GORMAN ON THE DEMOCRACY. The Maryland Ex-Senator on the Free Silver Issue and Imperialism-"It Would Be Ignominious to Back Out of the Washington, June 5.- "Silver today attracts less attention than imperialism. In every campaign there is one issue which towers in importance about all others. Party platforms invariably touch upon many subjects, but history has shown that some one plank always rises surpreme. So spoke Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, President-maker, party leader and ex Senator, to a World correspondent who spent more than an hour with him in his beautiful home, in the shade of historic McPherson Square, this city. According to Senator Roach, of North Dakota, "half of the brains of the Senate disappeared" when Gorman left that To the question, "How about the

One or Two Supreme Issues. "In the campaign of 1884, when I was on the pen the books of the Treasury' Committee, "Open the books of the freastify Committee, we talked about many questions in the platform, but the principal battle-cry was 'Turn the rascals out!' and 'Open the books of the Treasury.' On this issue we won a brilliant victory. In 1888 the tariff was the issue, taking a place of importance above everything else. In 1892 the Force bill, reduction of the tariff and civil-service reform were the "Four years later the money question—silver or gold—attracted the greatest attention. If a public speaker desired the ear of his audience he felt constrained to talk on this question. If he discourse on the Nicaragua Canal, free Cuba or anything apart from the money question, his audience was listless inattentive and bored." "Four years later the money question-

"And the prominent issues in the next con-The questions of militarism and of re "The questions of militarism and of restricting organized capital from its encroachments on the public," quickly replied the Senator. "My deliberate judgment is that the battle against that class of trusts which obtain by legislation undue power to restrain trade will be the overpowering issue.

"The Democracy has always opposed trusts, but heretotore this issue has been of secondary importance. During the last few year, howimportance. During the last few year, how importance. During the last few year, nowever, trusts and combinations of capital, organized to restrict trade and crush the small dealer, have become so bold and daring, seri ously menacing our form of Government, that it is highly important that some decisive action should be taken to restrain them. It will be a difficult matter to form a bill to throttle trusts and bring them within the Legitimate Business Safe. "Corporations organized to transact a fair and legitimate business, with no aim or intention of destroying the small dealer, must be protected. But the great, powerful, lawbreaking monopolies who flaunt their power and their illegitimate transactions in the face of the public, must be grappled with. The business interests of the country must be protected. protected.

"Many trusts are formed to corner some "Many trusts are formed to corner some article of merchandise or manufacture which is necessary to the happiness and comfort of consumers. These monopolies fly their own prices squeezing millions of dollars annually out of a credulous public. Through their massed capital trusts often are able to dictate and control legislation.

"State legislation designed to cope with organized monopoly cannot alone be effective, ganized monopoly cannot alone be effective. ganized monopoly cannot alone be elective. The National Legislature must deal with this great question. If the Democracy is again ushered into power I have no doubt that some sweeping legislation will be enacted to consweeping legislation and legitimate sphere zed monopoly cannot alor ine them to a proper and legitimate sphere

A Reunited Democracy. "Do you think the Democratic party will be "Do you think the Democratic party will be united in the coming contest?"

"Yes, I really do. In bygone years there have been differences of opinion between men of the same political faith, and at times there has been such bitter feeling between partisans that men who did not believe in the platforms enunciated have left the party; but, like the prodigal son, they invariably have between the prodigal son, they invariably To my mind there is no reason why the Democratic party should be split. We cannot hope to win so long as we are unable to present a solid front. But in the next came present a sond front. But in the next campaign I look for a reunited party, men to bury their differences and get together on some common ground and go out hand in hand to do battle with the enemy."

Our Subjects in Philippines. The World correspondent called Mr. Gorman's attention to the cablegrams from Manila suggesting the dispatch of more troops to put down the rebellion.

"It is not surprising to me," the Senator said, "that Otis calls for more help. When the Administration ratified its peace treaty and brought upon us obligations and conditions most extraordinary and alarming, it bargained for an endless rebellion in the Philippine Islands. down the rebellion. pine Islands.
"We are confronted today with a condition

"We are confronted today with a condition of affairs too broad in scope and to deep in meaning for the ordinary human mind to comprehend. Never before in the history of the American Republic have questions of such magnitude presented themselves.

"We have taken into our possession and under our wing a class of people, half-civilized, barbaric, treacherous Tagals, foreign in nature custom and habit to the worst specimen ture, custom and habit to the worst specime of the American, and are endeavoring to force upon them a form of government which they do not want and which they could not enjoy even though it were fastened upon them. In short, the Administration has undertaken to inject liberty into the naked Filipinos through the medium of rapid-fire guns and high ex-

Filipinos far from Whipped. "We have been led to believe from General Otis dispatches that the Filipinos are whipped into subjection: that they are now ready to lay down their arms, come in under the Starlay down their arms, come in under the Starry Banner, accept our form of civilization and enjoy the rights of a free people. Yet there came to the War Department a cablegram asking for more troops. Why this dispatch if the Filipinos are whipped?

