The South.

THE SENTRY.

They're gone-the watchfires they have set Flow round the mountain passes yet; Out through the darkness of the night, They that a silent, flickering light.

They shine on victory's distant track, When none, alas! for me comes back; They let me bleed to death to-night, True sentry, on the field of fight!

Hushed in the tumult of the fray, The powder-smoke is blown away; Faint, broken shouts fall on my ear; My comrades all are safe from here.

Yet, though my comrades all are far, There gleams full many a golden star, And Angel bands light up on high The eternal watch-fires of the sky.

Oh, comrades brave, to rictory ! Farewell, we banners, high and free! I can no longer be with you-Another camp is near my view!

While banners, in the moonlight spread, Float through the heavens above my head, Slow sinking now I see them wave And flutter o'er a soldier's grave.

O, loved one, 'tis the thought of thee Alone weighs down this heart in me: Yet weep not, love, be this thy pride, That bravely at my post I died!

The Lord of Hosts, unseen on high, Leads out the armies of the sky; Soon shall He call my name out clear. And I, true sentry, answer-Here!

OLD FOGY DOCTRINES.

"We noid these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these, are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to recure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their rafety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience bath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishings the forms to which they are accustomed. The wife of Colonel Pinckney is distinguished as one of those heroic and self-sacrificing women of the revolution, "whose intrepidity and fortitude lent so able a support to the cause of their country." An incident in her life is recorded in Garden's interestling Anecdotes of the Gerolution. "A British officer of rank once said to Mrs. Pinckney-'It is impossi-

U. S., vol. 7, p. 322. The King, in his reply, pledged himself speedily | 1. and effectually to enforce "obedience to the laws and the authority of the supreme legislature." His heart was hardened. Having just heard of the seizure of ammunition at the fort in New Hampshire, he intended that his language should "open the eves of the deluded Americans." "If it does not," said he to his faltering minister, "it must set every delicate man at liberty to arow the propriety of the most coercire measures. ' "The New England goeernments are now in a state of rebellion. Blows winst decide whether they are to be subject to this country. or to be independent." - Bancroft's U. S., vol. 7, p.

In the Congress of 1774, there was not one member, except Patrick Henry, who appeared to me rensible of the precipice, or rather the pinnacle on which we stood, and had candor and courage norance, or under infinite deception concerning that would require a volume, and would now be considered as a caricatured print. For if he holds our forts he may turn them against us, as he did Boston against her proprietors; if he acquires our cannon he will cffectually disarm the colony; if he has a command of troops among us, even if we raise and pay them, and made a few remarks, which he closed with the | shacktes will be fixed upon us-witness Ireland and | following pithy apologue: "A Grecian philosopher | her national army. Even a change of ministry will not avail us, because, notwithstanding the rapid succession of ministers, for which the British Court has been famous during the present reign, yet the same ruinous policy ever continued to prevail against America. In short, I think it my duty to declare, in the awful scat of justice and before Almighty God, that in my opinion the Americans can have no safety but by the Divine favor, their own virtue, and their being so prudent as nor to LEAVE IT IN THE POWER OF THE BRITISH RULERS TO INJURE THEM.
