PLAN OF A FISCAL BANK OF THE U.S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, )

June 12, 1841. To the President of the Senate of the U. States: Sin: In obedience to the directions of the Senate, contained in their resolution of the 7th inst., the Secretary of the Treasury has prepared, and herewith submits, a plan of a Bank and Fiscal provision.

In the general plan and frame of said institution, he has endeavored to free it from the constitutional objections which have been urged the injury of the stockholders and the public, demic abated. against those herefore created by Congress, and and to prevent, likewise, false imputations when as far as practicable, without impairing its usefulness, to guard in its details against the abuses to which such institutions are liable. And he now respectfully submits it to the Senate, with the open to the inspection of the Secretary of the hope that, in the process of consideration and enactment, it may become what he did not presume to promise, but which he earnestly deires to see! in the possession of the nation, a Bank and Fiscal they think fit.