"Does Otis, after allaying strife and bringing the Filipinos into submission, need more men to hold the Tagals in a subdued state? These are ausstions of interest to every ese are questions of interest to every American.
"My opinion is that the Filipinos are as far parent that the kindergarten was only a from being whipped to-day as they were when the insurrection began. The warfare to which they are used is in no sense civilized. On the contrary, it is a guerila fight, and as such may be continued indefinitely. Wild roving bands of naked sayages, who make their abode in the interior hills of the island, would for-ever menace American authority, even if such were to be firmly established. Give Otis More Troops. 'Having goneinto this troublesome dispute, however, there is but one thing to do—continue the fighting. 'All the men and all the money necessary to bring the war to a close' should be the motto of every true-spirited American. It is too late now to withdraw. It would be a confession of our inability to cope with these barbarians and to whip them into subjection—it would be ignominous for the American forces to back out of the Philip American forces to back out of the Philippines at this time.

"My advice to the Administration is to give Otis all the men he may need and to instruct him to force fighting until some sort of a solution of the problem is evolved.

"As I have said repeatedly in my public utterances, all this trouble could have been averted if the peace treaty had been amended. We sould have sent our Peace Commissioners where the problem is a sort of a solution of the problem is evolved.

We sould have sent our Peace Commissioners marked: 'I am afraid you think more of e could have sent our Peace Commissioners back to meet the Spanish envoys, with in-structions to release the whole of the Philip-pine Islands, have Manila and sufficient territory contiguous thereto for a naval and coaling station.

"If this had been done we would not today see this bogus white elephant. There would be no war in the Philippines. There would have been little loss of human blood and but small expenditure of public money. McKinley's Change of Mind.

"If President McKinley had been of the same mind after returning from his Omaha trip as he was when he left Washington Otis would not be calling for more troops, there would have been no endless rebellion in sight, and the United States would have been content with the possession of a pavaland he peace envoys had been free to carry out their original instructions, to demand the cession of Manila and sufficient contiguous territory for a naval and coaling base'-if territory for a naval and coaling base'-if they had been left free to conduct the negoti-ations without being shackled by further in-structions, the peace treaty would not have provided for the acquisition of the entire ar-chipelago, and Otis might be enjoying the summer breezes from the Atlantic or the tempered blasts from the Adirondacks instead of being chained to the tropics shooting, if Catholic authorities are to be recog-"Three members of the Peace Commission— Day, Davis and Gray—were averse to carry-ing out the President's instructions regarding the acquisition of the entire group of islands.

About this there can be no doubt. Witness the correspondence between the Commissioners and the President, which has been printed in the shape of a public document.

Imperialism and Militarism. "A policy of imperialism must inevitably be followed by militarism. Therefore, the acquisition of outlying territory, together with several millions of people, entails upon the Government manifold dangers and responsibilities. Imperialism and militarism go hand in hand. Is it small wonder, therefore, that the Administration endeavored at the last segin hand. Is it small wonder, therefore, that the Administration endeavored at the last session of Congress to force upon the country a sion of Congress to force upon the country a bill creating a standing army in time of peace of 160,000 men?

"This bill, as is generally known, came within a hair's breadth of being enacted into law, and if it had not been for the determined opposition of a few Democratic Senators, it would be upon the statute books today. The Democratic party has always been against

Democratic party has always been against anything which smacked of militarism. In and out of the halls of Congress I have opposed largé standing armies, and shall con-tinue to do so as long as I remain in public "An army of undue proportion is always a chace to our free institutions, and whenever menace to our free institutions, and whenever this Government breaks away from its tradi-tional policy of equal rights to all and special tional policy of equal rights to all and specia privileges to none, then we may begin to loo for the downfall of the American Republic.

Cause of Present Prosperity. "Do you think the Administration's imper-ialistic policy will be a dominant issue in the coming campaign?"
"Yes, I believe so—that is to say, to a greater

"Yes, I believe so—that is to say, to a greater or lesser extent. At this moment no one can foretell with accuracy the prime issue in the next campaign. The Democratic party will undoubtedly oppose, as it has always opposed, militarism. Imperialism and militarism are twin issues, and the one cannot be brought under the glare of publicity without being linked with the other. linked with the other.
"Just now it is not possible to get the public ear on any question outside of our own immediate borders. The reason for this? Simple enough. Today our people are enjoying to a marked extent prosperity, which they have not known for many years. Not since the Paring failure has there been as much prosperity in the land as during the last year "The war with Spain, which created a d mand for labor in every branch of trade, set the mills running on full time, created a market for American supplies and gave employ ment to millions of laborers who hud been in idleness for the eor four years: the remarkable rise in the price of wheat and other farm products; the millions of dollars spent by the Government in preparation for war; the pur chase of every conceivable line of supplies, guns, ammunition, cannon, food, clothing, transports, war vessels—all these things combined to create a condition of prosperity. "When the merchant, the farmer and the day laborer can sell their products; when there is a demand for their commodities; when the supply falls short of the demand, then we find a wave of prosperity sweeping over the "When men are busy at their daily labors body. To the question, "How about the issue of 16 to 1 in the next campaign?" the Maryland man had given the above reply. He continued:

