MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1841.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT.

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow we announce the death of General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, President of the United States. He expired on yesterday morning, at 30 minutes before one o'clock. For several days previous the public mind was kept in a state of constant solicitude on account of his illness, and the arrival of the cars from Washington, morning and evening, was awaited with great anxiety. On Saturday evening the information was favorable, and sanguine hopes of his recovery were entertained; but the arrival of the cars yesterday morning terminated all suspense by the announcement of his death. He expired after one week's illness, precisely one month from the day of his inauguration as President. He came into power by the acclamations of the people, and gave promise of an administration of unexampled unanimity and prosperity:—the sudden termination of his life will, therefore, be received with universal lamentation. His career, as a public man, has been brilliant, patriotic and beneficial to his country. In the various public stations which he has filled, he received the sanction of his own conscience and the approbation of his country:—for he administered all trusts with rigid honesty, and with an unwavering respect for the rights and interests of the people. As a private citizen his character was unimpeachable. His bereaved consort had not the satisfaction of soothing his last hours, but she will have the consolation to know, that the efforts of medical skill and the affectionate attentions of relatives and friends were unremitting to the last moment of his existence.

Since the above was in type we have received the circular from the members of the cabinet, announcing this melancholy event, which we annex.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT.

CITY OF WASHINGTON, April 4, 1841.

An all-wise Providence having suddenly removed from this life, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, we have thought it our duty, in the recess of Congress, and in the absence of the Vice President from the Seat of Government, to make this afflicting bereavement known to the country, by this declaration, under our hands. He died at the President's House, in this city, this fourth day of April, Anno Domini, 1841, at thirty minutes before one o'clock in the morning. The people of the United States, overwhelmed, like ourselves, by an event so unexpected and so melancholy, will derive consolation from knowing that his death was calm and resigned, as his life has been patriotic, useful and distinguished; and that the last utterance of his lips expressed a fervent desire for the perpetuity of the Constitution, and the preservation of its true principles. In death, as in life, the happiness of his country was uppermost in his thoughts.

DANIEL WEBSTER, Secretary of State.
THOMAS EWING, Secretary of Treasury.
JOHN BELL, Secretary of War.

THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The following official order of arrangements for the funeral of the late President was received by last night's cars.

WASHINGTON, April 4, 1841.

The circumstances in which we are placed by the death of the President, render it indispensable for us, in the recess of Congress, and in the absence of the Vice-president, to make arrangements for the funeral solemnities. Having consulted with the family, and personal friends of the deceased, we have concluded that the funeral be solemnized on Wednesday the 7th instant, at 12 o'clock. The religious services to be performed according to the usage of the Episcopal Church, in which church the deceased most usually worshipped. The body to be taken from the President's House to the Congress burying ground, accompanied by a military and a civic procession, and deposited in the Receiving Tomb. The military arrangements to be under the direction of Major General Macomb, the General Commanding in Chief of the Army of the United States; and Major General Walter Jones, of the militia of the District of Columbia. Commodore Morris, the senior Captain in the Navy now in the city, to have the direction of the naval arrangements. The Marshal of the District to have the direction of the civic procession, assisted by the Mayors of Washington, Georgetown and Alexandria, the Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States, and such other citizens as they may see fit to call to their aid.

John Quincy Adams, ex-President of the United States, members of Congress now in the city or its neighborhood, all the members of the Diplomatic body resident in Washington, and all officers of Government, and citizens generally, are invited to attend.

And it is respectfully recommended to the officers of Government that they wear the usual badge of mourning.

DANIEL WEBSTER, Secretary of State.
THOMAS EWING, Secretary of Treasury.
JOHN BELL, Secretary of War.
J. J. CRITTENDEN, Attorney General.
FRANCIS GRANGER, Postmaster General.

MILITARY MEETING. A large meeting of the military took place at 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Col. N. Hickman in the chair. The object of the meeting was to express their regret at the melancholy decease of President Harrison. It was unanimously resolved, that the First Military Association of Baltimore should attend the funeral of the President, extending an invitation to the officers and non-commissioned officers of the entire Light Division to join them.

Mr. Henry Dielman presented the association with an original Funeral March, composed expressly for the occasion. It was unanimously accepted, and is to be performed by the bands engaged by the committee of arrangement.

The association is to meet again this morning at 10 o'clock.

