

The South.

HABEAS CORPUS.

"Next to personal security," says Mr. Justice Blackstone, the law of England regards, ascertains and preserves the personal liberty of individuals.

"To deprive a man of life or of his liberty, or to confine him in prison, or to subject him to any other punishment, without the authority of the law, is a crime against the public."

"The glorious spirit of liberty is extinguished and left without hope but in a miracle, said the noble patriot, 'I confess it is a choice of difficulties. You may stifle them, but you cannot extinguish them.'"

"The King, in his reply, pledged himself 'speedily and effectually to enforce obedience to the laws and authority of the supreme legislative power.'"

"The Congress of 1774, then, was not one member, except Patrick Henry, who appeared to me before the precipice, or rather the pinnacle on which we stood, and had candor and courage enough to acknowledge it in America is in total ignorance of its own history."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

"The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people."

FROM OUR SECOND AND THIRD PAGES.

BY THE PHILADELPHIA TRAIN.

The Centreville correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says: A number of Philadelphians are here for the purpose of witnessing the engagement, among which are Hon. John M. Butler, Hon. L. D. Fuller, Geo. R. Smith, J. P. Gregory, D. C. Pauling, and J. W. Hinkle.

The Washington correspondent of the same paper states: A very intelligent United States officer, who is temporarily connected with the Patterson's corps, arrived here last evening, with despatches. He says that as the terms of service of the 3 months' men are expiring, no forward movement can safely be made by Gen. Patterson.

The loss of officers was observed to be disproportionately great; and the gloom in the quarters of the British was deepened by the reflection that they had fought not only a bloody, but a fruitless battle, and that the cause for which they were fighting was a cause of civil or religious freedom, but for the suppression of a part of the empire.

The wife of Colonel Pinckney is distinguished as one of those heroic and self-sacrificing women of the revolution, who interposed and sacrificed their lives for the freedom of their country.

When Washington learned the fate of the rich and powerful man, he was so affected that he could not utter a word, and he was so affected that he could not utter a word.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

mediately two days' rations, and prepare to travel light or leave all wagons. The movement is supposed towards Winchester. The front of the column commenced encamping yesterday, at 6 o'clock, P. M.

All the accounts from New York report the destitution of that city as extreme. The correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says: The rooms of the Union Defence Committee were densely crowded early at 6 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of receiving applications for relief.

The Washington correspondent of the same paper states: A very intelligent United States officer, who is temporarily connected with the Patterson's corps, arrived here last evening, with despatches. He says that as the terms of service of the 3 months' men are expiring, no forward movement can safely be made by Gen. Patterson.

The loss of officers was observed to be disproportionately great; and the gloom in the quarters of the British was deepened by the reflection that they had fought not only a bloody, but a fruitless battle, and that the cause for which they were fighting was a cause of civil or religious freedom, but for the suppression of a part of the empire.

The wife of Colonel Pinckney is distinguished as one of those heroic and self-sacrificing women of the revolution, who interposed and sacrificed their lives for the freedom of their country.

When Washington learned the fate of the rich and powerful man, he was so affected that he could not utter a word, and he was so affected that he could not utter a word.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

The people of Maryland, happier than that of Pennsylvania, escaped intestine dissensions and insubordination, by passing over the proprietary government, and intrusting the whole to the people.

parance and success in speaking French, become a great favorite. He had recently learned a short time to speak French.

The correspondent adds that the Southern clear-ance was fully and promptly completed by the Confederate flag waved unobscured from Harre and Liverpool, and that Southerners travelling in France do so without the small aid of a visa from the United States Consul.

News From Kentucky. Louisville, Ky., July 20, 1861.—Military regulations are current. It is reported that Simon J. Backer, Inspector General of Kentucky, has resigned, and that Ben Hardin, Assistant Inspector General, is about resigning; that Colonel Hunt, of the Second Regiment of the State Guard, has also resigned. The impression is that the resignations will cause the disbanding of the State Guard.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

Attack on Cape Hatteras Battery. The reported attack by the Federal steamer 'Hudson' on the Confederate battery at Cape Hatteras is confirmed. It is stated that the attack was made on Oregon Inlet, and that the Confederates were disposed by shells.

DYE WOODS, CHEMICALS, &c. R. J. BAKER. DYE WOODS, CHEMICALS, &c. DYEING DRUGS, CHEMICALS, &c.

JOHN T. WATKINS, MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN CABINET FURNITURE, No. 47 SOUTH STREET, BALTIMORE.

SAMUEL S. MILLS, BOOK AND JOB PRINTING ESTABLISHMENT, No. 122 BALTIMORE STREET, BALTIMORE.

FLAGS. FOR SALE BY SISCO BROTHERS, 35 BALTIMORE STREET, OPPOSITE HOLIDAY STREET, BALTIMORE.

CORTLAN & Co. IMPORTERS OF CUTLERY, PLATED GOODS, BRONZES, ALBATA WARES, DINNER, TEA AND DESSERT SERVICES, Family and Fancy Hardware.

LEONARD PASSANO, No. 52 Centre Market Space, BALTIMORE.

FANCY GOODS, in the city, at present on hand.

TABLE AND POCKET CUTLERY, PERFUMERY, HOSIERY, STATIONERY, COMBS, BRUSHES, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, PISTOLS, GENTS FURNISHING GOODS, UMBRELLAS AND PARASOLS, SKELETON SKIRTS, TRIMMING, &c. &c.

MALCOM & Co., GRAIN, FLOUR AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS, IMPORTERS OF AND DEALERS IN GUANO, WAREHOUSES, WOOD STREET, BOWLING GREEN, BALTIMORE.