LAWLESSNESS IN OUR MIDST.

This community and the people of Howard county in general may well reflect seriously over a social condition which may be regarded as a reflex of some of the morally abandoned localities of the Wild West.

We say "morally abandoned" because time and again we have seen what we believed to be a shameless disregard of the sanctity of the oath on the witness stand of our courts, yielding thereby a travesty on justice shocking to the better sentiment of an order-loving people. Time and again have our officers of the law labored to bring offenders against the law to the bar of justice, to find their efforts thwarted by the most unlooked for testimony, to be wonderfully corroborated by similar testimony, the arraigned at the same time, through able counsel, hedging himself about with the nice distinctions of the law, was able to walk out of the courthouse to receive the congratulations of his pals, and, while gloating over what to the public seemed like a miscarriage of justice, was willing to pose as a very much persecuted individual.

We do not know that there is any help for this state of things unless men when they go into the jury box will resolve to ignore the technical interpretations of the law, as frequently insisted upon by counsel for the accused, and be governed strictly by their convictions—determining in their minds what is right and what is in the interest of law and order.

While there is no especial feeling of insecurity it cannot be denied that an unsettled (should we not say, lawless?) element, with an ever-increasing tendency to a defiance of the law and those in authority, has become conspicuously in evidence in our community.

In the past few years the county has paid enormously in futile attempts to convict parties the public was morally certain were guilty of the offenses charged.

It is not for us to suggest a line of procedure looking to an improvement of the social order or the mitigation of the vicious influence as exercised in this community by an element who are periodically arraigned in our courts, only to escape scot free nearly as often as they are arraigned. To say the fault lies with juries who have rendered verdicts contrary to public expectation, would be to impugn the integrity and probably cast reflection upon a large number of citizens whose intelligence and moral courage could not be questioned. We believe, as we have said, the frequent miscarriages of the law arise from the total disregard of the sanctity of the oath, coupled with the assistance of adroit counsel, who through obstructive tactics and causing to innure to their benefit nice distinctions in the law, are able to defeat the ends of justice. As a consequence those whose business it is to ferret out crime and see that it is punished are frequently, after trials, taunted with the boast of the delivered that they (the officers) were not smart enough to catch them.

Boss Hanna has been appealed to by Mr. McKinley to save the House by the same methods he carried the Presidential election—the unlimited use of money. Hanna is now in Washington preparing to make assessments on the men who put up the boodle in '96. Chairman Babcock, of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, told Mr. McKinley that unless something was done at once the Democrats would certainly elect a majority of the House. That is why Hanna was telegraphed for. If money can elect a majority of the House, Hanna is going to do it, unless the men who contributed money for him to use two years ago go back on him.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE FOR OCTOBER.—The article in the October Scribner's on the "Battle of San Juan," by Richard Harding Davis, is not only a vivid description of that famous victory but a complete and careful analysis of the conduct of the whole Santiago campaign.

He points out with perfect clearness the problems involved, shows the lack of adequate preparation, and says that the final success obtained was due solely to the splendid and persistent valor of the troops who fought under the most trying and discouraging conditions, combined with the destruction of Cervera's fleet by the navy. Mr. Davis places the blame where he believes it is due, and at the same time gives all credit to the men who did the real work. It is a deliberate and conscientious history of the campaign, and worthy of permanence as a record. The illustrations are from photographs and drawings of actual scenes. One of the few correspondents present on "The Day of The Surrender" at Santiago was J. F. J. Archibald, and his account of the scenes in the trenches when the truce was announced and the memorable and dramatic raising of the Stars and Stripes over the palace gives a realizing impression of both the glory and pathos of war. Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution" deals chiefly with the romantic career and treason of Benedict Arnold, and describes with dramatic intensity the events that led up to his discovery and flight.

Don't forget that Oct. 12 is the date of the Walter L. Main Grandest and best Shows, Consolidated, and that reserved seats will be on sale the morning of the Exhibition at A. C. Taylor's Drug Store.

A SALAD FOR THE SOCIAL AS WELL AS FOR THE SOLITARY COMPOUNDED.

BY TIM TRICKETT.

"The essence of cinnamon sprinkled in the rooms of typhoid fever patients kills the bacteria." It seems to me that this remedy should be especially frowned upon for it will, if used, destroy an infant industry, that of the discovering of microbes, bacteria, &c., out of which their discoverers profit greatly. We republicans demand protection and a home market. Let bacteria and their Columbusses alone to thrive no matter at whose expense. Protect them.

