MONDAY, AUGUST 1, 1864.

The usual quantity of telegraphic matter for this number, compels us to insert a large amount of miscellaneous news items, which otherwise would have been omitted.

Latest News from Europe.

Paris, July 30.—The same Bremen, from Southampton on the 29th, passed this point to day.

The Hildon and Hibernia arrived out on the 18th.

Petitions were presented in Parliament from Jamaica, protesting against the increase of the slave trade in Cuba.

The Austrians occupy Hah Island, on the west coast of Schleswig, and it is now in the possession of the allies.

Two suspicious looking craft having been seen off Italy, two Italian frigates have been ordered to intercept them.

An agreement has been made to suspend hostilities in Denmark until July 31st.

The Danish and allied gunboats had an engagement at Flod.

Consols closed at London on the 29th at 90 1/2.

The Rebel loan declined 7 per cent.

Stringent Orders from General Payne. Gen. H. Payne, commanding the 2nd division of Paducah into the surrounding country, to inform the people that every outrage committed upon the lives and property of Union men shall be followed by a similar treatment upon the rebel sympathizers.

Gen. Payne has directed that none but loyal shall trade in his district, and that no banks, except those at Cairo, shall pay out money or receive deposits without a special permit.

He has taxed the wealthy secessionists one hundred thousand dollars for the benefit of the families of the Union soldiers living in West Kentucky.

Funeral of Gen. McPherson. Sandusky, Ohio, July 29.—The funeral of Gen. McPherson took place today at Clyde, and was largely attended. The ceremonies were exceedingly impressive. The body was followed to the grave by four of his personal staff.

One company of the 13th infantry, the 24th Ohio from this city, and the 15th Ohio veteran infantry, from Johnson's Island, constituted the funeral escort.

Rev. T. F. Milford delivered the funeral address, which was listened to with great interest. Among the mourners were the mother, grandmother, two sisters, two brothers, and other relatives of the deceased. The number of persons present was estimated at ten thousand.

Rebels at Leesburg—Cavalrymen Golebied up.

Washington, July 30.—Yesterday a detachment of twenty-eight men, of the 16th New York cavalry, were sent on a reconnaissance, when they unexpectedly encountered a force of the enemy, and nine of the cavalrymen were captured by the rebels, when last heard from, was at Ashby Gap, with two hundred men and two cannon.

Regulations in regard to Re-enlistment. Washington, July 30.—A circular has been issued by the Adjutant General's Office, that on and after the date of the date of re-enlistment, less than sixty days, will be permitted to re-enlist for one, two or three years, as they may in each case elect.

The new term will commence from the date of re-enlistment. The re-enlistment of the increased term will be made under the following regulations: When 70 men re-enlist in the regiment to which they belong, the re-enlistment will be maintained, and the officers thereof allowed to retain their rank held by them under the one hundred day term.

Should less than seven hundred men re-enlist in the same regiment, said force will be organized into one or more companies of the same strength, and officers by the Adjutant General's Office, and the date of re-enlistment, less than sixty days, will be permitted to re-enlist for one, two or three years, as they may in each case elect.

From the Upper Potomac. Harper's Ferry, July 29, 2 P. M.—[Special to the Chronicle.] The movements of the raiders were a little known to military authorities here as to the general military movements of the rebels. Where they are, what doing, or intending to do, we can learn from the reports of our scouts, every scout of information we can say confidently that they are still in the area.

They have a number of thrashing machines in operation at several points, and do not intend to be driven from their work.

The expedition here, they are supposed to be from Martinsburg and Winchester, but their rear guard has not left Martinsburg.

Miscellaneous bands of rebel cavalry are said to have appeared near the river at Point of Rocks and other points.

The distance from Martinsburg to the Point of Rocks is about thirty miles, and it is believed that the rebels intend to force our columns to retreat to the north side of the river, and then to intercept them there.

The major part of their forces will be found ready for a battle between Martinsburg and Winchester.

There is no boasting among officers or men here as to the result of our movements towards Washington. It is felt that the rebels will be regarded by many as hardly likely to be successful in their present operations, and that they should be prepared for any contingency.

It is to be hoped, at least, that the raiders will be intercepted in their work of gathering supplies, and that they will be unable to accomplish much more of their present operations, and to them, most essential performance.

The movements of the forces here and hence, so far as we can obtain knowledge of the same, indicate that an early collision is confidently expected, and that whether the result will be a simple retreat, or a more decisive engagement, remains to be seen.

We have just learned that General Crook was given his brevet rank, and placed in command of the troops of this expedition under the latter. The forces Hunter still chief in command of the troops.

It has been ascertained that Col. Mulligan is not dead, but badly wounded, and is still in the hands of the enemy. We also learn that the rebel men, who were captured and paroled, are being held by the rebels, and that they are being treated with great cruelty.

Army of the Potomac.

BRANDON HERRMAN, July 28.—[Correspondence Philadelphia.] The Second Corps has again had an encounter with the enemy on new ground, and, as usual, has come out ahead. Four very fine twenty-pound Parrott guns, with well-filled caissons, and a number of prisoners, stated at about once the constitute the trophies won by them, and form not a bad day's work.

The total loss of the corps during the day (yesterday) will probably not exceed one hundred men. It will be reported here after the arrival of the Army of the Potomac before Petersburg.

General Foster's brigade of the 1st Cavalry was thrown across the James river at Deep Bottom, which is about three miles south of New Market, and distant from Richmond, in a direct line, about ten miles. This brigade of General Foster's has since then held the ground on the banks of the James, forming the extreme right of our extended front of General Butler's forces by a ponton bridge. This bridge spans the river just above the mouth of Four Mile Creek. Some days ago another bridge was constructed about half a mile below the other bridge, and a brigade of the Nineteenth Corps, with the 1st Cavalry, moved to the right of the bridge, and with its left on Four Mile Creek, having the James in considerable skirmishing with the enemy.

The construction of this second bridge, and the occupation of the opposite bank of the river, were the preliminary of a more important movement, the one which has now taken place. It would be contraband, as yet, to state the nature of the movement, but it is thought that the movement is a strategic one, and that it will be of great importance.
