FURTHER FROM THE SOUTH.

We give below further interesting extracts from Southern papers.

ANOTHER CASE OF ARMS.
It gives us great pleasure to announce that another steamer has arrived in a Southern port from England, laden with arms and munitions of war for the Confederate Government. This intelligence was received here yesterday. The vessel itself, we understand, as well as the cargo has been purchased by the Government.

ARRIVAL OF THE FINGAL.
Our readers will remember an article which we copied from the N. Y. Herald a week or so ago, in which Bennett expressed considerable curiosity to know what the Fingal was going to take rifled cannon, arms and munitions of war to the west coast of Africa. We can inform that individual, now that the Fingal has arrived at a destination, but owing to a stress of weather, convenience of harbor, or some other cause, she made the port of Savannah, instead of Congo river, where she met an equally eager set of customers, and appears to be well pleased with the change. And we would further inform Mr. Bennett that instead of the Sumner being taken by the Niagara she arrived here directly at anchor in a certain European port, and when she turns up again she will neither be covered with 'sea weeds or barnacles.'

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.
There are no tidings of special interest from the invaders of Port Royal. They seem to be strengthening themselves for a permanent occupation of the islands and inlets in the harbor of Port Royal, but have as yet made no indications of an advance towards the mainland.

FROM BRISTOL.
Two Federal gunboats were grounded near Fort Littleton, (some two miles below Beaufort,) and one was lying at anchor at a short distance behind. The negroes were flooding in and out of the town, laden with prog. Those whom I spoke to answered me with civility.

FROM BRISTOL.
I am convinced that they have been led by the desire of attaining, without cost, those articles so precious to dear to them. A young man whose perceptions of truth were not blunted by fear, as he turned and rode back with me, told me that the first boat came ashore with a white flag, and the negroes ran to the wharf to see the Yankees come up to the town.

THE BLACK FLAG AT CHARLESTON.
A Richmond correspondence of the Petersburg Express says:
The spirit of hope must now, with the Yankees, die upon the winter winds. Already has the black flag been hoisted upon the soil of South Carolina and war to the knife, the knife to the hilt, and thence to the shoulder, been proclaimed by her invaders. They shall receive at their hands. This is right—it is the only way to conquer a people with a people so low and degraded as those which compose the grand army of the Rump Government.

FROM WASHINGTON.
The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer says:
The Government has at last awakened to the necessity of preventing, reasonable communication with the Confederates by the way of the Delaware Railroad, from Philadelphia, through parties in the neighborhood of Salisbury, on the Eastern shore of Maryland. Contraband information and munitions of war have been sent from thence, in small boats across the Chesapeake at night, into the various creeks emptying into the bay. This channel has long been known to exist, but until now no endeavor has been made to close it. A region allied to abundance with Secession sympathizers, and to keep them in check six companies of the Sixth Michigan Regiment and seven companies of the New Hampshire Cavalry Regiment left Baltimore yesterday for the intended locality.

GREENNESS OF OFFICE SEEKERS.
There are so many patriots now in Washington that there is no room in the North for them, so the Treasury Department is already overrun with applicants for the positions of Collector of Customs at Beaufort, Savannah, and other Southern ports which it is expected will soon be opened.

APPOINTMENT OF GEN. LEE.
General Robert E. Lee has been appointed as early as the 7th inst., for Beaufort, S. C., and will hereafter have full command in that section.

WESTERN VIRGINIA.
We learn with great pleasure that the command of our troops in Northwestern Virginia has been given to General Thomas Jackson—him of the "Stone Wall Brigade"—who is a native citizen of that country. His command will be distinct from, and independent of, that of the Army of the Monongahela. It will embrace the present commands of Generals Henry Jackson and Loring, and all the troops about Winchester. We understand that General Jackson has left the Army of the Potomac, and proceeded to this new field of duty, where he will prove himself an instance of "the right man in the right place."

