PLYMOUTH DOCK, Oct. 2. Arrived L'Aventure French brig, la. den with valuable produce from the Isle of France. She was captured by the Northumberland, of Ushant, on Saturday last, bound to Bres.: left the Isle of Bourbon 84 days since; at which time the British forces had commenced an at tack with 14 sail of ships and transports this is the report of the French crew.

Last night intelligence arrived here, that the Cherbourg squadron had returned to port.

The Tonnant sails to morrow for Portsmouth, with admiral Sawyer, who is appointed to have the command at LONDON, Sept. 30. Affairs in Portugal still present the same melancholy aspect. The Por uguese, whom we are obliged to threaten in order to render patriotic, are not an atom of assistance to lord Wellington; and nobody therefore is surprised to hear, that the fall of Almeida, and subsequent advance of the French, have induced his lordship to retire from Celerico." Of this sort of inducement we shall hear a great deal more; and whether his lord ship is brought to battle or not, it is easy to see that he will be induced ere long to retire from Portugal. There are per sons who it is true express great hopes of formidable obstructions in one place and of protracted sieges in another; but they know how much the Pottuguese differ with them in such hopes Of what use is it indeed to that wretched people to see their country laid waste by friend and foe, for no other possible end but to delay the hour of their subjugation?-This hour is inevitable, and in the mean time the delay makes them suffer a thousand times more than the subjugation will. Were it possible to hinder the French arms from reaching the At lantic-were it possible to rescue the Portuguese, or to render them free and secure-no struggle would be absurd, no delay should make us despendent; but when any reasonable person considers the state of opinion and policy in Portugal,—when he considers the manners of its inhabitants, the stupidity of its rulers. and the ab-olute depravity of the system for which they fight, he sees nothing but felly and misery in the attempt, and he knows that it is time for the English merchants to give up all thoughts of preserving their country houses on the banks of the Tagus - Examiner.

French troops were expected to gar rison Koningsberg and Memel in a very short period, as a considerable force had received orders to march in that direc

The honourable general Colville has sailed with the Gordon Highlanders, to join lord Wellington's army.

The opposition to the Union, and

Mr. Fostke's new Taxes, was confined, for some time past, to Dublin, but now it is extending to the counties, in two of which meetings are called of the Fice. holders From this it would appear, as if the opposition would spread over the country, and that the table of the House of Commons will be covered with Petitions from Ireland the next Session of Parliament. The tax of 50 per cent. additional on windows, has given universal dissatisfaction throughout the country.

The finest fleeces clipped this sea son were from the Spanish flock of lord Castlereagh -of the flecces of his quon dam Irish flock, no accurate return has been ever made-they were doubtless very weighty.

FALMOUTH, Oct. 1. Arrived the Duke of Mar borough packet, capt. Bull, from Lisbon in eight days. When off this port, about eleven o'clock this morning, a French sch'r privateer, of 14 guas and 100 men, was observed with French colours, and with the assistance of her sweeps to be making towards the Mar borough, and an action soon commenced which lasted nearly an hour, when the Frenchman ran away, and soed with all his sweeps going, for his own coast. The master The brig Inca, Thompson, and sch ones Kemp, Durkee, of Bultimore had arrived at the quarantine ground from off Syl.. The brig Savage, Garage Religious the packet, Mr. James (who beat off a French privateer of superior force, last voyage) is wounded by a musket hall in cheek, and two others of the crew are wounded in the thigh. During the c tion, the enemy attempted to board the packet, when capt. Bull ordered the mail and dispatches to be sunk, which was STOCKHOLM Sept. 7. The Journal of Literature and the Theatres, published here, contains, in a supplement, several letters which the late Count Axel Ferson wrote, in the years 1805 and 18 6 to king Gustavus Adolphus, when he accomponied that prince to Pomerunia and Lauenburgh,-He conjutes the king in these letters to renounce his system of war, to return to Sweden with his troops, and to detach himself from his alliance with England, which could not but be prejudicial to Sweden.

Paris, September 18. The garrison of Atmeida consisted of 5000 Portuguese. After its surrender. 1200 of them offered to enter into the service of the Emperor, and the Prince of Essling has formed them into a corps of pioneers. The 24th Portuguese regiment of the live has also been ret-in ed in the French service, on account of its hatred to the English, and the zesl of the officers The Marshal, however, in his dispatch, observes, that he shall ulways take care to keep an eye upon those troops, and not place them in im- Brig, Ceres Starr, portant posts.

POSTSCRIPT.

Owing to the lafe torrents, the Eastern Mail was not received last night till a late hour. The following may be reckoned important, because unexpected: but, in the present condition of Britain, a dear-bought victory must be (like Pyrrhus's) almost as disastrous as defeat. When the particulars are known, they 'may alter the case." If lord Wellington has out generalled so experienced an officer as Massena, he deserves the highest encomium.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

Latest from Portugal.

The ship Radius, captain Miller, sail ed from Corunna on the 7th of October I wo days previous to his sailing captain M. saw an official letter addressed to the American consul, which mentioned that a severe and decisive engagement took place near Almeida, in Portugal, on the 27 h September, between the French and the combined forces of England and Portugal, under the command of lord Wellington, and continued, without in-termission, until the evening of the 29th, when the French were c mpelled to make a precipitate retreat, with the loss of 14 000 n en, killed and prisoners -The loss of the combined armies was triffing compared with that of the French. The Portuguese troops beha ved with the greatest galiantry on this occasion. The German troops were daily deserting the French standard.
