

Daily Clipper

UNION PAPER

W. M. WALES

BALTIMORE

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1864

BALTIMORE

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1864

THE LATE PEACE PUBLISHER

It is believed with too serious a matter, the late peace publisher, and Colorado Jewett, in attempting to humbug our government, propaganda for the best joke of the day.

It is a pity to see, that a man of Mr. Jewett's good sense and sound judgment should for the moment have permitted himself to be used in any shape of form, by such consum-mate and well known political knaves as those who are so notorious, that it would have been supposed, and indeed is, that he would have been more conscientious than his character.

The Tribune editor, however, being honest himself, did not suppose it possible that any man or set of men, could deliberately attempt to cheat upon him, in such a connection, and more especially when he was aware of the fact, that the man who was to be passed off as the rebel "commissioner," was actually in the fact, as was known to the country, there was not a word of truth in the assertion.

The rebel "commissioner," like Jewett and Hanley, had no where in particular to go, and nothing to do, so they located themselves on the borders of Canada, waiting, MI-chance like, for something to turn up, when the worthy set their heads together to raise a "rebel," and if possible, help their good friends, the "commissioner," at their manipulation of Chicago for the procurement of a Presidential candidate.

This Jewett, whose impudence and cunning has enabled him to keep himself before the public for some time past, as a kind of roving commissioner in the wild west, was doubtless the most successful of any who have been successful in making so much of an advertising business as to attract some little notice from President Lincoln, as he is said to have done, (or rather as he himself has so practically) with the Emperor Napoleon, and for the moment, for the appointment of our readers. We would like to give the letters of this Jewett to President Lincoln and the Emperor Napoleon, but it would be giving too much prominence to such an unprincipled scoundrel, as to add to his notoriety. It is interesting to see, that in his letters he has in-

COMPLIMENTARY.—The following very handsome notice of our new enterprise, was taken from yesterday's issue of our immediate neighbor, the American. We assure our friends that the establishment, that the kindly words expressed are most cordially reciprocated, and we take pleasure in laying them before our readers.

THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.—We have neglected to notice the fact that this establishment has recently passed into the hands of William Water, Esq., the publisher, and that the editors, Messrs. T. H. and W. M. Wales, Esq., after twenty-five years' service, returned to the business.

Mr. Water, who has had extensive experience, having for three years been connected with the editorial department of the Baltimore American, is an able and elegant writer. The columns of the Clipper already bear a witness of his ability as a writer, and his energy and industry. We wish him all manner of success in his new enterprise, and have no doubt that the loyal citizens of Baltimore will and the Clipper great acceptable paper under his management.

THE APPEAL OF MR. FASSBENDER.—The appeal just made by the Secretary of the Treasury, for a new loan to the government, ad-draws itself with great force to every patriot in the land. The government could, if it would, obtain loans from foreign nations, but it is desirable that we shall not only fight this war out, without assistance from abroad, but also pay the expenses thereof from our own resources. To this end, we are anxious to see the government with all the money it requires, and the bonds are in such cases to enable all classes, from the humblest day laborer to the richest capitalist to take a portion of it. We hope every truly loyal man will make it a point of honor to participate in this loan, even if he has to dispose of other securities to enable him to do so, or make a change in other investments.

OUR BOURNEMOUTH.—In our last we gave an account of the raid upon which Gen.

Roussau had been sent by Gen. Sherman, to sever the communication by railroad between Atlanta and Montgomery, &c. It will be seen by the telegraphic dispatches, that

Gen. Roussau has returned, having most successfully fulfilled the trust entrusted to him.

The valor and importance of these operations upon the war in Georgia can only be appreciated by examining the map, and noting the route taken by Gen. Roussau. He must have travelled several hundred miles during the trip. Another expedition under Gen. Gerrard, it will be seen, has also been on a similar errand, and has safely returned, having likewise met with entire success.

DAY OF HONORIFICATION.—In accordance

A MAN LOST.—Fifteen hundred men in search for him—Last Saturday week, a young man who, with his horse and trailer, was near the Cambria county line, by the name of West, took a bucket of water, and was riding on to the house, when he was seized by a short-sighted man, who gathered some straw, and the parents becoming alarmed, gathered some twenty or thirty men, and the next day two or three hundred persons went to the mountains in quest of the missing man, and running through the mountain every day since, the numbers still increasing.

Yesterday, not less than fifteen hundred persons from various localities, were early in the morning for the Laurel Hill, to determine, if possible, to learn what has become of him. His father, John West, and his mother are almost distracted through the fearful suspense in regard to his whereabouts.

The Laurel Hill is a dense forest, near eight miles from the city of Baltimore, and is a full of deep ravines, whose tortuous windings form a labyrinth in which any one may be easily lost. The mountain is very high, and the vegetation is very dense. The men in search at night built fires at different points in the woods to attract, if possible, the attention of the missing man, and communicated to the leaves, and the whole mountain is now an extended field of fire. The searchers have used every means to find him, but he has not been discovered, and it is feared that he is still in the woods. The searchers are very anxious to find him, and are working hard to find him. The searchers are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

are very anxious to find him, and are

working hard to find him. The searchers

We have learned not to be astonished at any thing. Years of experience and a correspondence extending throughout all nationalities of the globe have convinced us that we need not be astonished at such things. We are not surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

surprised at such things. We are not

MARRIED.—On the 18th inst., by the Rev. F. Hinkle, Thomas Moore to Gertrude

Virginia Hawkins, youngest daughter of Charles Hawkins, both of Baltimore city.

BARRISTERS.—On the 18th inst., by the Rev. F. Hinkle, John M. Jones, William D. Barrett and John M. Jones, all of Baltimore.

DIED.—On the 18th inst., David C.

PERIN, suddenly, on the 18th inst., of chronic crop, 104 years old, daughter of Oliver and Mary C. Perin, aged 2 years and 2 days.

MULLEN.—On the 18th inst., Rose Green

MULLEN, aged 93 years.

BUCKLEY.—On the 18th inst., David C.

BUCKLEY, on the 18th inst., on the 10th month of his 23rd year, of Andrew T. and the late Mary A. Deane.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO THE FOURTEENTH WARD.

Citizens of the Fourteenth ward, are hereby notified that books for the purpose of issuing a regular meeting of the Ward Association, will be held at the residence of John A. Deane, on the 23rd inst., at 10 o'clock of the evening. The books are to be filled and the names of the members of the Association to be entered in the books. The books are to be filled and the names of the members of the Association to be entered in the

books. The books are to be filled and

the names of the members of the

Association to be entered in the

books. The books are to be filled and

the names of the members of the

Association to be entered in the

books. The books are to be filled and

the names of the members of the Association to be entered in the