children go alone when they quit this world. Out of your arms into angelic arms, out of sickness into health, out of the cradle into a Saviour's bosom! Not an instant will the darlings be alone between the two kisses—the last kiss of earth and the first kiss of heaven. "Now, angels, do your work!" cried an expiring Christian.

Tidings of Home.

Yes, a guardian angel for each one of you. Put yourself now in accord with him. When he suggests the right, follow it. When he warns you against the wrong, shun it. Sent forth from God to help you in this great battle against sin and death, accept his deliverance. When tempted to a feeling of loneliness and disheartenment, appropriate the promise, "The angel of the Lord encampeth around about them that fear him and delivereth them." Oh, I am so glad that the spaces between here and heaven are thronged with these supernaturals taking things home, bringing messages here, rolling back obstacles from our path and giving us defense, for terrific are the forces who dispute our way, and if the nation of the good angels is on our side the nation of bad angels is on the other. Paul had it right when he said, "We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." In that awful fight may God send us mighty angelic re-enforcement! We want all their wings on our side, all their swords on our side, all their chariots on our side.

Thank God that those who are for us are mightier than those who are against us! And that thought makes me jubilant as to the final triumph. Belgium, you know, was the battleground of England and France. Yea, Belgium more than once was the battleground of opposing nations. It so happens that this world is the Belgium or battleground between the angelic nations, good and bad. Michael, the commander in chief on one side; Lucifer, as Byron calls him, or Mephistopheles, as Goethe calls him, or satan, as the Bible calls him, the commander in chief on the other side. All pure angelhood under the one leadership and all abandoned angelhood under the other leadership. Many a skirmish have the two armies had, but the great and decisive battle is yet to be fought. Either from our earthly homes or down from our supernal residences may we come in on the right side, for on that side are God and heaven and victory. Meanwhile the battle is being set in array, and the forces celestial and demoniacal are confronting each other. Hear the boom of the great cannonade already opened! Cherubim, seraphim, thrones, dominations, principalities and powers are beginning to ride down their foes, and, until the work is completed, "Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon, and thou, moon, in the valley of Ajalon!"

WHAT AN ADMIRAL DOES.

Dewey Will Be Free to Choose His Own Quarters.

The office of admiral is such a rare one that many people wonder what are the duties connected with it. That is a question which no one can answer until Admiral Dewey makes his choice. The naval regulations do not prescribe the duties of an admiral. The functions of commander in chief are fully set forth, but this might apply to a rear admiral or a commodore as well as to an admiral. In fleet formation he would, of course, be given the position of honor, but it is not to be expected that an admiral would be much upon the sea. Farragut was allowed to choose for himself, and he went upon an extended cruise. Admiral Porter elected to take shore duty, and he was connected with the navy department in an advisory capacity.

After the popular enthusiasm over the return of Admiral Dewey has receded to something like sensible bounds and he is allowed to have a few moments of sober reflection he will be the one to decide what are the duties of an admiral. His choice will of course be to some extent shaped by the established regulations of the navy department. If he should desire to take sea duty, his wishes will be respected. In case he feels that he would prefer shore duty he will in all probability be given any berth he wants.

He cannot be retired unless he desires to be, and even then he will receive full pay as an admiral. The office which he holds is practically without precedent, as only two have held it before him, and conditions have changed to some extent since the days of Admirals Farragut and Porter.—Washington Post.

Turkish Ignorance.

Talking about Turkey, says a writer in the Washington Post, I hear most amusing stories of the difficulties experienced even by Ottoman princes of the blood in getting through the sultan's custom house such uncanny things as automobiles and electric launches, the difficulty being largely due to the inability of the revenue officers to appreciate the distinction between the word dynamo and dynamite.

There are several electric launches now flitting about on the waters of the Bosporous. But they are each provided with a purely ornamental smokestack, with the object of allaying the fears of the custom house officials, who only consented to pass them after it had been explained to them that if the boats in question had been sent out from England without smokestacks it was because they were in an incomplete condition. In the same way it was impressed upon them that the automobiles were a new kind of water cart, for the purpose of watering the paths and roads in the grounds of the princes and dignitaries by whom they had been purchased, and that the accumulators were merely a new species of tank for the water.

A Living Death.

For 42 years George Knight, who murdered his wife in Poland, Androscoggin county, in 1856, has been serving his life sentence in the state prison at Thomaston. It is a remarkable record, without an equal in our state and probably few equals anywhere. Of all the men who took a prominent part in the events which led up to his conviction he alone is alive today. The judge that sentenced him is dead. His counsel is dead. The county attorney and the attorney general who conducted the case against him are dead. Dead also are the court officials and nearly all the jurymen, and yet these men lived a life of freedom, and his has been passed within prison walls. He is now 82 years old and is still in good health and clear of mind and eye. He was first sentenced to death, and we venture the opinion that he has regretted many times that this sentence was ever commuted.—Portland Argus.
