MCKINLEY CALLS A HALT.

One of the first acts of Mr. McKinley this week after his return to Washington was to order the persecution of Admiral Schley, by the Sampson clique in the Navy Department, stopped. He did not do so because of any love he had for Schley, but because of statements publicly made by Maryland Republicans that they intended to hold the administration responsible for the Navy Department's treatment of Schley. That frightened Mr. McKinley, who is by no means as confident of his re-election as some other Republicans profess to be. And, in addition to ordering a let up on Schley, Mr. McKinley sent for ex-Postmaster General Gary and asked him to help keep Maryland in line. Unless Marylanders who ought to know are off in their judgment, nothing will prevent Maryland returning to its old place in the Democratic column.

PUBLICATIONS.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE FOR JULY .-Lippincott's Magazine, which starts on an entirely new career with the July issue, brings out-complete-a Japanese novel, by John Luther Long, the author of "Miss Cherry-Blossom," "Madame Butterfly," etc. "The Fox-Woman" deals with the half-humorous, half-pathetic infatuation of a little Japanese artist for a wilful American beauty, who never realizes the tragedy she heartlessly compels. There are also valuable and timely papers contributed by the following wellmown writers: Anne Hollingsworth Wharton's first of two articles on "The Salon in Old Philadelphia;" Sara Y. Stevenson on "What are Women Striving for?" Chas. S. Clark on "A Practical Submarine Vessel" (The New Argonaut); George J. Varney on "Self-Propelled Street Vehicles," and Ernest Ingersoll James Whitcomb Riley's new true flavor of this popular writer's ability to touch the hearts of his readers.

REVIEW OF REVIEWS FOR JULY.-In for July the editor reviews the work of presenting the latest phases of the arbitration question, with some consideration of its bearings on the present international situation. Among other topics discussed in "The Progress of the World" this month are "tariff trusts" as a political issue, the Dreyfus vindication, the war in the Philippines, the recent change in the civil-service rules, and the newly elected college presidents. "Rosa Bonheur and Her Work" is the subject of an article by Ernest Knaufft. Reproductions are given of several of the famous French animal painter's works now owned in this country. Ramon Reyes Lala, a native of Manila, describes the methods employed in working them.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL FOR JULY .-With its infinite variety of excellencies, the July Ladies' Home Journal appeals to every taste and touches upon every interest. It opens with "The Most Famous Little Town in America," which pictures many interesting spots in historic and literary Concord. There is a delightful view of social life in the Colonial days in "When Washington was Married," which brings to light many new, interesting facts. A series of almost incredible narratives in "The Moonlight King" tells of the follies and eccentricities of Ludwig II of Bavaria. The gifts to our Government from foreign Powers are described in "Presents That Have Come to Uncle Sam." Ian Maclaren discusses the pulpit and the pew in an article on "How to Make the Most of Your Minister," and Katharine Roich writes of "The College-Bred Woman in Her Home."

SATURDAY EVENING POST.-Among the many great story tellers who are to be frequent contributors to The Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia is Mr. Bret Harte, who is now engaged upon a series of four short stories dealing with California life in the days of the great gold fever. A Treasure of the Redwoods, the first of these characteristics tales, will appear in The Post of July 8. The series is along the lines upon which Mr. Harte made his first brilliant successes.

Hence, as the Socialists say, they want tood, clothing, shelter and beer from the government when they are men. The Northwestern Chronicle staunch Catholic paper of St. Paul, Minn., very truly says that our education has brought us to a point at which "it will require a revolution to restore us to

Mr. Mann said: "Compulsion, even if it were desirable, is not an available instrument. Enlightenment, not coercion, is our resource." From this we see how far legal compulsion has stultified the system as proposed by Mr. Mann.

Sweden, Norway, Italy, France, Germany, Switzerland, and other European countries where compulsory education is in force, are all tending to Socialism, so much so that press dispatches state gold deposits of the Philippines and the that the Pope has of late been obliged to give a favorable ear to it, although a few years ago, in an encyclical letter, he denounced every phase of it. Here is the question, Are we going to abolish the public schools or take them and the Socialism that they bring in their train?

In Japan, too, very truly, the public school has gained a foothoid, and this formerly highly blessed country with its industrious masses is just now realizing, from the public schools as the cause, a species of industrial unrest akin to that through which this country has for many years been passing. China will if she already has not, realize the same. It is not true that Catholics "would

For an Editor to Recommend Paten Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Di arthoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found i reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy, would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine fer a cure, but we do be lieve that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoca Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Dr I. J. Martin's Sons.
