ted with a sufficient proportion of carbonic said to render it soluble, I would judge for my own part that it would be sufficient. I have often remarked, that chaly beates given in small doses, and often repeated, proved of more real service in delicate affections of the stomach, as dyspepsia, than large doses given under same circumstances; and I judge the principle to be the same in chalybeate waters, whether natural or actificial.-Supposing a bottle of wa cr was to contain only three grains of iron, which is considered a pretty large quantity, (although the Ballstown contains four grains to the bottle,) and several bottles were consumed in the course of the day, im mediately from the spring; the patient would they take a considerable quantity of metal in a few days, which, in consequence of its frequent use, would operate gradually on the tone of the stomach or other viscera; and by this, though slow process, would eventually perform

Cure for the Tooth-Ache.

An emine it apothecery in the vicinity of London, has lately recommended, as an effectual cure for the tooth ache, the following remedy, which he has been in the habit of using for many years, and out of the number of cases eight-tenths have succeeded, viz to take three table appenfulls of brandy, adding to it one drachm of camphile, with 20 or 40 drops of laudanum, and then dropping a little upon some lint, and apalying it to the tooth affected, keepleg the lint moistened for five minutes only on the tooth and gum.

Curious Calculation.

There are in London 562 places of worship; 1 Cathedral, 1 Abbey, 114 Churches, 130 Chapels and Chapels of ease, 207 Meetings and Chapels for Dissenters, 43 Chapels for Foreigners, and 6 Synegroues ; about 4,050 public and private schools, including Inns of Court, Colleges, &c; about 8 societies for morals, 10 societies for learning and arts; 122 asylums for the sick; 17 asylums for the sick and lame; 13 dispen saries, and 704 friendly societies, charities distributed, 750,0001 per annum.

There are about 2,500 persons committed for trial in one year. The annual depredations amount to about 2,100,-0001.; and on the Thames, previous to the erection of the docks, 461,0001 There are 18 prisons, and 5,204 alehouses within the bills or mortality.-The amount of coin counterfeited is 200,000l. per annum. About 9000 receivers of stolen goods; about 10,000 servants at all times out of place; 20,000 persons rise every morning without knowing how they are to subsist during the day.

London consumes annually 110 000 bullocks, 776,000 sheep and lambs, 210, 000 calves, 200,000 hogs, 60,000 suck. ing pigs, 6,980,000 gallons of milk, the produce of 8 500 cows, 10,000 acres of ground cultivated for regetables, 4000 acres for fruit, 700,000 quariers of wheat, 600 000 chaldrons of coals, 1,113,500 berrels, (34 galls.) of ale and porter, 11,1:6,752 gallons of spiritous liquors and compounds, 32,500 tons of wine, 16,600,000 pounds of butter, 31,100,000 pounds of cheese, and 14,000 boat loads

NEWYORK, July 11.

LATEST FROM CADIZ GE. We learn by the schr Wymouth, capt Howland, in 30 days from Tenerifie, that a few days before her departure, 2 Spanish and one English 74 with a transport ship having on board 800 French prisoners arrived at Santa Cruz from Cadiz, which place they left about the 1st June. They stated, that the Marquis de la Romans, with 80,000 troops were on their march in the rear of the French rrmy towards Cadiz; and that the mhabi tants of that place were in high spirits, and under no apprehensions of being obliged to surrender to the French.

We further learn, that the Seven Canary Islands were immediately to be p'acid under the Vice Royalty of the Duke del Parque, who with a number of troops was hourly expected at Santa Cruz. It is further added by our informant, that so much were the inhabitants in-censed against the French prisoners at Port Oratavia and the upper town, that they had emboided and threatened to massacre all they could find; and that two respectable French inhabitants of the place had been put to death by the populace. About los of the regular troops come over from St Croix, and quelled he lioters.

But net of a letter from a commercial

House of the first respectability dated Liverpoot, May 25, 1810. We are informed that Mr. Pinkney is at length in possession of the French decree, by which al! American propery is sequestrated, as likewise the imperative order for all citizens of the U States to quit the French territories without celay under pain of imprisonment. This decree was lassed as far backas the 23d failure of our finances!"-It required of May. It is transmitted to all the northern powers for their adoption. (NY E. Post.

> PHILADELPHIA, July 12. From the True American.

