THE SURRENDER OF MESSES. MASON AND BLIDELL

From the Augusta Constitutionalist of Tuesday. The telegraph brings us the intelligence of the humiliating back down of the Federal Government from its lofty position and haughty defiance of England in the Mason and Slidell affair. We had hoped that there was some feeling of honor still left in that Government—that though it exbibited none in its course towards the south, it would still maintain its dignity in its dealings with other nations—that having assumed an authority, it would assert it at every risk, rather than back down at the threatened cannon and bayonets of England. But why should we be Baker. surprised?
