

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 24, 1841

"BLESSED ARE THE MEEK." We wish that we could impress the beauties and benefits of meekness upon the minds of politicians, with the same emphasis and eloquence that we heard them enunciate on Sunday last, for a different purpose. We think that we should be able to diminish political animosity, restore good feeling, and advance the interests of society. If editors of party journals would always bear in mind, that a blessing is promised to the meek in spirit, it might repress their ardent desire for controversy, and enable them when engaged in it to restrain their passions within rational limits. In party warfare there are two objects which should be constantly kept in view by the editor, viz: to animate friends and convert adversaries. To effect the former, abusive and harsh language towards opponent is entirely unnecessary—on the contrary, friends may be alienated by rashness and violence; and will be sure to adhere with greater firmness to the cause they have espoused when they find that it can be sustained with meekness and humility. Conversion (politically as otherwise,) is the result of conviction, and to convince a man of error he must be willing to listen to reason and to hear argument. It is evident then, that if he be approached with threats and denunciations his angry passions will be aroused, and that he will not be susceptible of receiving the desired impression—he will give taunt for taunt, blow for blow. Two opponents, under such feelings and with the use of such means, would be unable to produce the slightest effect upon each other's sentiments were they to continue to wrangle during life. Anger is as unbecoming in political as in other discussions; and, like other passions, increases by indulgence. We once knew a man who had so habituated himself to hard swearing and profane language, that he was unconscious of using them—and so many political writers become so accustomed to the use of harsh terms as at last to deem them indispensable to the elucidation of their arguments. Such men may prize themselves on being keen and severe, but they can never be respected for their principles or their humanity. The poet says,

"The noblest study of mankind is man."

To know man we must study ourselves, and if we would know the feelings of others we must take their situation. What impression is produced upon our minds by the vulgar abuse and angry denunciations of opponents? Do we feel disposed to receive instruction from them? No; we consider their conduct exceedingly low and unbecoming, and would resentment permit, we should treat them with silent contempt. Let us exchange situations and pour out our wrath upon them, and what will be the result? why, that they must despise us. We are certain from our own experience, that we shall fail to convince or convert them. But, if an opponent approach you in friendly form, and offer with meekness to submit the reasons for his difference of opinion, he will be received with courtesy and listened to with patience; and, if he should not succeed in changing your opinions, you will at least part with him in friendship. And then there is the self-respect which a man maintains by such amicable conduct, to say nothing of higher considerations. Besides, it should not be forgotten by editors, that they assume the responsibility of inescapably guiding public sentiment, and are accountable for misleading it.—The vindictive feelings of an editor may be imbibed by his readers; and thus fellow-citizens, animated with equal love of country, and alike disposed to promote the general good, be led, by the indiscretion of editors, to look upon each other with passion, and treat each other as enemies. The man who wilfully excites another, and causes him to fight and lose his life, is morally responsible for his death; and so, editors who wantonly rouse parties into acts of violence, are, if not here, elsewhere, accountable for the consequences. We wish that editors would reflect seriously upon this subject, that a meeker and milder spirit may exist among them. Satire may be a valuable power to possess, but the indiscriminate use of it is fatal to its possessor. We know how difficult it is to suppress a bitter sarcasm, but we should always consider whether, by giving it utterance, we shall not make an enemy. If the friendship of a dog be better than his enmity," it is surely worth while to take a little pains to preserve the esteem of our fellow men. Editors of ardent temperament and little experience, may be excited by the desire of distinction, and tickled with the idea that they will be extolled for their smartness and severity; but the people can discriminate between talent and principle, and the editor should recollect that he may be caressed for his possession of the former, whilst he is despised for the want of the latter.

THE GALE. The pilot boat Pocahontas arrived at this port yesterday from Cape Henry. On the 16th inst., put a pilot on board schr. General Cobb, of Baltimore, and a short time after, being about 5 o'clock, p. m., a gale commenced blowing from NNE, by which the Pocahontas was blown into the Gulf of Mexico, where, whilst lying of under close reef, she was knocked down on her beam-ends. On cutting away the mainmast, she righted immediately, and stove in the small boat, with other damages. The General Cobb has not been heard from.

LEGISLATURE. The Legislature of this State commences its extra session to-day. As it was called for the purpose of maturing and passing the necessary finance bills, we presume that its attention will be principally confined to that subject. We hope that there will be no disposition to make the taxes greater than the actual necessities of the treasury will require; and that, therefore, no additional appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal will be attempted under present circumstances. Against this measure, energetic remonstrances will be forwarded from every ward in this city; and it cannot be the policy of the State to make the taxes so onerous as to depreciate the value of property, and drive citizens into other states for subsistence. The burthen from existing liabilities will fall with a heavy pressure upon Baltimore, and will not only affect large property holders, but will bear with a hard hand upon the laboring classes of society; for landlords will enhance the rent of their property so as to compel tenants to pay a portion of the taxes. This result is inevitable. If, then, some two or three millions of dollars more be added to the state's debt on account of the canal, it must tend to depress industry, or compel many persons to seek relief in removal from the state.

