THIRTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16, 1862. The following are the concluding portions of yesterday's Congressional proceedings: SENATE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Blair, of Missouri, asked leave to present the memorial of one hundred and forty colored persons, asking that provision be made for the colonization of that class...

They retrace themselves in this ignoble manner. And now, Sir, I imagine you have done. Gen. Dix—I regret, madam, that we should have met under these unfortunate circumstances...

Mr. W.—I like forms, Gen. Dix, particularly when connected with official documents. The General more reluctantly to sign his name than to grant the discharge, was finally brought...

Mr. King, of New York, presented a petition that the lands of all convicted traitors be awarded to soldiers, and also to abolish all fees and perquisites of all officers. Referred.