REPORT FROM EAST TENNESSEE—DARING ADVENTURE OF A SCOUTING PARTY.
The rumors in regard to the burning of bridges on the western side of the Holston, and the fact that the only ones successfully fired this side of Knoxville are the Union Station bridge, ten miles from Bristol, and another at Lick Creek, further on. Some two hundred feet of the bridge first named were destroyed, and it will require but a short time to restore it sufficiently for the running of the trains.

There are reports of the burning of two bridges on the Georgia and Tennessee Railroad, and some of the Georgia papers have been communicated to us relative to an attempt to burn the long bridge at Strawberry Plains, near Knoxville. The man who was stationed there to guard it saw fifteen men approaching, and used his pistol and double-barreled shot gun with such effect as to keep them at bay until assistance arrived; and two or three arrests have been made of suspected parties in the neighborhood of Bristol, Va. While on duty a party of 22 young men, accompanied by Mr. J. B. Howard as a volunteer, and started from Bristol by the railroad on Sunday evening at six o'clock. They sent lanterns ahead of the train, and found the track torn up by the Rebels, and the Union Station bridge, but the damage was soon repaired and they passed over safely. Arriving at Carter's Station, they stopped and threw out pickets; and about midnight the little scouting party under Capt. Miller started to explore the country. They had proceeded about three and a half miles through Carter county, Tennessee, when they were met by a pretty heavy fire from rifles and shot guns, which was promptly returned, and the skirmish was kept up with spirit for half an hour. The Confederates were some 300 strong, and constituted the advance of a body of 800, stationed at Elizabethtown, the mountain stronghold of the traitors.

A Confederate Flag at St. Thomas.

(Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.)
St. THOMAS, Oct. 28, 1861.
The schooner Emily Ten Broeck, 88 tons, Captain Ten Broeck, from Savannah, arrived in this port last night. On being boarded by the harbor master this morning, the master was in conformity with the regulations, directed to hoist the vessel's flag, which proved to be the "Confederate." A few hours after, this was hauled down and the English flag hoisted, and the vessel entered as an English schooner—having been hastily transferred to some party claiming to be a British subject.

The American Consul addressed letters to the authorities demanding that the vessel should be detained, and also to the British Consul, protesting against the changing of the flag of a vessel from an unrecognized nation, and with papers altogether illegal.
The vessel had a small cargo of rice on board, which has been disposed of.

Evacuation of Springfield by the Federal Forces.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 15.—Since the departure of the divisions of Generals Hunter, Pope and Sturgis, on Saturday last, from Warsaw, nothing of interest has transpired.
The divisions of Generals Sigel and Asboth have returned from their position South of here, which was merely a feint to protect our withdrawal, and they will march for St. Louis, via Rolla, in a day or two.
Springfield will be entirely evacuated, and a large number of Union men of the city and surrounding country have left, and will continue to leave, with the army, not willing to risk their lives in the hands of the Confederates.

FROM BERMUDA.
Boston, Nov. 16.—Captain Hunter, of the steamer Delta, from Bermuda, at Halifax, reports that when he left Bermuda the British steamer Fingal and Confederate States steamer Nashville were in port. That the Fingal had transferred her cargo of arms to the Nashville, and that the latter put Mason and Siddell on board the Fingal, which would take them to England, while the Nashville would run the blockade with the arms.

General Hunter at St. Louis.
St. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—General Hunter and his staff arrived here to-night.
Sedalia and Rolla will be strongly garrisoned and sufficiently provisioned. Stores and munitions of war will be sent to each point for an army of 15,000 men, should necessity at any time require the presence of such a force. The bulk of the army will come to St. Louis, and be held in readiness for movements in Kentucky, Southeast Missouri, or down the Mississippi river.

Release of Senator Gwin on Parole.
New York, Nov. 15.—Senator Gwin, Calhoun, Benham, and J. Brent, who were arrested by Gen. Sumner, have been released on parole to leave the country without the permission of the Government.