The expenditures of the state should be regulated by the most rigid economy; and, wherever it be possible, salaries should be reduced, and sinecures abolished. Among the latter, we consider the lottery commissioners. One man, with a salary of a thousand or twelve hundred dollars, can perform all the duties required, and for which three commissioners and a clerk have heretofore been paid. We do not press this subject from hostility to the present incumbents, for they no doubt do all that is required of them by law. It is against the system, and the useless expense that we contend, and have protested ever since the establishment of the office; but, if the system be deemed indispensable, it should be conducted at the least possible cost.

THE PENNY PRESS. Our correspondent G. W. W. is right in the estimate which he has formed of the influence of the Penny Press. It is working a moral reformation in the sentiments and feelings of the people. The penny paper circulates every where and is read by every body.—It lashes vice and exalts virtue; informs the mind and improves the heart. Upon all subjects it can speak out with perfect independence, fearless of the frowns of those who may be galled by its censures, and uninfluenced by "good natured friends" who would render it subservient to their interests. But our correspondent has said so many good things of the penny papers, that we shall check our disposition to belabor it in its praise, only further remarking, that it affords conclusive evidence to our minds of a man's good taste and sound sense to take the Baltimore Clipper; and that we are happy to find that there are so many thousands who possess these excellent qualities.

FRONT STREET THEATRE. We witnessed the performance of Pizarro, on Saturday evening, at the above house, and with great satisfaction from the circumstance that a popular and beautiful play has again been performed in our city in a manner not only creditable but worthy as it proved of frequent and liberal bursts of applause, without the adventitious aid of "a star." The performance was exclusively by the stock company, Mr. Fenno, as Rolla, a part in which he has added another substantial proof of his superior acquirements. Elvira, by Mrs. Knight, was characterized by those rare qualities accurate reading and distinct enunciation. The part is a heavy one for this lady, but the merits of the representation were an offset against any want of physical power. Pizarro by Mr. Matthews was an admirable relic of the old school; the character has of late partook of the blackguard. Mr. M. restored the gentleman, if such a term can by any possibility be applied to the revengeful Spaniard.

EXCITEMENT IN CANADA. It is alleged that in the county of Grenville, Canada, a number of persons from this side the line, went over to assist Mr. Crane, the liberal candidate. The Montreal Herald thus speaks of the affair: "It has been enough to sicken the heart of any true subject to witness the proceedings of the present election: our village has been filled with Yankees from the opposite shore, who seemed to take as active a part and feel as much interest for Mr. Crane, as they did at their late Presidential election; it was no unusual occurrence to see them driving through our main street, huzzing for Crane! and in Ogdensburgh the cry was 'Crane and Canadian Independence!' You may judge that under such circumstances, British blood would boil, but up to this time order has been preserved, which I hope may continue."

SHIPWRECK. The schooner Philip Depyster, Parker, 2 days from New York in ballast, bound to the port of Norfolk, Va., was driven ashore about 6 miles South of Cape Henry, on Wednesday morning last, at 6 o'clock, in the gale and snow storm; her binnacle was swept from her and she started a butt. She is lying well up on the beach, and is full of water. It is presumed she will be gotten off.

STAMMERING. The German papers mention a discovery of Professor Dieffenback, which is exciting general attention at Berlin. He has discovered a method for the cure of stammering, by an incision in the tongue—which is said to have been, in all the instances where he has operated, completely successful. According to the Professor, stammering proceeds from the difficulty of applying the tongue to the roof of the mouth, and his remedy of course consists in the removal of the impediment.

WATCH RETURN. Eastern District, March 22. The District was remarkably quiet, and the only lodger at the watch house was a white man, admitted at his own request.

Middle District. A man named Peter Lanetz, was brought in at half past nine, charged with being concerned in the murder of the missing wagoner, Jacob Bringman, on the Hookstown Road. The prisoner shortly after he was arrested, was suddenly seized with violent spasms, when Dr. Durkee was called in by the watch, who administered relief. Mary Stevenson, colored, was brought in for riotous conduct in the streets, and disturbing the peace. In the morning reprimanded.

Western District. Henry Adman was arrested at half past nine o'clock, by the Police, for riotous conduct in Broomestick Row. Samuel Maynard and Sarah Jane Derry, colored, went to the Sharp street meeting, and not relying on the exercises, took it into their heads to disturb the congregation, for which they were taken to the lock up, and reprimanded. Rebecca Johnson and Lucy Peach, colored, were brought out of Guilford alley at ten o'clock, for disturbing the peace of that neighborhood. John Oren and two others came in for lodgings.