"When men are busy at their daily labors they do not stop to give serious thought to the great public questions of the day. So long as they are measurably happy and content they do not penetrate far into the future. They are glad to let well enough alone, and because they are temporarily prosperous and happy are willing to pass over lightly the political questions of the hour. political questions of the hour.
"So it is, I say, the public ear is not tuned to the momentous questions growing out of the Spanish War. A public speaker who has for his topic bitter deriniciation of the Administration's policy in the Far East is given but scant attention. The people have no time to listen to the arguments pro and con on imperalism, but are quite satisfied to pursue the even tenor of their way beginning the tide even tenor of their way permitting the tide of events to sweep along, hoping that the present condition of affairs will continue forever and anon. Retribution Is Coming. "But there is a time for everything. When this fickle and uncertain prosperity has passed away; when business conditions again settle lown to their normal state—as they most cerdown to their normal state—as they most cer-tainly will do very soon—when the prosperity bubble has been pricked, then the American people will begin to look about and give ser-ious thought to the grave questions of today. "Imperialism and militarism are issues of such magnitude that it is difficult for the average mind to comprehend them thorough-ly. It may be several months—it may be several years-before the American people awak been loaded upon them. But the time will come, as certain as fate, when the men who are now being idol zed as the creators of prosperity will be caught in the full sweep of an angry public's wrath."

Secret of Gorman's Success. A better specimen of physical manbood than Gorman is not to be found in a day's ramble. Of medium height, muscular, straight as an arrow, broad-shouldered, robust, smooth-shaven, square-jawed, he shot out his hand and looked down upon the World correspondent out of a pair of piereing gray-black eyes, as he courteously invited him into his home Although past 69 years, Gorman is as youthful in appearance as the average man of 45. in appearance as the average man of 45.

He has established a reputation for fair play which must certainly be the envy of many an aspiring politician. His word is his bond, and he never makes a promise without doing more to Gorman for Cleveland's first election

Gorman lined up the Democrats against the bill, whipped the Silver Republicans into line, and, after a fight of weeks put a quietus on His next victory came in 1892, when he forced the Senate to accept the Wilson Tariff bill just as he desired it. At the last session he forced the Administration to accept his Army bill.

Mr. Gorman is a modest man. For this Mr. Gorman is a modest man. For this reason he always asks his friends to refrain from mentioning his name in connection with Presidential honors. His name may not be presented at the Democratic National Convention, but he is not out of public life yet.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost vellow, eves sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite-gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement, I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed,

While it is refreshing to witness so nany of the best speakers, writers and physicians protesting against our injurious school system, it is still more refreshing to see parents sustaining them by taking their children from the schools. Every parent who does this sets an example and preaches a sermon the equal of the ablest review article on the subject. The Pikesville correspondent of the Towson Maryland Journal is one of such parents and in that paper of May 20th he thus!recites his experience: "The dialogue between Dr. Talmage and Mr. Francis Livesey in your issue of last week is well worthy of thought by every parent, and when thoroughly considered, would convince every sensible prison house for their children. We have heard it claimed by mothers it was a good place to send their children during the day; they were so much better. Is it not a wonder God blesses (or is it a blessing) such women with children? The writer sent his daughters to a nearby school when ten and twelve years of age-kept them going all the time. They became thin, puny, had rings around their eyes, appetites and were very dull, much in opposition to their natural disposition. The doctor was called in but could do nothing; they would outgrow it; it was natural with children; they would get marked: 'I am afraid you think more of your pigs, lambs, calves, colts and stock of your farm than you do of your children.' 'Why so, doctor? 'Do you not let those little animals run at large and enjoy themselves by playing, running and taking continual exercise in the fresh air, or do you confine them in the barn to make them old horses, cows, sheep and hogs while they are yet young? advise you to give them full liberty unil they are older, stronger and more able o endure the hardships of school life.' I know now from experience it was the proper and most excellent advice." I am acquainted with a number of par ents who have taken their children away from schools, with the result that the children have been physically, mentally and morally benefited. Presbyterians are now seeking to establish parochial schools on the Catholic model. By the by no orthodox Catholic can countenance nized. The Baltimore Catholic Tablet says: "The common schools of this country are sinks of moral pollution and nurseries of hell," while Pope Pius 1X says: "Education outside of the control of the Catholic church is a damnable heresy." The thousands of Catholics who unblushingly patronize the public schools give A. P. A. men, Junior Order men and Infidels considerable hope for their ultimate victory over the church,
