"rs in the public funds" which we think | Friendship, 9 days from Boston, for Livwill not be unacceptable to our readers:

When a loen is simply a certain sum lent at any fixed rate of interest, it is evident the gain of the substribers must entirely depend upon the market price of stock, bearing the same interest, being higher, when they may have occasion to dispose of their new stock, than the price as which they made their agreement with the Minister; but, of late years, the terms of the loans have generally, consisted of several distinct articles: as, 3 and 4 per cent. Consols, with a certain proportion of terminable annuity; and the term Omnium, which appears in the stock lists for some time after every new loan, includes all the several articles in the contract between government and the eriginal subscribers : e. g. £1,000 Omnium of the year 1795, contained

$750: 0:0 3 per Cent Consols. 250: 0:0 4 per Cent Consols. 3: 3:9 Long Annuity. 159: 14: 5 5 3 Imperial 8 per cts. 9:11:8 Imperial Annuity.
0:7:6 Add. Long Annuity:

Those who wish for farther information on this head, are referred to "The Terms of all the Loans which have been raised for the Public Service during the last fifty years; with an introductory account of the principal loans prior to that period, &c." By J. J. Grellier.
