THE BEST OF HUSBANDS. IMITATED PRON THE GERMAN.

Oh, I have a husband as good as can be; No woman could wish for a better than he! Sometimes indeed, he may chance to be wrong,

But his love for me is uncommonly strong! He has one little fault that makes me fret, He has always less money, by far, than debt; Moreover, he wallops me now and then-

But, excepting that he's the best of men ! I own he is dreadfully given to drink; And, besides, he is rather too fond I think. Of playing at cards and dice; but then, Excepting that, he's the best of men !

He loves to chat with the girls, I know (Tis the way with the men-they're always so), But what care I for his lirting-when, Excepting that, he's the best of men?

I can't but say I think he is rash To pawn my pewter, and spend the cash; But how can I scold my darling, when, Excepting that, he's the best of men?

When soaked with tipple he's hardly polite, But knocks the crockery left and right. And pulls my hair and growls again-But, excepting that, he's the best of men? Yes-such is the loyalty I have shown;

And who could ask for a better than he? TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

But I hace a spouse who is all my own;

As good, indeed, as a man can be-

If fortune with a smiling face, Strew ruses on our way, When shall we stop to pick them ap? To-day, my love, to-day. But should she frown with face of care, And talk of coming sorrow, When shall we grieve, if grieve we must? To-morrow, love, to-morrow.

If those who've wronged us own their faulta, And kindly pity pray, When shall we listen and forgive! To-day, my love, to-day. But if stern justice urge rebuke, And warmth from memory borrow, When shall we chide—if chide we dare?

To-morrow, love, to-morrow. If love, estranged, should once again Her genial smile display, When shall we kiss the proffered lip? To-day, my love, to-day. But if she would indulge regret, Or dwell with by-gone sorrow,

When shall we weep-if weep we must? To-morrow, love, to-morrow. For virtuous acts and harmless joys The minutes will not stay; We've always time to welcome them, To-day, my love, to-day.

But cares, resentment, angry words; And unavailing sorrow, Come far too soon if they appear, To-morrow, love, to-morrow.