"Entering upon a New Era." That's how the Republican Attorney-General of the United States puts it when he soars on the wings of the American Eagle and screams the new scream, "Our Dignity," which up to the time that we licked the little Kinglet of Spain, gobbled up Hawaii, and began to bargain for one of the Philippine islands we spelled with a very little d. Now we use the biggest D in the lot. Everything is to be commensurate with our power and importance, (capital p and capital i). Money is to be the standard of our prominence in the world, for it will buy a bigger navy, a larger army, pay huge salaries to all officials, including Ambassadors and Ministers to foreign countries. Our President is to be so heeled that he can stride about with a chip on his shoulder, inviting war. Mr. Attorney General shows by implication that up to this period of our history his party has selected its Ambassadors and Ministers, and Cabinet Officers without regard to brains or fitness "but strictly according to social position and private income." Money rules his party.

"Spain has 3,000 hours of sunshine per year." The quantity of mere moonshine in that kingdom is not stated.

"Mrs. Nickel sues for a divorce." 'Tis n't often that one will spend hundreds of dollars to get rid of a bad nickel. 'Tis a fable to say that women are more careful in money matters than men.

* *

The burning question of the comfort, cure and happiness of our soldiers is at last settled cheaply and satisfactorily. They are secured when the President visits and smiles upon the heroes. For the proof of this I refer to Major Davis, a U. S. Army Surgeon, who said, after the President had "talked informally (so good of him to be informal) to the patients, who, together with the Major and attendants alike, were surprised and gratified at the honor done them by the President, that the visit would do more to cheer up the sick men than any quantity of medicine." Being a medical man he should know the value of his medicines. Doctors, in the near future, druggists and undertakers will be protesting if the Chief Magistrate go about taking business out of their hands and bread out of their mouths. In old times a king's touch would cure scrofula, or King's evil, so the flunkies and superstitious said, but happily it was reserved for our times that the smiles and visits of a President of the U. S., benefit more "than any quantity of medicine." Turn out the Republican party whose President does sick soldiers honor when he visits, and smiles upon them.

Because Senator Faulkner, of Western Virginia, is the colleague of Senator Elkins, who is opposed to some New England ideas, Mr. McKinley is severely criticised for the reason that he appointed him a member of the Canadian Commission in place of Senator Gray, resigned. Dire consequences are predicted if the commission fail to do just as the New Englanders wish, and it is said that "the American commission is loaded down with men who are not in sympathy with the business sentiment of the United States," i. e. with the New England idea of it. Every thing is wrong which does not begin, live, move and have its being in New England. No Democrat, no man outside those six States of course has any sympathy with the business sentiment of the country. Bosh. Force bills are New England inventions, and we will soon hear more of them. By the way, Mr. McComas, Senator-elect, favors them, does he not? Turn out the Republicans, put in Democrats.

* *

We hear a great deal about the "Summer girl," but give to me the "all the year round woman," who is butterflyish in summer, brilliant in beauty, as the foliage of our forests, in the fall, the warmth of whose smile and welcome in the winter dispels all grief and gloom, and who, in the spring, blossoms so kindly that we forget the chilly blasts, the fallen leaves and the buried hopes of the dead year.

As frequently as possible and ingenuity permits, Mr. S. E. Mudd invents or pretends to invent the finding of a mare's nest in which are hatching conspiracies to defraud the State of Maryland out of something or other, generally in relation to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Away he shies on these longed for occasions to Washington to advertise himself and incidentally to protest against some mythical injustice. Of course his tremendous zeal, pull and magnetism prevail, and he prevents the accomplishment of something which nobody ever thought of doing. This is duly reported in the Baltimore Sun and other Republican papers, but devil a word do we ever hear about the time when he and Tom Reed unseated Mr. Barnes Compton in Congress, thus really defrauding the State out of something valuable. Turn him down. Elect a Democrat. Remember how he helped to deprive Mr. Compton of his seat in Congress, to which he had been duly elected.

LETTER FROM MANILA.

Taking of the City Described by a Howard County Boy.

We are indebted to Miss Florence A. Crook, of Hood's Mill, for a letter from her brother, who was at the taking of Manila. While the letter does not particularize some things we would like to know it shows the spirit of the men, especially young Crook himself, who is every inch a soldier. It is as follows:

U. S. S. RALEIGH,
City of Manila,
Sunday, Aug. 14, 1898.

MY DEAR LITTLE SISTER:

We have taken the city of Manila and Old Glory is now waving over all the largest buildings in the city and over the forts. We started yesterday morning in the direction of the city at 8 o'clock, the Olympia leading the column. This was the formation: Olympia, Raleigh, Petrel and Callao, (the latter a captured Spanish gunboat.)

