How Mr. Curley Davis' House Was Saved A trivial circumstance sometimes will change the current of events, and it was a chew of tobacco or, rather, the lack of a chew, that saved Mr. Curley Davis' dwelling house, on the Columbia pike, Saturday last, from burning. One of the men about the place had gone t the barn to do some work. Reaching in his pocket for a chew of tobacco he found he had none. Then he said to himself, "Well, I can't go to work without some so dense he could not reach the room. lic is invited. A ladder was procured and William Dain the window sash. The smoke wasextremely dense and suffocating, but young Davis heroically stood by the job he had undertaken, that is of putting out the fire, and by handing him buckets of water he soon got it under control. The fire had communicated from an overheated stove to some matting on the floor and had already reached some bedding. In a few minutes more the building would have been ablaze and probably beyond control. News of the fire reached Ellicott City and our fire department promptly responded through the aid of Mr. G. Sunderland and Mr. Gaither's livery horses, but on reaching half way learned that the fire had been put out.

Case of Samuel O. White vs. Sarah E White.

The final hearing in the case of Samuel O. White vs. Sarah E. White, which has been pending in the Howard county Circuit Court for two years past, was held before Judge Jones here Saturday. Arguments, on the part of the plaintiff, were made by Mr. John M. Carter, of Baltimore, and Colonel George W. King, and the defendant was represented by Messrs. Frederick K. Dallam and Daniel M. Murray. The case has somewhat of an interesting legal phase. The plea is to set aside a deed to the defendant for a tract | dinner. of land near Annapoils Junction, in Howard county. Samuel White was guardian for an imbecile daughter, who had an estate vauled at about $1,600. The guardian, shortly before his death, conveyed to his second wife the tract of land mentioned, not having accounted for the daughter's property, and the contention by the plaintiff's counsel is that the transaction was fradulent, and it is sought to have the property sold, and the proceeds applied to the benefit of the daughter. Judge Jones reserved his de-

A School Journal.

The Public School Gazette, issued under the auspices of the High School Department of the Ellicott City Schools, is out. The editor-in-chief is Mr. J. Mont. Gambrill, principal of the school; assistant editors-Miss Sallie A. Brown, Marion V. Bailliere, Miss Helen Heine and Hunter Sykes. J. Alfred Shreeve is local editor, and W. Frank Kirkwood business manager. The object of the paper seems to be to exercise the pupils in the art of writing and to note the progress of school affairs as conducted in Ellicott City. The initial number touches on "The Library," "Literary Societies," "High School Committee," "The Literature Course," "The Museum." connected with the school sides containing several articles of noteworthy merit, by the pupils.

The statement published last week that Mr. Clark had formally notified Mr. Parlett to hand over the office, and that he had refused to do so, is incorrect. There has been an amicable understanding all along, either being ready to yield after a true interpretation of the law was reached.

A Driving Accident.

Mrs. Dailas Brown, of the Third district of this county, met with a painful accident and a narrow escape from death while returning home in a two-horse Dayton wagon Tuesday night from Baltimore. By the falling of one of the horses, she was thrown headlong between the two animals, and was dragged several hundred feet before the team could be stopped. She was badly bruised and shocked. She was taken into the office here of Dr. J. M. B. Rogers, who rendered the necessary medical attention. Concerning Needed Changes in Local Laws.

Representative Grosvenor Hanson was in Ellicott City Tuesday and interviewed a number of the Howard county officials regarding some of the proposed changes in the local laws, applying to this county One of the desired changes is that the terms of the Judges of the Orphans' Court be for six years, one to be elected every two years. Destructive Fire in Laurel.

For the fourth time in two years Laurel has been visited by a destructive fire. Early Friday morning of last week flames broke out from some unknown cause in the hall over a provision store which was used by an atbletic association. They spread rapidly to adjoining property, and before the blaze could be extinguished twelve buildings were converted into smouldering heaps of ruins. That it did not assume much larger proportions is due entirely to the isolated postion of the houses.

The following is a list of the buildings burned, with their owners and occupants: Ex-Sheriff Robey, residence; owned by imself. Club, at Laurel, Saturday evening, the subject of "good roads" came up. Mr. Chas. H. Stanley gave a talk on the subject and criticised the present road law and the system of building them. He gave an interesting resume of the road laws of Prince George's county, and deplored the present manner of appointing road supervisors, who, he said, were appointed not by reason of their knowledge of roadmaking, but because of their political pull" and the advantages that night accrue to the appointing power. Dr. Reid, of the Geological Survey, gave an interesting and instructive talk on the advantages of good roads over bad ones. He said, among other things, that the average haul in Maryland, which is based upon statistics from every county in the State, is 6 7-10 miles, and that the cost per ton is twenty-six cents a mile. About 5,000,000 acres are tilled in Maryland, and each farmer, on the average, hauls one ton per acre.

