

BALTIMORE GLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 17, 1841.

Does the author of a note which we received through the post office, signed 'A Merchant,' on the subject of railroad notes, think that we are so silly as to enter into the controversy he seems to invite? Is he acquainted with the operations of all the banking institutions of this city, that he undertakes their defence in the gross? We can inform him that we have information directly the reverse of what he states, but shall not designate sources for obvious reasons. Can 'A Merchant' deny that the depreciation of the railroad notes is the effect of their being refused by the banks? Will he assert that their being at a discount is not a heavy loss to the community? We have asserted, and we now repeat, that the action of the banks in regard to the railroad notes, is illiberal, unjust, and oppressive; and this, neither 'A Merchant' nor other partizan of the banks can deny. We do not wish to work any injury to the banking institutions; but we do maintain that the railroad notes are of equal value with those of any bank in Baltimore, under present circumstances, and their circulation is now indispensable; for, without them, we should have no currency below five dollars, excepting individual shopkeepers.—Banks exist by toleration, and should be cautious how they adopt any measure prejudicial to the public interests. We know that arrangements were made by some of the banks to receive railroad notes previous to the present suspension, and we should like to know why they have been annulled. We have spoken on the subject plainly and boldly, and exerted ourselves for what we believed were the interests of the people. To ourselves, it is of no great importance whether the banks accede to or refuse the wishes of the people; and it was our intention to have concluded our comments on the matter with the publication of Monday, leaving the people to act or not in the premises, as they might think proper. We have deviated from our intention merely to bestow a passing notice on the writer before mentioned, and have now only to reiterate our perfect confidence in the correctness of every statement which we have made, and our ability to substantiate every fact as given, were we at liberty to use the evidence in our possession.

We have carefully avoided implicating all the banks in our censures—at least, such has been our intention, because we believe that some of them are honorably conducted, and do not resort to petty financiering.

Economy. We have seen it stated, that orders to an immense amount have been forwarded to England for goods which will be imported this spring. These orders have probably been given in anticipation of some action by the general government which will restore confidence, regenerate the currency and revive trade. Whatever may be the motive, we doubt whether the effect of such large importations will prove beneficial either to individuals or the country. The debt already due to England is enormous and embarrassing, and its further increase will add to existing difficulties. But were these considerations waived, we should be unfavorable to such enormous importations, as they tend to promote the present expensive and luxurious mode of living, to encourage speculation and to depress productive industry.

The most effectual mode of obtaining relief from monetary difficulties, and of restoring confidence in business transactions, is to practice the most rigid economy in all departments of life.—We would not have men imitate the mean and pernicious policy of Cator, the Censor; but to retrace in those expenditures which are not indispensable to comfort; and above all, to avoid running in debt. If every man were to come to the determination to pay cash for all household articles alone, there would be an immense saving and a favorable reaction. But the idle, the dissipated and the imprudent, disdain to be restricted in what they term their enjoyments, by prudential considerations, and debts, insolvency and misery are the result.

Industry and frugality lead to independence and happiness—but unfortunately the first has given place to speculation, by which sudden fortunes are expected to be achieved; and the second is considered low and mean-spirited. Too many are willing to stake their future prospects, if not their lives, upon a cast, and if the hazard goes adverse, they are plunged into irretrievable ruin. A spirit of recklessness is thus introduced and rendered fashionable; and plodding industry, which is content with less show, but more solid comfort, is regarded with contempt. We should like to see the conviction general, that, as man was destined by his Creator "to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow," labor is not distributable. If such were the case, we should not have the children of the laborious spinning the occupations of their fathers, and imitating all the extravagance, vice and folly of the fashionable world. Working-men would again rise into consideration, and merit would form the only requisite recommendation to public or private favor.

The man of the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times says he reasoned with an inebriate a few days since on the vile habit he had of drinking spirits. "Why," he said in reply, "water is dangerous, very dangerous—it drowns people; gets in their chests, and into their heads, and then, too, it makes that infernal steam that's always blowing a fuller up."

SENATE. The National Intelligencer of yesterday says: "The Senate ended its Extra Session yesterday, adjourning sine die after passing upon all the business which the President desired to lay before them. 'Public rumor and private letters having spread far and wide the information of an unfortunate personal collision which occurred in debate in the Senate, one day last week, between Senator Clay of Kentucky and Senator King of Alabama, it gives us pleasure to state that a reconciliation of the difference between these gentlemen, after reciprocal explanation, through the intervention of Mr. Preston, took place in the presence of the Senate. This termination of the difference, putting an end to a painful suspense, was received by Senators with great satisfaction, and by the crowded galleries with irrepressible tokens of the sincerest satisfaction.'"

