On the 21st Commodore Napicr's broad pennant appeared among the squadron, and on the 22d Captain Maunsel, of the Rodney, landed with a flag of truce and a letter from the Commodore to the Pasha, informing him that the Sultan had been prevailed upon to restore to him the Pashalic of Egypt en heredite, if he immediately A street, for lessons in Writing, Book-keeping. withdrew his troops from Syria and restored the flect. They left three Sidars and 500 men dead on the field, together only piece of ordnance in the possession of Dost Mahomed, who fled, seriously wounded.

A rumor, circulated on good authority, stated that letters had been received from Cabul, announcing the death of Dost Mahomed, in consequence of the wounds he received in the late engagement with Brigadier Dennie.

Another terrible explosion of a powder magazine took place at Acre three days after the battle, which proved fatal to many of the victors .--The London Morning Herald says:

"The number of killed and wounded amounts to 230. The sufferers are chiefly natives, including many women and children; but we regret also, to add that there were about 20 British seamen and marines killed, and several officers and men wounded. Among the latter are Brigadier Sir Charles Smith, commanding the land forces; Captain Collier, of the Castor; Lieutenant Johnson and the Rev. Mr. Kitson, of the Princess Charlotte. News has been received from China up to the 4th of August. The only event of importance is the landing of the British troops upon the Island of Chausan, and the taking of the city. The Chinese made a slight show of resistance, but soon met with no loss whatever.

:There are accounts of the subsequent misconduct of the troops, who had freely partaken of a spirit distilled from rice; an extensive conflagration that occurred in the town, and the operations of the expedition during the greater part of the month of July. The troops are stated to have committed great excesses, so that all the respectathe inhabitants were leaving the island; provisions were becoming scarce, and divisions are said to presail in the English councils respecting the enode of mending matters and restoring confidence.

Captain Elliot is represented as in favor of conciliatory measures; but he is in the minority.
