EDWIN WARFIELD FOR GOVERNOR. From Saturday Review: From the present outlook the respective Democratic and Republican candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are Edwin Warfield and Lloyd Lowndes. Both men are calculated to bring out a full party vote. The factions in Republican ranks, it is estimated, would cement on the present incumbent and with Mr. Warfield as the banner bearer of Democracy that party vote would be a unit. The element to be contended for would be the independent voters-a class annually increasing in numbers—and who, without organization, are the deciding factor in any election in this State. If the recent taken as an augury, the Democratic party, under Mr. Warfield's leadership, should achieve as decisive a victory in November as it has done in May. The eminent fitness of Mr. Warfield for the great honor of Governor of Maryland is conceded on all sides. Moreover, he has no vaulting ambition to o'erleap itself. Beyoud the governorship he has no aspirations and does not intend it to be a stepping stone to a United States Senatorship or any other office. With the conviction firmly implanted that a public office is a public trust, his purpose is to give Maryland as thorough a business administration as possible, and with his intelligence, his knowledge of public affairs, his experience in an administrative capacity and his unimpeachable integrity there can be no doubt as to the issue.

NEW YORK SECONDS THE NOMINA-

ED. TIMES: In the issue of January 14, 1899, The TIMES published an article under the title "Gorman for President," in which re opposed to * * * a high protective tariff, to a permanent increase in our standing army, to a further acquirement of foreign territory and citizenship, and to entanglement in the disputes, warfares and strifes of other countries. On a platform representing their wishes on these living questions, and with a candidate commanding the confidence of all classes, the Democratic party would move forward to a winning fight. There is one man in the party, who; by his past services, not only to his party but to his country, would unite all elements in the belief that his administration would mean peace, financial solidity, renewed confidence in the business world, an impulse of general prosperity, and freedom from all injurious agitations. I propose as that cause.

It is gratifying to the people of Maryland to learn, through the timely article in last week's TIMES, under the same title as that of January 14, that the nomination then made for the first time in the State, has been seconded by so distinguished a source as the Empire State of the Union and of Democracy, and through so able a representative as Hon-Amos J. Cummings, of New York. Mr Cummings supplements THE TIMES article by an array of facts so powerful, and by a presentation so forceful that little, if any more, remains to be said. The strength of Mr. Cummings' case consists in the fact that no argument is required. The statement of the different points, us in "our ignorance," and it was not alone, carries conviction to every unprejudiced mind. Like certain mathematical propositions—such as "the sum of the parts is equal to the whole," "things that are equal to the same thing are equal to each other,"-the statement of the case proves it; it is self-evident. It is demonstrated as soon as enunciated. An eloquent orator may, by dint of persuasive arguments and the influence of eloquence on the mind, convince his audience that he is their friend, may even succeed in our ablest men were educated in the

But if one of the audience sees his child fall into a river, and sees a man plunge into the water and save the child's | Whilst I know I exert the proper influlife, how much argument will it require to convince the parent that the saviour of his child has done him, the father, a service? So it is with Mr. Gorman and the Democracy, as illustrated by Mr. Cummings. Other candidates may, by dint of eloquence, by attractive personality, by powers of persuasion, impress an audience favorably, and justly ticed a marked improvement in the genso. But when Democracy recalls what eral deportment of the same children unshe has seen done in her behalf by Mr. Gorman,-the election of Cleveland, the first Democratic president for near a generation; the rescue from the fetters snare" and should be abolished, preferof the Force Bill; the passage of a low ring to have our children grow up in igtariff law in the face of apparently insurmountable obstacles; his loyal support of the Government in the war with Spain; and his steadfast adherence to his party through all trials and reverses-when Democracy remembers that she has seen these things, it requires no argument to spective counties, the wealth per square convince her that Gorman has done her mile and per capita of the Western shore a service. That the nomination first counties of Maryland is as follows: heralded through the columns of THE Times in January, and so ably seconded by Mr. Cummings in the New York Journal in May, may receive a triumphant ratification at the hands of the Democracy and of the country, is the sincere wish, now as then, of Locoroco.

EDITOR TIMES:

Your correspondent from Sykesville is a veritable Rip Van Winkle, who awakes from an age of the misty past, when rassals only tilled the soil, or followed feudalism have vanished never to return, and down trodden man has by slow and steady strides forced himself to the where he now points to the banner of liberty, Equality and Fraternity. At Runnymede he proclaimed to the listening world, "I am a MAN, and no longer a mere 'vocal agricultural implement.' Philadelphia, he proclaimed through the Apostle of Democracy, whose voice still reaches the Deciaration from Porto Rico to the Philippines: "All men are born free and equal." Today, in a land where Democracy has deturoned the Divine Right of Kings, boys who go to school know that government exists for the individual, and not the individual for the State, that the body of man is intended to be the instrument of the mind, not the mind the instrument of the body. We live under a Democratic government where every man twenty-one years of age may cast a vote. Then, to have an intelligent government, education must, indeed be the first and foremost policy of Democracy. It is the foundation which underlies all else. The multiplicity of ignorance does not give wisdom. How, then as a matter of fact, shall a democracy administer itself? By accepting the guidance of those who have been prepared to lead?