Mr. CLAY AND MR. KING. Every friend of humanity should rejoice to learn, that the difference between these gentlemen has been finally and amicably settled. It is to be regretted that these personal controversies should so often occur in our legislative halls; for whatever may be the difference of gentlemen on political subjects, courtesy should prevent discussions from degenerating into personal altercations. It is certainly setting a very bad example for the leading men in the country to call each other to the field, and tends greatly to encourage the practice of duelling, a practice condemned by the laws of God and by the injunctions of humanity. We believe that few duels would take place were friends to interfere, as in the present instance. To Mr. Preston is the country mainly indebted for the happy termination of this unhappy dispute—and well does he deserve the benediction "blessed is the peacemaker."

REPORT FROM THE STATE TREASURER. We learn by the Philadelphia Ledger that the State Treasurer has reported to the Legislature, in accordance with a resolution calling for such information, the amount that may be expected to be realized before the first of August next, from the sources of revenue specifically appropriated to the internal improvement fund. The actual amount for 1840 was $459,937 29, the estimated increase in canal and rail road tolls for the present year is $50,000; estimated amount from State tax under act of June, 1840, $25,000. So that the amount likely to be received applicable to the payment of interest on the improvement loans due first of August, will be $534,937 29.

THE WEATHER. The weather, for the last four or five days, has been so changeable, and generally so cool, as to have kept those within doors, who had no absolute necessity to go out.—Almost every day we had snow or rain—sometimes both. This weather has been unfavorable to business, particularly with those merchants who rely for cash sales upon what is termed "shopping;" the ladies being unable to show themselves in the streets.

The Niagara (U. C.) Chronicle says: "On Saturday last, Mr. Henry Minor was crossing the Grand River, a short distance below the dam at Dunnville, in a sleigh, with thirty bushels of wheat, accompanied by his wife and child, when the ice gave way, and melancholy to relate, all were lost excepting Mr. Minor himself. The body of the child has not yet been found."

THE TABLES TURNED. A beautiful young girl was prosecuted on Monday in Philadelphia by an individual in whose employ she was, for a petty larceny alleged to have been committed in July last. The defendant, while the case was being heard, preferred a charge against the prosecutor of having assaulted her with intent to violate her person. This took place in the presence of the prosecutor's wife, who was present in the office.

FORGERY. A forged certificate of deposit on the Commercial Bank of New Orleans, for $2,630, was, on Monday last, presented to a broker in Philadelphia. The broker, in order to compare signatures, left his office for a few minutes. In the mean time, the person who presented the certificate, became alarmed, and "absquatulated."

A FORTUNE TELLER IN TROUBLE. A woman named Lydia Liberti was committed to prison in New York, on Friday, for imposition upon the public credulity. She had brought some young ladies into awkward dilemmas, by imposing upon their credulity with stories of young men who were dying with love of them, but who, in fact, had never seen or heard of the ladies at all.

THE APPEAL. We refer the reader to the appeal of the Washington Junior Temperance Society, which will be found in another column. This society, we are happy to perceive, is growing rapidly in numbers. It now numbers over 300. We wish it prosperity.

DISTRESSING. A little child in Philadelphia, while playing, caught its foot in the carpet, and fell upon the points of a pair of scissors, forcing them through the ball of one of its eyes, the sight of which is destroyed forever.

NOMINATION. A Philadelphia paper nominates Commodore CHARLES STEWART as a candidate for the next presidency. We presume that the writer goes upon the principle that "turn about is fair play" between the army and navy.

LOST OVERBOARD. Henry McDonald, a native of England, was lost overboard on Saturday the 6th inst. off the Capes of the Delaware, from the brig Atlanta, from New York, bound to Philadelphia.

FIRST ARRIVAL. The steamboat Cleopatra arrived at Hartford, (Conn.) on last Tuesday week, from New York, being the first boat of the season.

The office of the Eastern Shore Whig, with all its contents, was burnt to the ground on Saturday morning last.

BALTIMORE MARKET, March 16, 1841. Flour. There has been a slight improvement in the store price of Howard-st. Flour. This, however, has been caused, it is thought, more from a temporary scarcity than from any substantial rise in the market. We quote Howard street at $4.37; Holders are firm at this price. The receipt price continues at $4.12. We quote City Mills at $4.50. The stock on hand is very light.

Grain. There has been a slight improvement in Wheat. We quote red Wheat at 85c90 cts., and White 90c92 cts. The last sales of Rye were made at 45c50 cts. White corn, 39c40 cts. Yellow, 42c43 cts. We quote Oats at 25c26 cts. Cloverseed, $5.

Provisions. This market continues without any material alteration or much animation. Mess Beef, $12.60; No. 1, $10.50; Prime, $8.50a$9. Western Bacon, assorted, 7c7 1/2 cts. Hams, do. 9c9 1/2 cts. Middlings, 7 1/2 cts. Frederick county cured Bacon, of assorted quality, 7 1/2 cts. Baltimore cured Hams, 10c10 1/2 cts. Middlings, do. 8c 8 1/2 cts. Western Lard, in kegs, No. 1, 7 cts. There have been but few transactions in Butter. Glades, No. 1, 18c20 cts.; No. 2, 14c15 cts.; No. 3, 9c14 cts., according to quality. Western, No. 1, 10c11 cts.; No. 2, 8c9 cts.; No. 3, 7c7 1/2 cts.

