The South.

"Before St. Mark still glow his words of brass,
Their glories glowing in the air,
But is not their spirit gone to rest?
Are they not buried? Venice, lost and won,
Her thirteen hundred years of pomp and state,
Sink, like a wreath of smoke, beneath the rascal's blow, to be the dust beneath the water, and show,
Even in destruction's depth, her foreign foes,
From whose submission springs an infamous repose."

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

SPECIAL SESSION.

FREDERICK, May 7. SENATE.

The bill to confer upon the board of police commissioners the powers now exercised by a single magistrate and to provide for the appointment of four or more judges, was passed and is now a law.

The bill to amend the provisions of the law relating to the militia, which were passed in the Legislature of 1857, and which were amended in the year 1859, was passed.

Important news from Canada.

The Northern press with unusual delicacy has been asserting for some time past that the United States Government would receive material aid from Canada, and it was even stated that the Governor General had furnished 25,000 arms. How utterly false all these statements are, may be inferred from the following extracts from Canadian journals:

The commander of the forces in Canada has made a requisition upon England for five thousand troops.

Montreal has been made the centre for the concentrated troops. The 17th regiment reached there from Quebec on Thursday last.

Canada will preserve an anxious neutrality.

The purchase of arms will not be allowed. The Government cannot buy arms.

Despatch from Rome.

The publication of a Pamphlet by the Duc d'Aumale, called 'Une Lettre sur l'Histoire de France,' and addressed to Prince Napoleon, has been the last great event in Paris. The manner in which it made its appearance is thus described by the Paris correspondents of one of the daily papers:

The pamphlet was printed at St. Germain by a M. Duminyer. In compliance with the customary formalities, a copy of it was deposited at the office of the Prefect of Versailles, M. de St. Marceau, who forced it into his waste-paper basket, already bursting under a plethora of unread pamphlets.

leaders of the Republican party, and seeking with them the best means of overthrowing your throne." Louis Philippe took no account of this information; but the intrigues continuing, the Ministers who now explain so clearly to the Chambers the intentions of your cousin, took upon himself to put an end to the visit to Paris of Queen Hortense and her son.

There is one of the maxims of your Government, an essential maxim, which Louis Philippe was too good-natured to have applied. "Should legitimate authority be overthrown, let us see a man independent, not a man dependent, as we have now in our midst, we should well and beautifully shoot them." Now, it so happens that, under the Government of July, there was an incursion at Strasbourg and there was a descent at Boulogne, but there was no one shot. A grave fault, no doubt, but then, the Orleansists are incorrigible, and had they to begin again I verily believe they would be as element as ever.