THE AMERICAN GIRLS. On Friday, judgment was given at New Haven, on the habeas corpus sued out by Mr. Townsend, against Mr. Pendleton, in favor of the former—that is, transferring the custody of the girls to him, as their guardian, appointed by the Court of Probate. The girls, and also the other Africans, were removed to Farmington, where provision has been made for them.

BUSINESS. The Columbia Spy says: Business upon our canals will be resumed ere this paper reaches most of its readers. The water has been let into the Pennsylvania canal, and the first boat left this port yesterday.

The Tidewater, it is presumed, will be navigable in the course of a few days. This is a consummation devoutly wished for.

23-Twenty-five or thirty prisoners were nearly suffocated in the New Bedford Jail, on one night last week, by the escape of anthracite gas. Col. Baylies, the keeper, succeeded with great difficulty and hazard in getting them out into the yard, and medical assistance being called, they were resuscitated after a great deal of exertion.

THE U. S. BANK BILL. A London correspondent of the N. York Express says:—"The bills drawn upon Morrison & Co. by the U. S. Bank have been cashed without difficulty, and to a certain extent the Bank of England has unexpectedly aided the operation. The only difference is, that the discount charged in the market has been 5 per cent."

A BEARER OF DESPATCHES. We understand, says the N. Y. Sun, that Mitchell King, Esq. who came passenger in the Calcedonia, from Liverpool, was the bearer of important despatches from our Minister at London, and that he proceeded to Washington immediately after his arrival here.

FIRE. A destructive fire broke out in the village of Mountgown, Orange county, on Friday morning. Six or seven buildings were destroyed. Among them the stores of Mr. Chandler, Mr. Geo. Oakley, Dr. Eager, and others whose names we have not learned. Oakley's loss is said to be six or seven thousand dollars.

A suit has been instituted in a French Court against Fanny Ellsler, to answer the complaint of M. Leon Pillet, manager of the Academic Royal de Musique, for having exceeded her leave of absence. M. Pillet laid his damages at 60,000f. (£2,100 British.) The cause was, however, adjourned for eight days.

Considerable interest has been excited in England by the continual toleration of East India superstition by the local government, notwithstanding the orders of the home government. The English abuses in the East are enormous.

We perceive, by a letter of the District Attorney of Niagara county, published in the Rochester Democrat, that in consequence of an error in the Niagara County Clerk in drawing the jury, the court will go over, and that McLeod will not be tried, as he was counted upon.

THE NATCHEZ CUTTER. This is the title of a neat new daily pleasure paper published in Natchez, the first number of which is upon our table. It is certainly a very fair cutter and if always managed as at present may sail into the Clipper's port.

GOOD. A lady's dress accidentally caught fire in one of the Philadelphia railway cars the other day, and on being told of it by one of the conductors, she very coolly replied, that "she was quite delighted at the idea of catching a spark."

TALLONS. The editor of the Maine Cultivator has received a pair of "large hens" from Russia—said to be prolific layers and excellent poultry. Chanticleer "can stand by the side of a flour barrel, and eat corn, with ease, from the top."

POLICE. Mary Ann Pearce, charged with assaulting and beating her daughter, was committed to prison yesterday morning by Justice Gorsuch. Susan Simms was committed to the almshouse as a vagrant, by Justice Barnard.

NAVAL. The U. S. ship Cyane, from the Mediterranean, and Dolphin and Grampus from the coast, were at the Cape de Verd Islands on the 9th of February.

3-THE ALEXANDER THEATRE, in North street, we learn, is shortly to be opened, under the management of Mr. Lennox. It is his intention to produce vaudeville entertainments.

LOSS OF A STEAMER. The steamboat Chester, on her trip from St. Louis to New Orleans, was snagged, and sunk in 15 feet water. Boat and cargo, total loss.

BALTIMORE MARKET, } March 22, 1841.

RESIGNATION OF GOV. GILMER, OF VA. We find the following intelligence in the Norfolk Beacon of the 22d inst. Judge May offered a resolution in the House of Delegates on Friday, setting forth that the Governor of New York had demanded of the Governor of Virginia a fugitive from justice, legally charged with crime in that State, and now confined in this, but that the Governor of Virginia for the purpose of retaliation had declined for the fugitive to be surrendered forthwith by Gov. Gilmer, which on motion of Gen. Bayly, was laid on the table.

A resolution was then offered by Mr. Taylor, requesting the Governor of Virginia to communicate the late Executive order respecting a demand made by the Governor of New York for the surrender of a fugitive from justice, and his reasons for refusal to comply with the demand, and also a copy of the demand. Gov. Gilmer complied with the request on Friday, and the matter was discussed at length on Friday evening in the House, without coming to a vote.

When on motion of Mr. Bayly, the House adjourned.

The House of Delegates took up the subject again on Saturday, and adopted, as we learn, a resolution commendatory of the course of Gov. Gilmer, whereupon he immediately resigned his office. The Legislature will probably elect a successor to Gov. G. on to-morrow.
