> Repairing the "B. and O. R. R." During the week just closed the initiatory steps were taken toward repairing the damages caused by the recent rebel raids on the Baltimore and Ohio' Railroad, and although the attempt proved abortive it shows a spirit of enterprise and energy highly commendable to the company and its indefatigable master of transportation, Mr. W. P. Smith. A detail of 100 men, from the One Hundred and Tixty-fifth New York Volunteers, under com-Five belts, two of which were 28 mand of Capt. John P. Morris, were sentout commenced. While engaged in preparing The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for operations the master of the corps reger equipment and the liability of being called rebels had avain gained possession of that upon to move large bodies of troops, has de- town. Sherily after stray cavalrymen came termined not to issue excursion tickets to any | in stating that Averill had fallen back to Lectown, but that no rebels were yet in sight. The Construction Corps chief, finding it impossible to telegraph to the Ferry or Baltitimore, owing to the wires being employed in carrying military dispatches, determined reluctantly to abandon for the present his projected plan of repair and return. The guard also received instructions to come back with the train. I understand that the damages on the section of the road traveled over by the corps are not of a serious nature, but it is thought that it will prove otherwise above and near Martinsburg. Vast preparations have been going on for some weeks past for the speedy opening of this important road, as soon as it was deemed safe to make the Cabmen can't cheta in l'aris. They attempt.
