If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other untough iron and made with exactn as to the required pleasaut consequences. Euch being the case there can form and size.
