ONLY.

May set a town on fire.

May rouse a woman's ire :

May set a boy to thinking;

May set a man to drinking.

Only a little spark

Only a little note

Only a little sum

Only a little drop

Only a kindly act

Only a verse or two

Only a little theft

Only a loving word

Only a little ball

Only a single death

Only a single word

Only a mid-night meal

Only a few years more,

My only song is done.

With his cheerless house and his rueful phiz!

When his fire is out, and in shivering dread,

He slips 'neath the sheets of his lonely bed;

An Old Buchelor.

How he draws up his toes,

'Neath the chilly bed-clothes:

All encased in yarn bose,

That his nose and his toes,

Still encased in yarn bose,

May not chance to get froze !

And with Ah's and with Oh's,

With his limbs to dispose,

From beneath the bed-clothes

Sees the windows all froze,

To put on his clothes, that he'd surely be froze.

times trying. Spos'a you try it."

he tossed the volcano sky ward.

So that neither his toes nor his nose may be froze,

And he buries his nose

No mortal on earth ever suffered such woes.

Only one line before

Only two happy bearts

Only a few barsh words

Mar lead a happy life;

May end in deadly strife;

May earn a noble name;

May bring one lasting fame

May bring a shameful end;

May gain us many a friend,

May cause a world of woe.

May bring a horrid dream;

Has set me on this theme;

And then my race is run;

May lay a creature low;