We started toward Fort Malater, when the Olympia let loose her two eight-inch forward, the Raleigh following with a broadside of five five-inch and one six-inch, at the forts. Then followed the Petril with two six-inch, and then the little Callao let loose her small battery. We all kept it up with our four little ships for about one hour, while the Monterey, Charleston, Baltimore, Boston, Concord and McCulloh laid off without firing one shot. They were waiting for the battery at the city to open fire and then they would start in.

The forts never fired but one shot and that was at our soldiers and by that time we had the fort down to the ground. Our soldiers marched to the fort which we had levelled and hoisted the American flag. We had ceased firing and drew off waiting for the Spaniards to fire. We waited for about one hour and then we put up a signal inviting them to surrender. The signal was answered and we sent a Belguim tugboat flying a flag of truce to receive the surrender which was unconditional. The answer came back to the Flagship Olympia and she hoisted the signal, "4169," which means the enemy have surrendered. To wind up this little ball of yarn I would say we dropped our anchor for the night and at present are lying abreast the city except the transports, which are at Cavite.

I wish you could have seen our soldiers wading through the water, by the hundreds, trying to see who would be the first at the forts. They did fine work and got all of the Spaniards in the city prisoners. We don't care now how soon the war ends as we have done nearly everything out here that we can do. We lost about 50 of our soldiers in the fighting when the Spaniards made a charge at them, but we have got them just where we want them now.

Old Admiral Dewey was sitting on the bridge, in a chair, while this was going on, just as cool as a piece of ice. I was on the bridge and could see everything that went on. It was a very quiet battle and all one-sided, but it is better to be on the right side in a case like this. * * *

Your devoted brother,
HERBERT (CROOK.)

FORD'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Week Oct. 3—Creston Clarke In a Brilliant Repertoire of his Famous Success.

An important dramatic event will be the appearance next week at Ford's of the distinguished romantic actor, Creston Clarke, in a series of his strongest dramatic successes. Mr. Clarke's artistic work is highly appreciated by all the admirers of the highest expression of dramatic art. In the interpretation of the romantic drama he is exceptionally attractive, infusing each characterization with a power, delicacy and charm that has won for him the prominence he has attained at the head of his profession. Besides his wonderful comprehension of the great writers and the rare ability to interpret as well, Mr. Clarke is endeared to Marylanders by his famous stage ancestry, in such illustrious relatives as Edwin Booth, to whom he bears a strikingly strong resemblance, John S. Clarke (his father) and Junius Brutus Booth, his grand-father. Many of Mr. Clarke's earlier histrionic triumphs were achieved in Baltimore. During the present engagement Mr. Clarke will have the advantage of a superb dramatic company headed by Miss Adelaide Prince, who is one of the most beautiful as well as gifted American actresses. The repertoire in Baltimore will be in the following order: Monday night and Saturday matinee, "Marble Heart;" Tuesday evening and Wednesday matinee, "David Garrick;" Wednesday night, "The Last of his race;" Thursday night, "Fool's Revenge;" Friday night, "Ruy Blas;" Saturday night, "The Bells." Admission 25 and 50 cts.

Week October 10th, the great star triumvirate, "James-Kidder-Warde."

YOUTH'S COMPANION.—The publishers of The Youth's Companion promise a number of attractive features for the issues of the four weeks in October. That of October 6th will contain an article on the Boston Subway. In those of October 13th and 20th Col. Henry Watterson will relate stories of the great orators of the stump. The issue of October 20th will also contain two stories, one by Mrs. Margaret Sangster, the other by Mrs. Annie Hamilton Donnell. Lord Dufferin will contribute to the issue of October 27th, "My First Cruise," the account of a pleasure trip in war-time.

McKinley-Hanna-Algerism resulted in death and starvation to our nation's defenders. Weylerism brought death and starvation to the enemies of Spain. What American citizen can fail to blush with shame and indignation at the contrast.

It will not do for the Republicans to try to put the suffering of the soldiers through dishonesty and inefficiency on the part of those in authority under the general head of "red tape.

Three Doctors in Consultation.

From Benjamin Franklin.

"When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best is to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclination would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition.
