He finally concluded his escape. Mr. Lawler was the adventurous individual-the gentleman who was arrested some weeks ago at Crestline, Ohio, bearing despatches | thence to the reat of a warehouse on west Baltito the Confederates. This was the man who was found in the act of offering stealthy defiance to the walls of the fort. Lawler appears to have procured a key which fitted the padlock which fastened the grating of the port-hole, and with it had opened the grating. He had also been provided with a new wash-tub and a rope, and also a lifepreserver. He had $47.50 in gold and his gold | watch packed in a bladder and fastened in one of his pockets. Having packed his value, he placed it in the tub; he then fastened a rope to a tub, let in general orders. the tub out of the port-hole, and after securing the rope, bid good-by to Fort Layfavette, and entered the tub himself. He then began sailing for the ground, all the while closely watched by the sentinel, who permitted the bold Lawler, his tub and cargo to land on the dock in safty. Bu no sooner had be landed than he was commanded to surrender or be shot.

But the sentinel was not to be bribed by Mr. Lawler. He alarmed the garrison, and Lieuten int Wood, the officer of the port, had the prisoners' roll called to see if all his prisoners were in the fort. He then had Lauler secured in double irons and placed in the guard-house. As the sentinel had had occasion to order off one of three vessels which had been laving very close into the fort during the night, Lieutenant Wood ordered a boat to be manned and taking some soldiers with him, duly armed he proceeded to the three vessels referred to and had them taken under the guns of the revenuecutter Bibb. The sea was very rough at the time of the boarding.

It seems that Lieutenant Graham, in command of the Bibb, received the order to hold the three vessels in rather a sour manner, and was a good deal unwilling to do anything in the matter. It is stated in the neighborhood of Fort Hamilton, that the Bibb has been somewhat neglectful of its prisoners for some time past.