OUR CITY YESTERDAY. After the melancholy intelligence of President Harrison's death had been received in our city yesterday morning, a gloom seemed to pervade every countenance. The solemn truth was announced soon after the arrival of the Washington cars by the tolling of bells. This we have no doubt brought home the startling fact to hundreds ere they had left the couch of repose. The star spangled banner could be seen waving in various parts of our city. Its folds were drooping as if conscious that it had been forsaken by a devoted patriot, and Heaven lent tears that it might weep for the departed hero.

The most beautiful allusions, we have been informed, were made in relation to the President's death by those officiating in the various churches—many were unable to restrain the tear of sorrow. It was indeed a day of touching melancholy.

By the demise of General Harrison, JOHN TYLER, elected Vice President, becomes President of the United States, to serve for the balance of the term for which General Harrison was elected; and the president pro tem. of the Senate will act as Vice President.

ON THE DEATH OF WM. HENRY HARRISON, Late President of the United States.

(By J. H. NEWITT.)

The wall hath gone forth o'er the land of the free,
And the heart of the patriot chills at the cry;
Our banner hangs lowly o'er land and o'er sea
And the name of the hero is breathed with a sigh.

And hark! from the distance the heavy guns boom,
They once belch'd their thunder and flame on the foe;
And the iron-tongued knells out its music of gloom,
While the sturdy heart quails at the requiem of woe.

From the confines of Maine to the Sabine's wild flood,
From Atlantic's broad waves to the peaks of the west,
Shall the wall of a nation fill valley and wood,
And the hand of the freeman smite hard on his breast.

He stood like a monarch oak breathing the storm,
Which party had raised round the spot where it grew,
Unmoved were its branches, unshaken its form,
By the lightning that flashed or the whirlwind that blew.

The proud ship of state on a turbulent sea,
Like a feather was toss'd, while tempests o'erwhelm'd,
The crew look'd aghast at the rocks on her lee,
But Hope beam'd again when the sage took the helm.

The old man has gone—rich in honor and years,
A long life of glory, tho' still far too brief;
His foes are now silent—his friends are in tears,
And the rancor of party is smothered in grief.

Let him rest—let him rest, for the struggle is o'er,
The Giver of all hath sent forth his decree;
His voice shall be heard in our Councils no more,
But his epitaph's writ in the hearts of the free.

TEMPERANCE PROCESSION.

To-day, of the Washington and other Temperance Societies, and of deputations from other places, will be a cheering and delightful spectacle. It will exhibit the triumph of moral principle over self-indulgence; presenting an example elevating and instructive. It requires no ordinary degree of fortitude to relinquish the gratification of a propensity which, by indulgence, has been formed into a habit. The individual, therefore, who successfully makes the effort, deserves the highest commendation. The Washington Temperance Society originated with a few individuals who, convinced that total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, was not only conducive to health and the preservation of reputation, but was a duty enjoined by morality and religion, mutually pledged themselves to each other to abstain from their use. From this small beginning, the temperance cause has spread to an unexampled extent in this city; and now probably numbers thousands in its different associations.

The display of to-day will no doubt contribute to its further propagation. The object is meritorious, and the improvement of the moral and social condition the natural result. We anticipate much benefit to the community from the exertions of the friends of temperance—and we hope the day will arrive, when drunkenness will be considered so disreputable, that to be intoxicated will exclude the offender from respectable society. But we will not deliver a lecture on this subject, our only object being to express our satisfaction at the rapid progress of reformation, and to express the hope, that the procession of to-day will give it another impetus.

INTERESTING LECTURES. Professor Aikin will deliver at the Chemical Hall of the University of Maryland, this afternoon, at half-past five o'clock, the first of a course of Lectures on Chemistry. From the acknowledged talents of professor Aikin, and his intimate knowledge of the science of Chemistry, his lectures will possess great interest; and we advise all who desire to be informed on a subject so interesting and practically useful, particularly to mechanics in their daily application of chemical principles, to provide themselves with tickets.

MADAME RUTELL. This woman, says the N. Y. Sun of the 2d inst., was yesterday brought before Judge Inglis, on a writ of habeas corpus and an application for reduction of her bail, now fixed at $300, was made by her counsel, Messrs. Jordan and Morrill.

