TRULEW CIT ZENS,

I claim the privilege which Popinius has exercised in the Times of Friday last, that of odder ssing you : for, us he observes " the present period is fruitful in events, important in their consequences and interesting in their nature." It is a crisis without a parallel! I concur, and and shall, therefore space myself the trouble of searching annies the musty records of the pist, the animating pages of Thucydides; the polithed archives of Polybius, and the elegant records of Livy-for a "simil r combination of humon affairs " " Priiosoply may cease to speculate, the pen of the histories may be in-ctive, and poetry may. (f she plea ses) sit breeding over the ruins of em -bur as long as I have a heart to pires,"—but as king as I have a heart to feel and a hand to write, I shall not stand tamely by and lot pass, unobserved, at tempts which however intended, calculated to commit the republican and best interests of my country. I love his erty enthusies really. I know it feel is to be a blessing beyond price; but I mu free to say, that the liberty I love is A merican hierty; the genuine offspring of American valer and of American wis down. As unlike the "liberth's of co-tinental Europe" which, Papirius 5.875 has been sealed by the treaty of list " as Hyperion to a satyr" or as light is from darkness. That " hone Germanic body which once constituted the prile of Europe and balance of its powers' m.y tie in scattered fragments; Austria may meuto her fallen greithers; Pius ma cease to invike her monster Frederick ; Holland b wait her former sace torn by in estine factions, and Papitius may sympalise wich them but when we see Britain jeul ais of our commer cial prosperity, when we con her steads ly pursuing her lawiers system of mopoly and intent upon resciering us tributary to her; when we see her seiz ing our property every where an the high sens, and daily torcing into her service, on board her floating dungeors. cur gallant coun renich; when, as though this were not sufficient, we see her, we hour cause and in violation of the laws of hispita my, shedding the franccen blood of our citizens in our own wa te's; when we see all this, I sk. need we go to "con it enist Europe" for a subject to excite our sympathy? No! no! my heart I confess is too full—too absorbed in our own mirfortunes. connot ravel now. I'le Chesapeake re tur-ing to port, her buil shattered, her decks stained with the blood of her mur dered scamen, presents an image to my mind more gloody and more affecting than the face of the house of Austria, or of the house of Brandenburgh Truly my fellow citizens our situation is lamentable! Degraded in the eyes of foreign nations and degraded in our own eyes, we exhibit a spectacle that wrings he heart of the patriot, The doctrine of non-resistance and passive obedience to the unjust aggressions of foreign powers, which has infused itself irto the councils of the nation, has almost destroyed every spark of that noble spirit of enterprize, and stifled every masly and henorable feeling that has hitherto so eminently distinguished the American character. The hichway of hations is broken up and our little remnant of commerce that survived the se questiations, condemnations and pirace of the belligerents is carried on merely by lavor and by license. A home we are split into parties, and have but lately been threatened by a mirchievous and unprincipled faction with the dismembermen of the union. The national sovereignty has been placed by the people in the hands of men, who pursuing a course of conduct, marked by submission, have brought upon us an accurau lation of insult and of wrong. May that God who has so often mercifully in erposed in behalf of these United States, continue to do so! But while we im plote his aid, it behaves us to act 1 ke men and put our shoulders to the wheel. Great as our evils are, our excellent constitution has provided a remedy for them The ensuing election affords it-we shall then have an opportunity of choosing representatives whose sentiments will be in unison with those of the pen nia, of cleansing the Augean stable, and of evincing to the nation and to the world; that although we do not love peace less, we love the honor of our country more Thus for had I written in answer to Papirius, when I saw it ansounced in the Umes, that Mr. Lownles has declined being a candulate for congress. As he has dine so, if would not be fair or decorous to make him the subject of news paper ducustion; I shall therefore only we at present, that I discert in total from a comparison drawn by Papirius between that gertieman and Mr. Cheves On a mure occasion and when more at lemuse, I shall probablyoffer some ob zerva ions to you, my fellow citizens, in support of the pietensions of Mr.
