The recent order of the War Department, ordering to Washington all the regiments now organized in the Northern States, and all parts of regiments, even if unarmed and without uniforms, is but one step in the new order of things that has been inaugurated here since the adjournment of Congress. That step will result in the formation of a National of States from which they come. They will armed and uniformed alike; the uniform being the army regulation dress of blue cloth. A new nomenclature will be adopted, discarding the names of States, and referring only to the position which the respective regiments will occupy in the grand army of the United States.

The next step in onward progress is thus indiother step, which will be quite as startling at first streets. Haltmore. as the former, but which is equally founded on

It has been found that the safety of the Republic required the suspension of that writ.— The Administration is now satisfied that the safety of the Republic requires that those papers in the North which do not yield a hearty support to the Government, and to all the measures of the Administration, and which, by their sympathy with the South nourish at the North a hostile feeling against the Government, shall be warned to desist, and if they persist, shall be suppressed. Attorney General Bates has been consulted on the subject, and says that the Government would be perfectly justified in doing so.