LETTERS WRITTEN. Some of the Washington political letter writers are disposing of appointments by wholesale. The correspondent of the New York Signal has the following: "Washington Irving has applied for the office of Secretary of Legation to London. And among those most spoken of for the mission to Austria, are Hoffman and Jenifer, of Maryland, Todd, of Kentucky, and Christopher, our present Charge d'Affairs at Stockholm. Cushing, of Massachusetts, is spoken of confidently for Spain. Gov. Cass will remain in France until Senator Preston's term expires. J. R. Jackson, of Philadelphia, a man of talents and elegant erudition, is talked of with much confidence, for Naples. Epes Sargent is to receive an attache to a foreign mission, for which he is eminently qualified. It is thought Philip Hone will receive the New York Post-office."

Another letter writer says, that "it is believed the Post Office Department is in arrears about a million of dollars," and charges Mr. Kendall with gross negligence in the discharge of his duties whilst Postmaster General. We doubt the correctness of this; for Mr. Kendall undoubtedly possesses fine talents and has the credit of having been industrious and vigilant. The same writer makes the national debt some forty millions of dollars. It must be remembered that these letters are from opponents of the late administration, and may be tinged by party feeling. As it is said that the new administration has opened a new set of books, it is supposed that the precise condition of things will be ascertained, and until that be done, it would be unjust to pass sentence of condemnation against any member of the late administration.

IMPORTANT DECISION. It has been decided in the Circuit Court of St. Louis, that the deprivation of a steamboat, or other vessel, from her regular route, except to save life, vitiated the policy of insurance, and released the insurers from liability. The case before the Court was that of the steamboat Rolls, sunk a few years since in the lower Mississippi. She had stopped a day or two to render assistance to the George Collier, aground upon a bar. After getting her off, she proceeded upon her voyage, was snagged, and sunk. The boat and cargo became a total loss. The owners of part of the cargo brought suit against the insurance office, for the recovery of the amount insured.

The decision of the Judge, (Mullanphy,) was against the right of the plaintiff to recover.

FIRE. A fire broke out on Friday evening between 7 and 8 o'clock, in a stable on Market alley, between Saratoga and Mulberry streets, the property of Mrs. Jenkins. The flames were discovered in time to prevent any serious injury, through the vigilance of the police. Two colored men were arrested on suspicion of having set the stable on fire, but after undergoing an investigation on Saturday morning before Justice McDonald, were discharged.

ANOTHER. The fire yesterday morning about 3 o'clock proceeded from the burning of a frame house at the corner of Lexington street and Market Alley. The house was occupied as a grocery store and shoemaker shop. We learn that the property was insured.

SIGNS OF DRUNKENNESS. The Rochester Democrat, in one of its police reports, lays down the following as signs of drunkenness which can hardly be mistaken:

"A man is considered drunk when he goes to the pump to light his pipe, or when he can't see a hole through a ladder, or when he lies in the gutter and cries out for some one to come and tickle him up, or when he goes home at night and can't put the key in the door, and swears some person has stolen the key hole, or when he attempts to wind up his watch with the boot jack."

PAINFUL. A son of the Rev. James S. Wood, of Lewistown, Millin county, Pennsylvania, last week accidentally fell into a creek, and was drowning, when a colored boy named Alexander Cunningham plunged in and succeeded in bringing the child to the shore. He was himself, however, so much exhausted with his efforts, that he sunk, and when recovered was a corpse.

SHIPWRECK—LOSS OF LIVES. We learn by a late arrival in New York, that the brig William Tell and two English schooners, were wrecked, and driven ashore near the Gate of Magadore, and that a captain and several seamen, besides three Moors who had gone to render assistance, were drowned.

The first Ark, or river craft, says the Columbia Spy of the 3d inst., made its appearance at our port on Sunday last. It was an ark laden with clover seed, hard, &c. and hails from Lewistown. Owing to the rapid rise of the river the trade necessarily is thrown back a short time, but it will nevertheless be a brisk business in the spring.

OLD SUBSCRIBERS. The Hartford Courant, the oldest paper except one in New England, has a subscriber who has taken that paper for forty-nine years. The father of the same person had taken it for twenty-seven years preceding, so that the paper had been in the family seventy-six years.

TOOK UP ON SUSPICION. A Mr. W. Sanford, brought charges against a Miss Kangirving, with numerous aliases, on Saturday last. He charged her with stealing $6,500 from his pantaloons pocket, while these purses were in one place, and himself in another. Justice Schaeffer not finding sufficient evidence, released the beautiful prisoner.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL. We have been informed by a correspondence, dated Annapolis, April 3d, 3 o'clock, P. M., that the bill to appropriate two millions of dollars to complete the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland, Md., has passed the House, by a vote of 37 to 34.

