For the Easton Gazette. "WHEN I AM GONE."

When I am gone will memory fond My hours of life trace o'er anew, Each act of virtue bring to light. And bury all my faults from view? -. Will those who loved me seek the place Where lieth one they loved while here? Will ever they think o'er my name, Or shed upon my grave a tear?

The friends who loved me first are gone: Father and mother passed away, Two sisters, yes, two sisters dear, All in a world I hope, of day, The triends I knew and loved in youth Have some from earth and sin been borne; Will those who linger on earth's shore Forget me not when I am gone?

I've sought the homestead of my youth, I've strayed along the river shore, Where first my youthful lips were taught To lisp the name of God in prayer. But those who taught me now are gone Where skies are brighter and more fair; Have passed from earth and care away And soon I trust to meet them there. "SHADE OF THE DEPARTED 'KENE."
