

Baltimore Price-Current.

(CORRECTED WEEKLY.)

Table with columns for Articles, Per, D. C., D. C., and Prices. Lists various commodities like Bacon, Butter, Coffee, Cotton, etc.

PRICE OF STOCKS.

Table listing various stocks and bonds with their respective prices, including Six percent, Three do, Louisiana, etc.

TO MANUFACTURERS.

The subscribers having had several applications to calculate goods at their own manufactory, respectfully inform their friends and the public in general, that they will now be glad to receive orders for all kinds of goods at a very moderate price.

NOTICE.

Since the Parish of St. R. & OWEES, has dissolved by mutual consent, the subscribers leave to their friends and the public in general, that they have OPENED a Grocery & Commission Store No. 116, GARDNER'S BUILDING, where the subscribers have the means of keeping a General Assortment of GROCERIES & LIQUORS.

Franklin Bank of Baltimore, July 16, 1810. THE Shareholders of this Bank are hereby informed, that a third dividend of Five Dollars on each Share of the Stock of the said Company is called in, and required to be paid at the Bank, on Monday the first day of October next.

LABORERS. Ten or Twelve MEN wanted to work in the country. Apply to E. & J. LEVERING. Sept 21

FIG BLUE, &c.

The Subscribers have and will keep a constant supply of the Best Fig Blue in boxes, of 14 to 20 lbs. each. ALSO, A large and general assortment of Groceries, Teas & Queens-ware

Country Merchants, & others, ARE RESPECTFULLY INFORMED, THAT WARNER & HANNA HAVE FOR SALE, A large quantity of Testaments, Copy books, Spelling books, Bonn's Books, Primers, Playing Cards, Cypine Ink Books, Wrapping Paper, &c.

Stationary Articles—viz. Large Drawing and Writing Paper of various kinds. Thick and thin Post Folio &c. Letter Paper, thick and thin, plain or gilt.

MERCHANTS ACCOUNT BOOKS. Rule d for f, d, or Dollars & Cents, with tent lines, if necessary. Ledgers, Journals, Day books, Invoice books, Account Current Books, Sale Books, Letter Books, Record Books, Receipt and Bank Books, Bill of Lading Books, Bill Books, payable and receivable, Bank Cheque Books, of various sizes, for the different Banks.

THE WHIG.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26, 1810.

Let voters for members of congress observe the STATE LAW; they cannot vote for two persons resident in the city, or for two persons resident in the county of Baltimore.

That Baltimore city and Baltimore county shall be the fifth district; which district shall be entitled to two representatives, one of which shall be a resident of Baltimore county, and the other a resident of Baltimore city.

THEODORE BLAND and JAMES MARTIN Have been nominated by the orthodox democrats of the Town and Point, to represent this city in the House of Delegates; and they are accordingly recommended to the republican citizens of Baltimore, for their united suffrages.

THE VOTERS OF THE FIRST WARD are respectfully informed, that Thomas Hume declines a reelection as one of their representatives in the 1st Branch of the City Council.

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

It is very odd, that John Comgys, who is a Federalist, should be treated and considered as a democrat. Where is his odd?

REVOCATION OF THE FRENCH DECREES.

The news of this important event has been received with joy, by all who value the trade of the continent, the friendship of the continental powers, and the freedom of the seas.

The views developed, the arguments and facts so concisely, clearly and elegantly expressed in the letter of the French minister to general Armstrong, will be read with satisfaction. They manifest the candour of the French government, and its friendship for the United States—if friendship exists between nations.

We are not anxious to obtrude our speculations on this new order of things, upon the public at this time. Our readers will find the opinions entertained in London, of Bonaparte's measures, and its probable effects upon the conduct of Britain, in the article from the Courier of August 20.

But, what in this predicament becomes the duty of the president of the United States? The impediments to trade and friendship with France, removed; (as by the 1st of November they will be,) what aspect is our nation to assume towards England?

The following provision of our laws answers both questions: Extract from "an act concerning the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes," passed May 1, 1810.