Yesterday arrived brig Saunders, Quail from Cadiz, which she left the 29th May and informs that the French are erecting batteries & advancing their works at Ma tagorda; buthad not opened them when he sailed, neither had there been any rencounter or sally, on either side for some time previous to his sailing. On the 17th and 25th of May two of the prison ships ran ashore in gales of wind thy which 6 or 700 French prisoners were released the boat of the British men of war attemp ted to board them while drifting and take out the prisoners but the Frenchmen having got arms in their hands kept them off killed 16 or 17 of the English; from which it is supposed that the one on the 25th, having 4 or 500 prisoners, taking the advantage of the gale, had rose on their guards, seized their arms, cut the cables and let her difft on shore—the Frenchmen defended her till they were all landed, when the British set her on

Capt Quail informs, that on the 20th of May the Spanish mountaineers, arm ed only with knives daggers and cutlasses, poured down on the town or Chirus (about 16 miles from the Isie of Leon) garrisoned by a body of French, whom they routed and cut to pieces, hardly leaving a man to tell their mistortunes.

Capt Q. heard nothing of the battle in Portngal, or the evacuation of Madrid, as reported yesterday via Charleston.

From English papers received at the office of the Hing.

It should appear that all the enemies to Parliamentary Reform and the cor rection of abuses, are skulkers. In Lon don, in Middlesex, and at Westminster, these poltroons did not dare to shew themselves at the public meetings legal. ly convened, and to oppose, with the manly character of Englishmen, the resolutions and petitions brought forward, but they sneak into holes and corners, and ther come cut with their counter declarations This is pusillanimity, and pusillanimity of the lowest and basest kind. As to the signatures of their famous declaration, what do those signatures exhibit but the names of a host of contractors, loan jobbers, money lenders, and money lovers, with a retinue of their needy dependents, such as are always to be found in shoals near the of government, and particularly seat near the seat of a government, whose annual expenditure is 76 millions a year. A declaration so obtained is worth as little as Mr Canning's friendship, as Lord Chatham's military skill, as the marquis of Wellesley's plot, or as the researches of the Finance Committees nominated by the Right Hon Spencer Perceval -(Leeds Mercuiy.

From the London Statesman

" In the Banbury cause he told the House of Peers, that they ought to respect the law which had made them so great, presiding over which, he should disregard any of their decisions; he would not even condescend to give them a reason for his conduct. In the same manner he set the Commons at defiar co; they sent to demand reasons, he gave none-The Speaker and a select number of the Heuse, went in person to the Court of King's Bench; his answer was - I sit here to administer justice—f you had the whole House of Commons in your belly, I should disregard you, and if you do not immedia ely retire, I will commit you, Mr Speaker, and those with you; where there is a right," said he, "there is a remedy;" when it was urged that no injury could be done a returning officer using a lega vote, he directed a satisfaction to be givon against the sense of the other judges -neither his compeers nor the houses of parliament separately could bend, or even both of them collectively, intimidate him; his invincible courage was equalled only by his incorruptible integrity. Queen Ann was compelled to dissolve the parliament, that the acrimony between the two houses might cease.

The inexhaustible resources of this country are at length admitted, even by Mr. Rose and Mr. Huskisson, to be no longer capable of ministering to that wanton and shameless system of profu sion so fatally introduced-and pursued with perseverance so obstinate, so blind, so infatuated, from the moment that the first crusade against France was underta-ken by the Heaven born Pitt. What must the admirers of this perpetual mistaking Statesman-the Pitt club Illuminati, think of the inexhaustible doctrine -when the opinion, of men so infinately acquainted as are Mr. Rose and Mr. Huskisson, with the pounds, shillings and pence, of our expenditure-at length succumb beneath the accumulating and overwhelming pressure of taxation. The tenor of the speeches of those gentleman last night, in the committee on the army estimates, is totidem verbis-that we have arrived at the ne fuus u tra of taxation! Have they not, for years, been warned of the approach and certain arrival of that period? "the great difficul-ty we have now to "encounter, is, the

of March, but not published until the 8th | not the intelligence of ministers to con-of May. It is transmitted to all the nor- vince all thinking men of that fact; all such have seen, for years, the gradual approach of that calamity which seems so suddenly to have burst on the vision of ministers To that economy, the necessity of which is now acknowledged, even by the very men who have assisted in bringing us to the brink of the precipice on which we stand, they have, for near twenty years; turned a deaf earconstantly ridiculing the prophetic apprehensions of all those, to whom they now come with a whining discovery of the danger that stares us in the face!

Amidst the disasters with which we are surrounded, we have, however, the consolation of feeling the uctivity of some part of the Administration. No sooner was the vacancy of the Tellership ascertained, by the identification of the body of the late holders of that office than Mr. Perceval - within even a few hours, laudably anxious that the public service should no longer suffer by the suspension of the duties of that important office-set off in a post chaise and four, for Windsor-from whence he returned at half past one in the morning-with the appointment in his pocket of-who? Mr. Charles Yorke, member for the county of Cambridge!