Cattle. There is a fair supply of Beef Cattle. Prices are without much change. We quote last sales at $67.75 per 100 lbs. according to quality. Live hogs command from $5.50 to $5.75 per 100 lbs.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 21 cts., and bbls. 23 cts., as at last quotations. Wagon price exclusive of bbl., 19 cts.

CONSECRATION. The interesting spectacle of the Consecration of the Right Rev. Dr. Chasche, to the Bishoprick of Natchez, on Sunday last, drew together an immense concourse at the Cathedral. The ceremony was performed by the Most Rev'd Archbishop, assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Bishop of Boston, and the Right Rev. Dr. Hughes, coadjutor of New York, who preached on the occasion. It is not our intention to give an outline of his eloquent discourse; suffice it to say, it was in his usual happy style, and gave complete satisfaction to his large and respectable audience.

We are informed that the rich and elegant vestment worn on the occasion by the newly consecrated Bishop, was presented by the Students of St. Mary's College, as a token of their affection, and a memento for their late much beloved President. The whole ceremony was one, replete with interest, and all who witnessed it were highly gratified.—Patriot.

WATCH RETURNS. Eastern District.—March 15. No disturbance of the peace. Middle District.—Two white men and a negro woman were brought in and imprisoned for wandering in the streets in a state of intoxication. A white man and black woman applied for lodgings.

Western District.—Joseph Howard was taken out of the street last night and locked up. A colored man named George Harris, charged with entering the barber shop of James Grooms, at the Western Hotel, with a felonious intent, was brought in at half past ten, and in the morning committed to jail by Justice Stuart. Clement Johnson was imprisoned for disturbing the peace.

EDUCATION IN PENNSYLVANIA. There were 232,410 pupils, in the different literary institutions of Pennsylvania, during the past year. Of this number, 1,839 pupils are in colleges and universities; 1,430 in female seminaries; 2,465 in academies; 21,963 in the public schools of Philadelphia, and 234,908 in the common schools throughout the State. In the cause of elementary Education at least, it must be admitted that the Keystone State is doing well.

FROM NEW GRENADA. The New York Herald says: "By the Nueva Grenada, Captain Martinez, we have received late advices from Colombia.

CINCINNATI. The annual exports of Cincinnati are estimated by the Chronicle at $9,000,000, viz: pork and beef, in all forms, $3,000,000; flour, $1,200,000; whiskey, $700,000; manufactured articles of all kinds, $3,000,000; and the residue miscellaneous articles of produce.

APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON JUNIOR TEMPERANCE SOCIETY. The Washington Junior Temperance Society would appeal to the employers of the city to encourage their apprentices, and parents and guardians, their children and wards, in the great cause of Temperance, which is the cause of humanity, consequently the cause of every youth. They would appeal thus to those, under their charge, and request that their influence be used in encouraging them to enroll themselves in the Temperance Army, which prides to boast of, is constantly receiving new recruits.

They appeal to the Ladies, who are always identified with every virtuous and anxious for its recovery, to lend us their countenance, and aid and assist us to exterminate the entire force of habit and ballions arrayed against humanity under King Alcohol. The mothers and daughters of the revolution gave their smiles, countenances and support to our fathers, who went out into the battle to avenge their country's wrongs. Mothers and daughters of the moral revolution now going on in our city, come up to our aid, give us your services in any way; they will indeed be acceptable.

They appeal to the Youths of Baltimore, who are intelligent, industrious, and who doubtless are anxious to preserve a character without reproach, to come forward and attach their names to the pledge which they have adopted—to sign this declaration of independence—to abjure allegiance from the tyrant, by discountenancing the pernicious liquor in any shape, form or hue. They are not so presumptuous as to declare that the youth of our city are temperate, so far be it from them to make a charge; but they want them for the example, which is as powerful, if not more so, than the clearest precept. They would appeal to them to come up and attach themselves to the Society.

They appeal to the number of those who now intend to form the Temperance Army on the 5th April—a movement that will strike terror into the hearts of the moderate drinker and the habitual drunkard. They now number over 300 firm, staunch and immovable in the good cause, and wish to see thousands flocking to the standard of Peace and the battlement of safety. Come up, and be seen that the Temperance Reform, which is to draw shops a stumbling block, and to the moderate drinker foolishness, is the power of wisdom and principle to the salvation of those in danger. JOHN C. GOBRIGHT, Pres't W. J. T. Society. Wm. G. HACKBERRY, Sec. mh17-11