If these premises are correct, then education in a Democratic government should be compulsory.

Now what great nations have adopted this policy? The people of Great Britain are the leaders in the civilization of the world. Education is compulsory throughmunicipal contest and result are to be out Great Britain. In Sweden and Norway public instruction is free and conpulsory. In Italy education is compulsory. In France (its language the one in which diplomats of Europe hold intercourse) public education is free and compulsory. The majority of its people are Catholics. Germany schools have a world-wide celebrity; her army the best Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Jews, alike, receive aid from the public fund. In Holland, education is nearly universal. In Switzerland, education is free and compulsory. In Japan, public schools have been established, and the education of boys is universal and compulsory. In China, education is eagerly sought for, because all government officers are the rewards of scholarship. They are given to successful competitors in public examinations. - Maury.

> A CATHOLIC MOTHER'S OPEN LETTER TO MR. LIVESEY IN DENUNCIATION OF SCHOOLS. FRANCIS B. LIVESEY, Esq.,

Sykesville, Md. DEAR SIR :—I read your article in TII ELLICOTT . CITY TIMES of May 20th of Schools, and I cannot overcome the desire to express my humble opinion on the subject, hoping thereby to encourage yo to keep the question before the people as I feel confident your eloquence and sound judgment will be rewarded by cor respondingly good results. Being a Catholic, of course I am in sympathy with them, and am also of the same mind as the distinguished writers you quote. Being the mother of sever children and fully appreciating m responsibilities -- I say my because I be lieve the greatest responsibility resta with the mother—and naturally anxious that our children receive a good education our means being decidedly limited the public schools seemed a blessing to until the oldest had developed "ideas strong enough to shoot" that we realized our mistake and have decided that these same schools are the recruiting grounds of the devil. As we object to the children enlisting in his majesty's cause, we keep them home, and, in consequence, have prought down the criticisms of our neighbors, many of whom seem to be in sympathy with Mr. Rogers,

Now, who or what is to blame for this disgraceful state of affairs? Such conditions did not always exist, as many of making the worse appear the better public schools; but in these days, if a boy or girl passes through the fire of immorality and indecencey existing in lot. On the Washington pike, one mile from ence over my children at home, I cannot hope to overcome the evil effects of their associations during the time they spend in school. I have tried in vain to fix the Sometimes I think the parents of the children need reforming. So many women are mothers in name only, through indifference, or ignorance, or both. Then again, I blame the teacher, as I have noder different teachers, and then, again, I think that miserable body, the trustees, lack interest, and finally, Resolved, that the public schools are a "delusion and a norance rather than place them in the

A typical fight in the Philippines is described by an eyewitness, a clever journalist, under the ti ggal through a thousand year struggle, the of "The Battle of the Blockhouses," which is a most complete and stirring account of that curious campaign-one which in its names and methods suggests a wild romance, brought home to us by the equally stirring titles associated with the romantic development of the West-Oregon, Kansas, Nebraska, Dakota. It illustratad from photographs taken during the battle.

> McClure's Magazine for June will contain an account of Marconi's latest and most marvelous experiments in telegraphing without wires especially in telegraphing across the English Channel prepared by Cleveland Moffett with Mr. Marconi's own assistance. It will describe popularly all the apparatus and methods employed, and will be fully illustrated from photographs taken expressly for McClure's. This number will also give the untold story of the negotiations between Admiral Dowey and the Spanish commanders that resulted in the final surrender of Manila without anything more than the merest show of a fight on the part of the Spanish land forces. The story is told by Oscar King Davis, the Manila correspondent of the M. H. Cooney. Auctioneer. New York Sun, from the diary of M Edouard Andre, the Belgian consul, who conducted the negotiations.

REVIEW OF REVIEWS FOR JUNE.-The signs of the times on the industrial and business horiz n are outlined in the June number of the American Monthly Review of Reviews. In the department of "The Progress of the World" the editor discusses the new era of prosperity, the restored wages of labor, the tendency toward the consolidation of capital, railroad amalgamation, the relation of modern monopolies to the heaping up of great fortunes, the value of franchises and proposed tax reforms, and other conditions and problems of the day in disciplined in the world. In Netherlands the business world. Mr. Byron W. Holt contributes an article on "Trusts-The Rush to Industrial Monopoly," in which he sets forth the facts in connection with the recent startling development of the trust-forming mania, as it is beginning to be called. A feature of Mr. Holt's article is a carefully prepared list of more than one hundred and twenty-five industrial combinations now operating in this country, each of which s capitalized at not less than $10,000,000. This list was revised to May 20, and in-As the Catholics preserved the learning cludes the concerns formed during the
