of Hr. Lincoln which will be an example for the statesmen of America in all time to come, and that is his brave honesty in dealing with the exigencies of his position with regard to this glgantic war. It was considered pretty nearly a certainty by the cowardly lovers of tresson, the brawling secesh demagogues, that in fear of the possible effect upon the Presidential election, Mr. Lincoln would not call for or enforce the draft; but we see his in this, as in other cases, consulting only the both of this city needs of the country, and marching up to the line of his duty, where politicians of the Buchanan school would have wavered and trembled for their position, finally to have fallen back on some wretched expedient. For a public man there could hardly be a stronger test. At the time be ordered the draft, he was confronted with the utmost enmity and virulence by all the enemies of the Union in the country, who at that period really presented a formidable front. Not yet divided and quarrelling amongst themselves, they confidently reckoned upon success, and they calculated largely as one principal element of it, the disaffection of those called upon to enter the army and give the finishing stroke to the war. All along they had howled over the tyranny of the policy of drafting, although for the relent less and wholesale conscription of old men in the face of the long line of the disaffected then drawn up in solid column as his deadly opponents. But no shrinking was observed on the part of the President. He knew the country needed the men to save it from destruction, he felt that he could trust the people patriotism of the country, that cemagegues | bodyhave been badly disappointed and the country |

other desperate emergencies has Mr. Lincoln | mild and Thotifat in ... tolcest materials, is been equal to the needs of the occasion. What if at every measure of "coercion" almost, a herce howl of disapprobation has been raised by the sympathizers with treason subsidized in the loyal States by the Richmond traitors as the rear-guard of the rebellion? What if, as howling traitors have been arrested in their mischievous movements, new clamor has again and again stunned the ears of loyal men, provoking now fears and disaffection amongst the weak and short sighted as to Speer, of New Jersey. possible events? Fearlesly has he walked market and guaranteed to be exclusively preonward in the line of his duty, breaking down one after another the obstacles thrown in his as superior to port in debinty, languor, and in way by an ingenious and unscrupulous gang | cases of prestration of strength. It is also an exof traitors, until now all men can see the cellent restorative for indigestion. Numerous wisdom of his policy, and can appreciate the noble determination, the brave perseverance | terms of approbation of the healthy and invigorago escential in one relied upon as the champion of the assailed and endangered Union.

It is pleasant to know at this time that had he yielded on numberless occasions to the colish as to leave the city without a amprly of freaks of his subordinates in the field, or to Whoever does so will deeply regret it. TASHEESH CANDY. HASHEESH CANDY,

Dear Sir-I wish to inform you by this writing that I have been suffering with Asthma in its worst form for 50 years, spending within that time hundreds of sleepless nights in the most suffering manner. Everything failed to give relief until I obtained a box of HASHEESH CAN-DY, which proved the most wonderful curative agency I ever used, relieving me immediately whenever attacked by the disease. Often I have been so severely attacked that I could with great difficulty breathe at all, and was incapable of lying down at night, having such terrible smoth ering sensations. Medical men of all schools failed to afford the least relief. Without much hope I resorted to this wonderful Candy in Jannary, 1864, ever since which time I have slept without the least trouble by using some whenever threatened by an attack, and am thankful that such a remedy is to be found. I recommend it to all sificted by Asthma, Rose Cold, Hay Fever, or diseases of that class. JOHN R. WILKER 11th District Baltimore Co., Maryland. Hathersh Candy cures a cold in one night. Hasheesh Candy cures screness in throat or Hasheesh Candy lulls pain, induces sleep and