"Sec 4. And be it further enacted, That in case either Great Britain or France shall, before the third day of March next, so revoke or modify her edicts as that they shall cease to violate the neutral commerce of the United States, which the president of the United States shall declare by proclamation, and if the other nation shall not within three months thereafter so revoke or modify her edicts in like manner, then the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth and eighteenth sections of the act, entitled 'An act to interdict the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes,' shall, from and after the expiration of three months from the date of the proclamation aforesaid, be revised and have full force and effect, so far as relates to the commerce, colonies and dependencies, and to articles the growth, produce and manufacture of the dominions, colonies and dependencies of the nation thus refusing or neglecting to revoke or modify her edicts in the manner aforesaid.

We presume, that according to the spirit of the arrangement with Esquire, and the measures the nation adopted by our executive; the president will immediately make proclamation of the recent revocation. Esquire's promise was to have produced its fruit by the 1st of June; Calore's is to produce effect by the 1st of November. We are confident that a proclamation will be speedily issued by Mr. Madison.

THE INFORMATION which was received a few days ago, stating that the ports of France were opened for the admission of cotton, colonial produce and East India goods upon the payment of the annexed duties, has been succeeded by intelligence of a more interesting nature.

Mr. Madison may have been a worthy citizen since; but what is he compared with James Madison, who performed his duty of duty regularly in the midst of his duties, who is an excellent citizen; mentions ye ambitious, who seek to overthrow the constitution, and who have dreamt of nominating himself. He is a man of sense, Mr. Madison; but, it would be the saddest thing in this catalogue of follies, if certain folks should vote for Robert Stuart, in preference to James Madison, because a man who distils marble has more solid claims than the who works in wood!

What qualification, what attraction, personal or mental, has Robert Stuart? It were odd, if he who covered the storm, (when others stood the blast) should supersede them in the succeeding calm and sunshine.

Although it is probable that the document in question, will have arrived in America before this communication, yet we have thought it our duty to acquaint you, by the earliest conveyance, with so recent and unexpected a change, in the commercial policy of France, as, in whatever light it is viewed, it may lead to the most important results, with which our mutual interests, and future prospects, are closely connected.

A small Query—Does not Calore's letter to General Armstrong, corroborate the remarks we lately made on Gallatin's misinterpretation of the non-intercourse act?

should continue to operate, and the blockading system remain in force, our relations with your country, may become the subject of renewed anxiety, and the period of an accommodation be rendered more distant and uncertain.

From any change in the system, by which the regular channels of commerce have been so long obstructed, are involved in great uncertainty, the preceding intelligence has had very little influence upon the value of American produce.

The prices of Cotton remain stationary—the sales, however, are more extensive than they have been for some time past, and the confidence of the holders seems rather increased. Turpeurine is in demand; a parcel, three fourths sold, having obtained 17s. but the hard and inferior descriptions are hardly saleable at 12s. a 14s. per cwt.

The following provision of our laws answers both questions: Extract from "an act concerning the commercial intercourse between the United States and Great Britain and France and their dependencies, and for other purposes," passed May 1, 1810.

These questions are submitted under an impression that the political opinions of this candidate for the Legislature of Maryland, are not substantial. That he has rather plied between parties, than openly and candidly declared his politics. Such men will not suit the minds of the Baltimoreans. The rights of Republicans cannot be entrusted to a man who may be either afraid or ashamed to avow the principles which actuate him on the political stage.

THE COMMON LOT. BY JAMES MONTGOMERY. Once in the flight of ages past, There lived a Man; and WHO was he? Mortal! how'er tho' he cast, That Man resembled Thee.

He loved—But whom he loved the grave Hath lost in its unconscious womb; O she was fair—but nought could save Her beauty from the tomb.

The bounding pulse, the languid limb, The changing spirits' rise and fall; We know that these were felt by him, For these are felt by all.

He suffer'd—but his pangs are o'er; Enjoy'd—but his delights are fled; Had friends—his friends are now no more; And foes—his foes are dead.

The rolling seasons, day and night, Sun, moon and stars, the earth and main; To him his portion, life and light, To him exist in vain.

INTERMENTS In the city of Baltimore last week. Cholera 3, Bilious 10, Consumption 8, Hooping Cough 1, Causality 1, Unknown 5, Teething 1, Placenta 1, Delivility 1.

LOST ON the Fredericktown road, between the 5th mill and the Factory, a double card SILVER WATCH, with a brass chain, and glass case, (blue case). The finder will be handsomely rewarded, by leaving it at this office. Sept 26