KILLED. A German named Fretter, was instantly killed in St. Louis, on the 2d ult., by being run over by the wheel of a cart.

REDCROSS EXPENSES. Thirteen clerks were discharged from the United States Bank on Tuesday last.

MARKET. Some of the Washington political letter writers are disposing of appointments by wholesale. The correspondent of the New York Signal has the following: "Washington Irving has applied for the office of Secretary of Legation to London. And among those most spoken of for the mission to Austria, are Hoffman and Jenifer, of Maryland, Todd, of Kentucky, and Christopher, our present Charge d'Affairs at Stockholm. Cushing, of Massachusetts, is spoken of confidently for Spain. Gov. Cass will remain in France until Senator Preston's term expires. J. R. Jackson, of Philadelphia, a man of talents and elegant erudition, is talked of with much confidence, for Naples. Epes Sargent is to receive an attache to a foreign mission, for which he is eminently qualified. It is thought Philip Hone will receive the New York Post-office."

FORGERY. The New York Signal says, Charles F. Mitchell, a representative in congress from the Niagara district, has been guilty of forgery. It seems he sold to the brokers of Wall street, "sundry checks purporting to be drawn by the Bank of Orleans, at Albion, on the State Bank at Albany," which he forged and endorsed. This late honorable member of congress has decamped for Texas, leaving behind him a letter to Col. Webb, which concludes as follows:

"I shall be pursued no doubt, but it will be useless. I shall not be brought back; for if I were to be overtaken, I have provided myself with two contingent friends, either of which will spare me the mortification of being brought back like a felon. Death were under any circumstances preferable to that."

We think it likely that Mr. Mitchell has been at either the gambling table or the stock board; and now, as a consequence, has to cut and run for Texas. Had he stood his ground, he would probably have had to make the exchange from Congress Hall to Sing Sing. His threat to shoot himself is ridiculous—for he who is so unprincipled as to commit a forgery, will not quit life from the dread of shame.

SHOCKING DEATH. A most distressing death occurred in Hartford on Saturday night 27th ult. Widow Catharine Seyma, while engaged about the domestic affairs of the house, and in the act of dipping some hot water from a kettle over the fire, was suddenly taken with a fainting fit, to which she was subject, and fell directly into the fire, upsetting the kettle, and scattering the hot water and embers over her. Being alone in the room at the time, her situation was not known until she was so dreadfully burnt on the neck, hands, and face, as to cause her death at four o'clock the next morning. She was 63 years of age.

Mr. Clapp, the officer who arrested Williamson the great burglar in Boston, and was instrumental in restoring the property of Messrs. Davis, Palmer & Co. received $500 reward and the present of a handsome gold watch, chain, seals, &c. valued at $150. It was through much persuasion that Mr. Clapp could be induced to accept the reward, stating as a reason that he was an officer, doing no more than a duty which he owed the community, for whose protection he was acting.

The steam ship Caledonia, Capt. McKellar, sailed from Boston Thursday afternoon, at two o'clock, with 33 passengers for Liverpool, and 13 for Halifax. Among the former was Sir George Arthur, late Lieut. Governor, and Deputy Governor of Upper Canada, who arrived here on the preceding day from Montreal. The steamer took out 3,300 letters, and 5,000 packages of newspapers.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA. The latest news from Florida is of the most cheering character. We have dates from Fort Armstrong to the 14th ult., and from St. Augustine to the 26th ult. The intelligence is that the Indians are coming in daily, expressing their willingness to emigrate. They say they are heartily tired of war, and pray the Great Spirit that it may speedily be closed.

FURTHER PARTICULARS. The Boston Transcript of a late date states that the notorious Williamson was arrested again to-day in this city, and committed on a charge of having broken into the office of Messrs. Gilbert & Sons, in Exchange street.

The greatest temperance meeting ever witnessed in Montreal took place on the 25th ult. 250 persons took the pledge in one day, one of whom was among the most extensive dealers in various kinds of liquors.

CHANGE OF HOUR. To-day the cars on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, will leave Philadelphia at half past seven o'clock in the morning, and at that hour daily thereafter.

LEGISLATURE. In the Senate of New York on Thursday, the further consideration of the Virginia resolutions was postponed for ten days.
