

LOCAL NEWS.

The funeral of Mr. Streeter—Mayor Chesman yesterday, upon learning of the death of the above named gentleman, issued notices to the members of both branches of the City Council, requesting them to assemble in their Chambers at 5 P. M., for the purpose of paying a proper tribute to the memory of the deceased, and making arrangements for the funeral.

Reported for the Baltimore Clipper. BALTIMORE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION. ANNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24, 1864. The Convention met at 10 o'clock. Present: Hon. J. H. Goldsborough, President, and 60 members.

Limiting Debate.—The order limiting the debate on the Judiciary Department to thirty minutes to each member was recomended, and amended so as to limit the time of each speaker to ten minutes, and providing that no extension of the time should be allowed without the consent of two-thirds of the members, and adopted.

Section 3.—The Judges of the Court of Appeals shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 12.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 13.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 14.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 15.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 16.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 17.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Section 18.—The Judges or Judges of any court shall hold office for six years, and the term of office shall be six years, and the consent of the Senate, shall designate the Chief Justice, and the Judge of the Judicial Circuit shall be designated by the Senate.

Meeting of the Union City Convention.

This body assembled last night in Temperance Temple, The President, James Young, Esq., stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of hearing the report of the committee appointed to consider what action, if any should be taken in view of the action of the State Electoral Convention, reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and fastened upon the Convention which was capable of this dastardly and dishonest proceeding the responsibility of dividing the Union sentiment of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

Resolved, That the action of the State Electoral Convention, which excluded the legally elected delegates of the City Convention, as reported in the issue of the 21st inst., is a gross violation of the rights of the citizens of the city, and that the members of the Convention, in excluding the delegates from the city, have virtually, and did intend positively, to disfranchise one-third of the voting population of the State, and of forcing upon the alternative of the Administration of the Government, the Sixth Corps forming its right, near Charles Creek, and the cavalry of Wilson in its front.

GENERAL SHERIDAN'S POSITION AND POLICY.

General Sheridan, who has been thus far known, chiefly as a rapid, dashing cavalry officer, albeit an infantry officer in the regular army, has now been manifested by the independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

LATEST NEWS ITEMS.

A Good Idea.—At the House Arms House, Massachusetts, the manager of the firm has his sons regularly with stand, which he considers superior to any other substance for the purpose of cleaning arms, and is upon the point of introducing it into the market. It is a good idea, and is an excellent substitute for the old method of cleaning arms with sand and oil.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

General Sheridan's position and policy. The independent commander of a separate army. We should not be misled, however, by the fact that he is a cavalry officer, but that he is a general, and that his movements have been timely, skilful, prudent and far-sighted, and that if he rebel labored under the delusion that he was going to do great things, he has not yet done them.

Progress of New Jersey.

Probably no part of New Jersey is more rapidly developing (says the Newark Advertiser) than the extreme southern portion of Atlantic and Cape May. During the last few years immense tracts of woodland in that region have been cleared and prosperous settlements established, and the productive farms are now cultivated, furnishing the New York and Philadelphia markets every variety of produce, and the means of communication.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

General Hood, the rebel commander at Atlanta, is said to have been ordered to march from the rebel camp in which he has been hurled his troops against Sherman's army, it would seem that he means that the few survivors of his soldiers shall have more legs and arms to boast of than himself.

MINIATURE ALMANAC FOR 1864. Table with columns for Month, Day, and Moon's Phase.

MARINE AFFAIRS.

PORT OF BALTIMORE, August 24, 1864.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

ARRIVED. Steamer Louisiana, Porter, from Old Point to Fall. Steamer Franklin, Young, from New York to A. Shriver.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS. Table with columns for Stock Name and Price.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS. Table with columns for Stock Name and Price.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS. Table with columns for Stock Name and Price.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS. Table with columns for Stock Name and Price.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS. Table with columns for Stock Name and Price.