BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

For the Baltimore Clipper. BAVE THE FIPS-(BY SHAPS-) I met a man the other day, Wao, in his own poculiar way, Said-"Save the fips, for the make dellars, And one well made, a transfed fallers."

A pinch of snuff may cost a penny, That penny spent is gone forever; Just like lamented Paganini, Or snow drops felling in the river.

A merchant broke, will lose his credit-Yes, wher men than me have said it; Fo broken dollars seldom find, A friend to treat them very kind.

One fip gone, the charge is broken-Like taking hair from out a locket, Trose remaining are no token, They rest uneasy in the pocket.

Many fips, well stuck together, Are barriers strong 'gainst wintry weather, And, as the old folks used to say, Prepare us for a "rainy day." A child may break some valued ware, When man, with all his skill, can't mend it; So of the fips kind friends take care—

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.] CITY COUNCIL.