Dr. Clark, the state geologist, spoke more particularly on the cost of constructing roads. In ten years, he said, the State has spent $10,000,000 on roads, and yet our roads are in bad condition This, of course, is due to a lack of knowl edge on the subject of road-building. Maryland has no distinctively road engineers, and there are only a few who have made the construction of roads a subject of study. There are about 2.000 miles of main roads in the State, and $7. 000,000 will put them all in good condition. Thus it appears we have spent more in ten years than a complete highway system, properly constructed, would cost. He suggests that one mile of good road be built in each county in the State, as a sample of the road proposed by the State Geological Survey, that the people may see and judge for themselves of its

HENRYTON.

HENRYTON, Dec. 16-The valuable team of Mr. Jas. M. Gaither, near here, while loading a car of straw today, at the station here, became frightened at a passing train and ran away. In their flight the leaders were thrown over the culvert and seriously hurt. The wheel horses and wagon escaped unharmed. The dangerous situation of the company's switch has often been commented on and it is to be hoped something will be done toward furnishing its patrons with better facili-

Temperance Appeal.

To the People of Maryland: The Maryland State Temperance league urges upon all to exert their influence, especially during the holidays, for temperance and sobrlety. It respectfully asks the Clergy, Teachers, heads of Families, and citizens generally to emphasize this appeal. Life, health, happiness, and the round of wholesome festivities are enjoyed by thousands without intoxicating drinks. The dispensing of intoxicating liquors, treating, and moderate drinking, exert an insidious and hurtful influence. They are fraught with great danger. In abstinence only there is safety. Will you not lend your influence, make it emphatic by your example, and so protect the young, the innocent, the helpless and the erring from these temptations? Come, crown the glad season and the New Year with joy undimmed by tears and sorrow. Make them fragrant with deeds for the happiness of the home, the well-being of society and the uplifting of humanity. By order of the Executive Committee. REV. HENRY BRANCH, President. JOHN J. PEACE.

Written for THE TIMES. "On earth, peace," the message came Two thousand years ago. Peace-the king of Glory's name-

Succeeding cyles show. How quick dissolved is strife, Before Thee nations rise To the higher, better life To seek a worthier prize.

'Tis long-the way of peace: And war must lead the way; The woes of parts increase Ere comes the blessed sway. And the earth is throbbing now

In throes of bitter death, On isle-the broken bow. In vale-the cannon's breath And yet 'twill come, we know; We see the plan divine. From tropic land to arctic snow,

The earth, O Prince, is thine. Ellicott City, Dec. 21, 1899. RAINY-DAY THOUGHTS. BY MR. SNODGRASS.

For THE TIMES: The rain falls heavily on the roof.

The wind in gusts is blowing;

The trees are gaunt and wet and bare, The evening dark is growing. Thus nature weeps, But ever keeps Her secrets from man's knowing.

But soon the sun bursts forth again, In all his ransomed glory:
And as his rays make light the gloom
Of earth they tell a story:
Unselfish he As we should be Such is life's allegory. Sunshine and rain we all must know,

And, too, the cloudy weather Which represents our days of doubt, To cast our lot,— To be or not, As on we go together. So may we learn from nature's book A lesson true and lasting. hen manna is in all the land

There is no need for fasting.
Now, let us eat
The manna sweet All cares to the winds casting. Quillan, of Worcester county. Thus rain and sunshine, wind and clouds, ir separate places filling, fill each life, and make complete, And leave no place for weeping.
Attempted, done,
The victory won, We rest, in nature sleeping.

A recent decision of the Circuit Court for Frederick county in the case of Hamllton vs. the Baltimore Turnpike Comany, permits the majority of the turnike companies to collect toll for vehicle n attendance at funerals. The so-called exemption act, which provides that turnpike companies shall not charge toll for unerals, was passed after the charters of nearly all the turnpike companies in rederick county were granted, and the lecision of the court is that no company holding a charter granted before the pas sage of that act is affected by it. This matter has long been one of dispute, and the turnpike companies are highly pleased by the decision.
