possess, free of tribute to bankers, a governmental, full legal-tender measure of value, made of paper that will expand side by side at the growth of wealth and population. This is as explicit a declaration as could be made against the use of metallic money-of coin of any kind. What the populists want is paper money, not releemable in gold or silver, because they want no coin, but simply paper stamped, This is one dollar," and made legal-tender for the payment of debts.

The Democratic party is now free from the reproach of advocating any such doctrine. It never did advocate it, but has been falsely charged with so doing on account of alliance with the populists. The Democratic party stands now, as it has always stood, for the gold and silver coin of the constitution.
